Americans Reply With Own Plays In Berlin Strategy

CONTEST OF NERVE

BRITISH SAY THEY WON'T BE BULLIED BY TACTICS

BERLIN, Sunday, April 4.—(AP)—Eight armed Russian guards early today quit the Soviet military railroad headquarters in the American sector of Berlin which has been surrounded by American military police.

BERLIN, April 3.—(AP)—Britain and the United States presented a stiffening front to Soviet pressure today and the Americans made two power moves of their own in the contest for Berlin.

American military police who surrounded the Soviet railway administration building in the U. S. sector blocked about 40 Russians from entering the offices where the Soviet zone rail network is directed.

Then they set up a road control point where Soviet officers motor from their homes to Potsdam to their offices in down-town Berlin and for four hours subjected Russian traffic to inspection.

The British, through Deputy Military Governor, Maj. Gen. Nevil C. D. Brownjohn, bluntly declared "we will show the Russians that we are not going to be bullied."

"It is quite clear," he told a news conference, "the Russians do not like our being in Berlin and they are trying to make our position untenable."

The British foreign office spokesman in London said however, that the sit-

LABOR FEDERATION IN ANNUAL MEET

Six Hundred Delegates And Visitors Expected For Formal Opening Tomorrow

LAKE CHARLES, La., April 3.—(AP)—Six hundred Louisiana Federation of Labor delegates and visitors are expected here tomorrow for the start of the 36th annual convention Monday.

The four-day session ends Thursday.

Various state labor groups—electricians, plumbers, printers, painters—already are deep in pre-convention organizational parleys, setting the stage for their convention roles.

The important resolutions committee meets Sunday. Its decisions on the many resolutions seeking convention airing largely will shape the course delegates will take.

Federation President E. H. Williams says word has been received that the assistant U. S. secretary of labor, John T. Kmetz, will address the delegates.

Also scheduled to speak are President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, Gov. Jimmie Davis, Gov.-Designate Earl K. Long, and Lt. Gov.-Designate William J. Dood.

Others on the speaking list include the A. F. of L. southern director, George L. Googe, and his assistant, Joseph D. Keenan; Dr. Joel Fletcher, president of Southwestern Louisiana Institute, and H. T. Colvin, associate director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

Louisiana attorneys and businessmen who have accepted invitations to speak, include Russell B. Long of Baton Rouge, Frank B. Ellis of New Orleans, former State Sen. Ernest Clements, Roland B. Howell of the United States Brewers Foundation, and Justin Wilson of Baton Rouge.

Draft, UMT Action Expected In Week

Senate Armed Services Committee Promise Solons Plan By Friday Since E. R. P. Program Cleared Away

WASHINGTON, April 3.—(AP)—Spurred by Russia's fast-breaking moves, the Senate armed services committee today gave itself less than a week to decide what to do about universal military training and reviving the draft.

The committee wound up three weeks of public hearings today. Chairman Gurney (R.-S. D.) told reporters he hopes his group can send legislation to the Senate by next Friday. Committee sessions behind locked doors will start Tuesday.

Gurney declined to forecast just how far the committee will go in meeting the administration request for both U. M. T. and the draft in the preparedness drive. But the North Dakota Senator had said previously that at least 10 of the 13 committee members favored the proposed program in principle.

Asked by newsmen just why he was pressing for a quick decision, Gurney said:

"In these times, with Russia making moves fast, anything that is good for the country is not so good if it is delayed."

Gurney himself has said he is for U. M. T. "as strong as horseradish."

Signal honors recently came to three former Northeast Junior College coeds who transferred to Louisiana State University to continue study. Beverly Bogan of Castor won the coed vice-president position in the student body election. She, along with other winning candidates, will take office at the Honors Day Convocation this month. Miss Bogan won recognition in scholarship and student activities while she was on the local college campus. Her photographs appeared in the N. J. C. yearbook as a Chacahoula Beauty, one of the eight students chosen for "Who's Who at N. J. C.," as Queen of the Valentine Ball, member of the Purple Jackets and Phi Theta Kappa, national junior college honorary society. She also was editor of the Pow Wow during her last semester here, and she was one of the ten "Big Shots" chosen in an annual student election sponsored by the Pow Wow.

Two Monroe girls, Mary Helen Walker and Martha Ann Scott, were elected to membership in Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary society. This is the highest academic honor that can come to a student at L. S. U. Miss Walker held many offices and membership in student organizations at N. J. C. She was vice-president of Phi Theta Kappa and Cosmopolitan

GOES FOR APRIL FOOL IN BIG WAY

McCOMB, Miss., April 3.—(AP)—The McComb Enterprise-Journal said 15 carloads of Pike county hounds were going to be shipped to Venezuela for use on farms there.

The paper said it with a page one banner headline and a 1,000-word story carrying the by-line of the Enterprise-Journal publisher, Oliver Emmerich.

Near the end, the story related that the dogs were being taught to bay, "April foo-o-o-o-l-l-l-l."

Yes, it was the April 1 edition.

DEMOCRATIC CROSS-VOTING MUDDLES WISCONSIN ISSUE

MILWAUKEE, April 3.—(AP)—The possibility of heavy Democratic cross-voting clouded today the outcome of next Tuesday's choice of Wisconsin's 27 GOP presidential nominating delegates.

Unlike some other areas, President Truman is sure of the backing of 24 state Democratic delegates. Except for an intra-party organization fight, Democrats will have little interest in their own ticket primary day.

Under Wisconsin law, the voter can cross party lines without any trouble. The supposition here is that non-organization Democrats will do that in big numbers.

And that's the catch, so far as the Republican presidential hopefuls are concerned.

Backers of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota all admitted privately they don't know how the Democrats will vote.

In the 1944 primary the top delegate for the late President Roosevelt polled 11,926 votes. The top Republican delegate, supporting Dewey, got 143,031 votes. Dewey won the state in November with 674,532 votes to Roosevelt's 650,413.

MacArthur's supporters recently have been bidding openly for Democratic support. George E. Brent of Greendale, former Democratic committeeman from that area, announced the formation of a Democrats for MacArthur club.

Stassen told a reporter before he left for a Chicago speech tonight that he hopes to get a major share of the cross-over votes. But he said no one

URGE ADMISSION OF ITALIANS TO UNITED NATIONS

TRANS-JORDAN ENTRANCE ALSO PART OF PROJECT

LAKE SUCCESS, April 3.—(AP)—The western powers demanded again today the admission of Italy and Trans-Jordan into the United Nations.

Both countries have been blocked twice by Soviet Russian vetoes.

The three powers—the United States, France and Britain—indicated they want the membership issue settled immediately.

The demand came just two weeks after the three powers called for the return of Trieste to Italy and two weeks before the crucial Italian elections.

Moscow has not tipped its hand yet on the Trieste question. There was immediate speculation here that Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet deputy foreign minister, would be guided on the Italian application by the Soviet reaction to the Trieste proposal.

He is expected to veto Trans-Jordan a third time.

Warren R. Austin, chief United States delegate; Alexandre Parodi, head of the French delegation, and Valentine G. Lawford, membership expert of the British delegation, signed a letter to Dr. Alfonso Lopez, of Colombia, president of the security council this month, asking reconsideration.

They requested that the membership applications of Italy and Trans-Jordan be placed now on the provisional agenda of the security council.

They said that the 1947 assembly had

BOGOTA DELEGATES UNITE IN CRISIS

First Week Of Deliberation Shows That American Nations Stand Together

BOGOTA, Colombia, April 3.—(AP)—The delegates of 21 American republics wound up their first week of deliberations here today determined to stand together in the present world crisis.

There is probably five weeks of hard work ahead. But the delegates attending the Pan-American conference already have declared their unity of purpose.

The conference faces the issues of communism and foreign colonies in the western hemisphere, economic problems and reorganization of the Pan-American system. Although there are opposing views on these issues, the spirit of compromise has prevailed and up to now there has been no serious disagreements.

Secretary of State George C. Marshall's statement that the European recovery program will have first call on the United States pocket book caused the Latin-Americans some disappointment.

But the Soviet blockade of Berlin increased support within the conference for the European recovery program. It also increased the desire of some delegates to put teeth into some sort of project to control subversive activities by Communists in the western hemisphere.

In addition Argentina has come forward with her own type of Marshall plan designed to keep the economies of Latin-American countries going until the United States is able to give them increased assistance.

Purchases for the European recovery program in Latin-America are expected to improve the positions of some of the republics. Enactment of ERP by Congress cleared the way for the American delegates to inform the

ISACSON WILL SEEK PALESTINE PERMIT

NEW YORK, April 3.—(AP)—Rep. Leo Isacson of New York, refused a passport to attend an international conference in Paris, said tonight he will ask the state department for permission to go to Palestine.

The American Labor party congressman said the department's refusal to allow him to attend the Paris parley on aid to Greece demonstrated that "this country is in danger not from abroad, but right here at home."

The state department announced last night it had turned down Isacson's passport request on grounds that his attendance at the Paris meeting was not in the interests of the U. S. government.

The state department said the Paris gathering would bring together members of committees organized in "most eastern European countries" to supply material and morale aid to Greek guerrilla forces.

CONGRESS TURNS TAX SLASH UPON EXCISE, LEVIES

New Bill May Reduce The Overall Take Of Revenue By More Millions

REVENUE STRUCTURE UP FOR GENERAL REVISION

WASHINGTON, April 3.—(AP)—Congressional tax framers turned today to legislation revising excise and corporation levies, after passing a $4,800,000,000 cu tfor individual income taxpayers.

The new bill may reduce the overall tax take by more millions of dollars.

Chairman Knutson (R-Minn) announced that the ways and means committee next week will tackle the job of writing a general revision of the tax statutes, particularly the excise field, "to iron out inequities."

Knutson wrote the bill to cut $4,800,000,000 cut for individual income taxes, which Congress passed yesterday over President Truman's veto.

Knutson told reporters, "if we can afford it we should eliminate the excises on transportation and communications." Moreover, he said he would

WALLACE BLASTS FOREIGN POLICY

Charges Truman Likening Situation To 1941 Is 'A Serious Error'

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 3.—(AP)—Henry A. Wallace said tonight that President Truman's recent speech likening the international situation to that prevalent in 1941 "was a serious error."

The third party presidential candidate said in a speech prepared for delivery at the founding convention of the Progressive party of Connecticut:

"It is a matter of life or death to millions of us to understand just how wrong Mr. Truman is in this comment on recent and current history."

The chief executive said in a speech in Washington on Monday "There are certain things which are worse than war. One of them is slavery. That's what we were faced with in 1940 and 1941. We are faced with almost exactly the same situation today."

In reply Wallace said "the men who make the statement that the situations in 1941 and 1948 are almost exactly the same are trying, first of all, to sell the idea that Nazi Germany and Soviet Russia are almost identical."

That, he said, "is not only a stupid statement, it is a criminal statement. It is a myth. It was created by men who know that Nazi Germany and Soviet Russia are quite different."

Unlike the Fascist dictatorships, he

CLINE RESIGNS AS SHERIFF'S DEPUTY

Frank Cline, who recently announced his candidacy for commissioner of streets and parks in the Democratic primary next May, yesterday said that he had resigned his position as deputy sheriff of Ouachita parish, effective April 15.

Mr. Cline, who has had long experience in business and public life since he came to Monroe some 30 years ago, has been chief deputy under Sheriff Milton Coverdale for many years, handling criminal cases largely.

Mr. Cline said he would devote his entire time to his campaign when he severs his connection with the sheriff's office.

PRESIDENT KEEPS TEMPO OF ACTION ON FOREIGN PLAN

Bill Signed Into Law Less Than 24 Hours After Congress Approval

ITALIANS ALMOST CERTAIN TO GET 1ST EXPENDITURES

WASHINGTON, April 3.—(AP)—With a speed almost unknown in peacetime President Truman signed the six-billion-dollar, stop-Russia foreign aid bill into law today less than 24 hours after Congress rushed it through final passage.

"This measure," he told the world in a statement, "is America's answer to the challenge facing the free world today."

Thus after 10 months of argument the United States finally embarked shortly after noon on the unprecedented Marshall plan for European recovery—this nation's biggest helping-hand operation since wartime lend-lease.

Russia is pledged to wreck the whole thing if she can and diplomats expect rough Soviet counter action.

The gigantic task of shoring up western Europe, the Middle East and China against Russian Communism will start Monday morning on a high speed emergency schedule. The state department presumably will be in charge at the start until the regular organization is set up.

Five nations stand to benefit from the very first expenditures, officials said. They are Italy, France, Austria, Greece and the Netherlands where the need is great and the dollar supply low. First shipments to them under the new law probably will be food, fuel and some industrial raw materials.

DE GASPERI ASSURES VOTERS CHANCE TO PEACEFUL BALLOT

ROME, April 3.—(AP)—Timid voters received the Italian government's assurance today that 330,000 armed men will guarantee their freedom to vote in the crucial April 18 parliamentary election.

Interior Minister Mario Scelba said in a radio address that the government has equipped 150,000 men with the most modern armament and prepared them to meet force with force. The army, navy, air force and the police contributed men to this huge shock group.

In addition another 180,000 troops will be assigned to guard Italy's hundreds of voting places, Scelba said. There will be four men at each booth Scelba told his fellow countrymen they must choose between communism and democracy and said:

"Do not fear ghosts which have been called to keep you away from the polls. Freedom to vote will be guaranteed."

Romans already are aware of some of the strength at the disposal of Premier Alcide de Gasperi's cabinet. During the day approximately 25,000 members of the armed services gathered in Rome for the parade tomorrow honoring the reactivation of the Sardinian grenadiers division.

Starting in the shadow of the Coliseum, the troops will pass in review before thousands of Romans, including Communists hoping for victory in the election. The military attache of the Russian embassy has been invited to witness the parade along with the American, British and French officers.

While the government was preparing this show of strength, police searched for hidden arms.

The rightist newspaper Giornale D'Italia said police found red kerchiefs, Russian military berets and

Miners Given Last Decision

Presidential Action Seeking Court Order Occurs After Board Calls Lewis' Action Strike Cause

WASHINGTON, April 3.—(AP)—Federal Judge Matthew F. McGuire tonight signed a temporary injunction against both the coal mine operators and the miners in the three-weeks old soft coal walkout. The injunction ordered the coal miners to go back to work at once.

It also directed the operators to take the necessary steps to compose and settle their pension fund differences with John L. Lewis' Union.

The order was signed by Judge McGuire in his apartment at 7:30 p. m., EST. It will continue in effect until April 13, 7:30 p. m., EST. The hearing on whether to extend the temporary injunction will be held on April 12 at 10 a. m.

The judge's action climaxed a busy day, during which:

1. Lewis told his idle fellow members of the United Mine Workers that it was up to them whether to work.

2. A presidential board of inquiry reported that Lewis was responsible for the three weeks old coal mine walkout.

3. President Truman directed Attorney General Tom Clark to seek an injunction restraining the miners from striking for 80 days.

The presidential decision was made on the basis of a report submitted him by a fact finding board.

The three-man board, headed by Judge Sherman Minton, blamed the idleness of the 400,000 soft coal miners on John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers.

But shortly before Mr. Truman had disclosed his course of action Lewis had again disclaimed, in a public message, any responsibility for the crippling work stoppage.

Lewis said the miners acted of their own accord as a protest against delay in setting up miners' pension benefits.

And Lewis, in his message, said the coal diggers could suit themselves about going back to work.

This raised some possibility the miners may return to their pits Monday. Many coal operators said they thought the men would go back, in view of Lewis' message, but union sources in the coal fields privately said they doubted it.

One union man in West Virginia put it this way:

"From what the miners themselves

Alabama City Sits On Ammo

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., April 3.—(AP)—With some apprehension this university town learned today that a veritable ammunition dump had been carted into the heart of the business district as scrap iron and steel.

The discovery stemmed from an investigation into an explosion last Tuesday at the Charles Temerson and Sons Scrap Yard. At that time a "dud" blew up and hurled an empty 155 MM shell casing over two blocks to crash through the roof of a downtown department store.

An army bomb disposal squad moved in to take charge of the scrap. Beneath one pile they found loaded shell caps, anti-tank rockets, rifle grenades and bazooka rockets, all very much "alive."

Major Gen. Claire Chenault has been extended an invitation to lead the parade.

DUST STORMS HIT MIDWEST AGAIN

CHICAGO, April 3.—(AP)—Nature shook a loaded dust mop over parts of Texas, Kansas, South Dakota, Oklahoma and Nebraska Saturday.

Farmers said the dust storm that struck western Kansas was the worst since the dust bowl days of the 30's.

Heavy winds with dust blowing were reported in the winter wheat belt of Oklahoma around Enid.

FINNISH CABINET IN CRUCIAL MEET

Expect Final Answer To Russian Military Pact Drafted In Session

HELSINKI, Finland, April 3.—(AP)—Finland's leaders decided today, after a week of deliberation, on their answer to the security pact requested by the Soviet Union to complete its chain of alliances from the Black sea to the Arctic.

The cabinet met with President Juho Paasikivi at the presidential palace in what was described by responsible sources as a decisive session.

An official statement said additional instructions were approved which will be sent to the Moscow delegation that has received a Soviet draft of a proposed friendship and military agreement.

Urho Kekkonen and J. O. Soederhjelm, the two delegates who returned here for the detailed discussions, will go back to Moscow on a Russian plane Sunday and take the new instructions with them.

The 78-year-old Paasikivi appeared very tired and strained after the lengthy consultations with cabinet, parliamentary party chairmen and personal advisors, informants said.

LONG SAYS REBELS PUSHING TOO HARD

BROWNWOOD, Tex., April 3.—(AP)—Earl Long, governor-elect of Louisiana said today he believes President Truman is being "pushed too hard" by southern political leaders who have revolted against his civil rights legislative program.

"I'm not in any revolt, but am opposed to the F. E. P. C.," Long said in an interview. A permanent fair employment practice act is one of the proposals in the president's program.

Long, returning to Louisiana after a vacation in Arizona, visited here overnight with friends he knew when he was a baking powder salesman in West Texas in 1916-18. He registered here for the World War One draft.

Long, who takes office May 11, said he expects harmony in Louisiana politics. He was accompanied here by Capt. Billy Bisso, New Orleans tugboat and ferry operator; Cliff Lile of Lake Charles and Waldo Cockerham of Denham Spring, La.

ARMY RESERVE UNITS ACTIVATED

381st Evacuation Hospital Continues History Of Earlier Group

With the recent activation of the 381st Evacuation Hospital, semi-mobile, a unit of the organized reserve corps, a chapter, apparently closed in February, 1946, was reopened. The 381st is entitled to the history of the 114th Evacuation Hospital, semi-mobile, and therefore represents a direct continuation of that organization.

The 114th Evacuation Hospital was activated in February, 1944, at Camp Shelby, Miss. It was successively assigned to the Third and Second armies. The training period extended to November, 1944, when the hospital was transferred to Camp Myles Standish, Mass., preparatory to overseas shipment. The landing on English soil was effected December 12, 1944.

After a stay of brief duration during which the unit was awarded battle credit for the central Europe campaign, France was reached February 6, 1945. Nearly a year later, while in Germany, the 114th was placed on the inactive list.

The main purpose of the 381st Evacuation Hospital, is to furnish training for members of army organized reserves in this area. While headquarters will be in Monroe, La., all qualified officer personnel o the medical, dental, nurse and medical service corps as eligible for assignment as long as vacancies exist in the tables of organization. Members of the enlisted reserve corps may also be assigned though it is necessary to secure the permission of the individual. At the present time efforts are being made to recruit certain medical specialists, nurses and enlisted men. Anyone interested is urged to contact Major Theodore Leonard, unit instructor, organized reserve corps, third floor Post Office Building in Monroe.

It is anticipated that interest in organized reserve activities will experience a tremendous upsurge due to the mminent passage of the inactive duty pay bill. When finally signed by President Truman, as it undoubtedly will be, the corps will be placed on a pay basis essentially on a par with other reserve elements of the fighting forces. New regulations concerning promotion should also have a salutory effect on the concern of those who regard peacetime training as an essential to the rapid placement of an effective force in the field in time of emergency.

The hospital is presently under the command of Col. A. Scott Hamilton. Physicians of Monroe assigned to the unit include Major Cyril T. Yancey, Major Alfred R. Brin, Major Vincent J. Sampognaro, Major Robert M. Simonton and Capt. Jack M. Mosely. Dentists from the city are Major Sodus A. Collins and Major James G. Henry. Medical service corps officers include Capt. Clell J. Windham, Capt. Eugene E. Lutz, First Lt. Francis J. Hayes, First Lt. Julius McKnight and First Lt. Larkin Bernard.

Officers from the surrounding communities are as follows: Rayville, La., Major James E. Ball, First Lt. Joseph C. Ellington and Major Herman E. Driskell (corps of chaplains); Gilbert, La., Major John N. Bostick; Tallulah, La., Major Benjamin P. Folk, Jr.; Winnsboro, La., Major Newell E. McElwee, Jr., and Major Hollis T. Rogers; Ruston, La., Major Vanda A. Davidson; and Jonesboro, La., Major John R. Harlow.

There is no charge for the course as this is one of the Red Cross nutrition services available to help educate the community on better breakfasts for everyone.

Also present were Mrs. W. J. Veazey, Red Cross executive secretary, and Mrs. H. W. McKenzie, who is Girl Scout troop leader for several of the members of this class. Through her cooperation transportation of the girls to Red Cross headquarters for these classes was arranged.

At the conclusion of the meeting Mrs. Nicol served punch and homemade cookies to those present.

Does Stomach Gas and Bloat Make You Feel Miserable?

If so, here is how you may get blessed relief in freeing your stomach from this nervous distress. It works this way!

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Opportunity Plus

Last Friday in Greenville, Miss., approximately a thousand busniessmen, public officials, industrialists, experts in various fields, public and semi-public endeavors, educators and other leaders of the states of Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi met to launch a program for the industrial and economic advance of what has rightfully been termed the Middle South.

These leaders, all of whom showed enthusiasm and optimism which rarely has been expressed for similar proposals, outlined a program which is based on thorough study and contains concrete plans in the step-by-step operations toward ultimate successful completion. This is no hit-or-miss proposition, no idle dream of a group of idealists or "world planners;" it's a program which, with the proper cooperation of all concerned—business interests, economists, state governments and, most of all, the people themselves—will reap a harvest of prosperity never before enjoyed by the Middle South.

Speaker after speaker detailed the vast resources offered by the three states included in the program, resources which have been here for years but have not been utilized to the extent that tangible results, which means a better living for our people, have been accomplished.

The Middle South is regarded as being primarily agricultural, yet it has 51,955,000 acres in forest resources, 25.7 trillion (yes, we said trillion) cubic feet of natural gas reserves, 2,305,608,000 barrels of recoverable oil reserves, 1,512,000,000 tons of coal reserves.

The oil and gas produced in the Middle South last year put the petroleum industry of the three-state area into the billion-dollar bracket, according to leading oil men, who freely predict that both production and investments in the oil and gas business will be doubled within the next few years. Operations in our own territory seem to bear out this prediction.

There are many more blessings which Mother Nature has so richly bestowed upon us, but space here will not permit listing them all. We are selecting these few most important of all our resources for an obvious reason: Isn't this program right up our alley? What other section of the Middle South can supply such an abundance of ALL these resources which are so essential to community development?

We in the Twin Cities and Northeast Louisiana have too long neglected the use of our advantages to the fullest extent of their potentialities. Let's take inventory of our "stock." Timber? Drive twenty, thirty, forty, fifty miles south, west or north of Monroe. Gas? We are in the center of the world's largest gas field. Oil? New fields have been opened up at our back doors and new wells are being drilled in almost daily. Transportation facilities? We are served by two trunk railway lines, by good highways and we have a navigable river which we are allowing to flow "peacefully to the sea" without disturbing it, but which, with a little initiative, we could transform into a valuable transportation asset. Power? We have an abundance of cheap power, provided by municipal systems and the many interconnected lines and facilities of the Louisiana Power and Light Company, one of the sponsors of the Middle South development program.

Perhaps we do not fully understand or realize the scope of such a program as is proposed for the three states. It means not only providing more employment and more prosperity for our people, but it encompasses systematic plans for the advancement of our educational program, for the betterment of the health of those who do not have the advantages of urban medical facilities, for the improvement of our agricultural methods—in general, for the realization of our dreams for a better living.

We offer our congratulations to the four companies which are sponsoring the Middle South development program, as well as to the public officials, including the governors of the three states, and the economists and others who are wholeheartedly in accord with the movement. We sincerely hope that local authorities and civic leaders throughout the entire Middle South area will show the same degree of cooperation, and that our people will join in what promises to be the greatest program yet devised for our economic welfare.

CENSORSHIP

Washington officials aren't fooling when they propose censorship of the press in military and international matters. Agents are investigating publication of so-called secret information in newspapers and magazines.

General MacArthur's censor at times deals with newsmen with a heavy hand, a policy he can pursue because the MacArthur setup is a military government. But the government at Washington has no such power.

The security advisory board of the state department has already proposed that matters causing "serious administrative embarrassment" be banned from the press. Washington reporters, in seeking news, are often told that certain information is "restricted." Truman refuses to let members of Congress see executive department files.

Censorship is un-American and will always be fought by the American press. Governments can hide behind secrecy to cover a multitude of sins, errors and omissions. Real military and diplomatic secrets are sufficiently guarded if the possessors of the secrets are honest and alert.

Fear of the press and resentment of criticism actuate many in government and military circles. Some of these flunkies, if they had their way, could control the press as completely as Russia does.

It is possible for government and press to work out a voluntary arrangement of self-censorship which will be respected for security reasons. Anything beyond that will be resisted as an effort to draw an iron curtain between the people and the activities of their own government.

IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, April 3.—If Captain Gene Markey, recently recalled to active duty by the Navy, is assigned a post too far from the Hollywood area, look for his stellar missus, Myrna Loy, to put her screen career in moth balls and accompany him . . The Buddy Kayes (he's the tunesmith who composed "'Til the End of Time") are on the stork's list for September . . . Pals report that George Jessel and Tommye Adams, long a romantic twosome, have chilled for keeps. . . Altarbound: Adele Jergens and Judd Downey, Los Angeles attorney.

Maureen O'Hara has submitted a book of poetry to publishers . . . I hear that cartoonist Al Capp ("Li'l Abner") is being considered as a summer replacement for radio commentator Drew Pearson; Capp would broadcast the humorous side of the news . . . Ken Murray and actress Betty Lou Walters will announce a June wedding date . . . Big news for kid fans: "Smoky" and "Flicka," the two famous movie horses, have been booked for a personal appearance tour. Larry Parks is undergoing a complete medical checkup to determine why he's persistently afflicted by backaches . . . If he is granted the license he's bidding for, Rudy Vallee, agog about television, will build a super video station in Hollywood . . . Wotzis about Mickey Rooney trying to date his ex-missus, Ava Gardner? . . . Add signs of the times: Reginald Denny, who did invaluable work during the war by building model target planes for Uncle Sam, has been asked to resume production by the War Department . . . Character actor Stephen Geray is nursing four cracked ribs as the result of a traffic accident.

Consider the case of Beverly Tyler, and marvel at the eccentric ways of Hollywood. Miss Tyler has been under contract to MGM for six years and in that time has been assigned only three roles. Recently Boris Morros and William Le Baron, independent producers, decided that she would be the ideal actress to play the feminine lead in their forthcoming picture, and asked Metro to "loan" her for the part. MGM was perfectly willing to do so—at a price. And that price was $50,000! Enough to pay Miss Tyler's contract salary for several years! All of which may throw a faint ray of light on at least one of the contributing factors to the much-lamented high cost of production.

Far be it from me to question Walt Disney's ability in any field of movie-making that he may care to undertake, yet, personally, I hate to see him substitute living actors for his cartoon characters, as he's done in approximately 90 percent of the footage of his latest picture, "So Dear to My Heart." Disney's cartoons have always been pure fantasy, pure imagination—and to my way of thinking, superb art. As long as he clung to that medium, he gave to the screen stories which could not be produced in any other fashion. I want to see him use his unique talents to produce more fantasies like "Snow White" "Dumbo," "Bambi' 'and "Pinocchio." Hollywood has plenty of producers and directors who can make excellent pictures with living casts, but there's no one else who can compete with Disney in his proper field.

There's a chuckle—and considerable food for thought, too—in a story that a certain actress is telling about an officious waiter at the Mocambo. The other evening, while she and her husband were enjoying an evening out in that famous food-and-fight emporium, her spouse excused himself and left the table for a few moments. While he was gone, she missed her purse, concluded it had dropped to the floor and started looking under the table. Whereupon the waiter stepped over to her and said: "If you're looking for your escort, miss, he's gone to the rest room!" Considering the number of Hollywood nightclubbers who end their evening under a table, perhaps the waiter was merely trying to be helpful.

'THE CONSENT OF THE GOVERNED'

In the United States of America, citizenship is an individual responsibility that no man can dodge. We are dedicated to the principle in this nation that governments derive their powers "from the consent of the governed," that whenever the government uses its power unjustly, "it is the Right of the People to alter it or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness."

These words are quoted from the Declaration of Independence. From the date of this fateful Declaration down to the present time, the people of the United States have assumed to themselves the powers of government; the people have been the government.

Having been born under this principle and nurtured under its traditions, it is hard for the people of this nation to understand why any people of any nation anywhere would accept a government which does not exist with "the consent of the governed." It is our devotion to this principle which has supposedly been the mainspring back of our entry into two world wars and which has governed our handling of the restitution of nations following these wars. We have constantly made clear our desire that whatever government is set up in the nations of the world should be with "the consent of the governed."

Yet here in the United States there is grave danger that we shall surrender our birthright in this respect by default. More and more of us are failing to go to the polls on election day and give our "consent" as to the kind of government we shall have. In this case, the sin of omission is most serious. By not voting, we are violating the first principle of democracy, in that our failure to do so allows minority rule in the land. Under such practice the government does not derive its powers from the consent of the governed but from the consent of only a small percentage of the governed.

The highest office conferred by concent of the people is President of the United States. While 100% vote by the voting population of the nation is of course only an idealistic goal, yet we should expect a greater than 50% vote, as was the case in the last national election. We should expect that it would require more than 30% of the voting population to elect a president, as was the case in this election.

Yet the presidential vote in a national election shows a much better vote when measured against the total voting population than does usually the vote in a state election or a city election. And, regrettably enough, the record in this respect in the states and cities of the South is not nearly so good as in the rest of the nation. A typical Southern state illustrates this with the record of only 28% of its voting population casting a ballot for president in the last national election, with a record of only 24% of its voting population casting a ballot for governor in its last state election. In the last city election in the capital city of this state, only 22% of the city's voting population cast a ballot for mayor, and it required only 12% of the voting population to elect the mayor.

While there is plenty of room for improvement nation-wide, therefore, there is most room for improvement in the South. This is a fact of which the South cannot be proud, but it is a fact which the South must face. It is not a situation that is conductive to good government; it certainly is not democratic government. Whatever the causes, whether the imposition of poll tax in some cases, whether the traditions causing adherence to the one party system, or just simply poor training in the individual responsibility of citizenship, they should be determined and removed—for the benfit of the South and of the nation, and for the preservation of democracy in the land.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

It is not surprising that Sunday school lessons, sermons and comments on religion in general are based very largely on the Bible and on Biblical times, since the Bible is "God's book for man's life."

Above all things also, it is the book of the Gospels, the story of Jesus of Nazareth, the book of His life and teaching, and the interpretation of the reality and meaning of His Messiahship, and of His coming into the world to be humanity's Savior and Redeemer.

But many parts of the Bible have to do with the life of an ancient people and with the individual lives of men and women who lived in a little land. It was situated between the great empires, warring for mastery in that ancient world, and in the history of the time seemingly of far more importance than Palestine and its people.

It is the little land that remains, while the great empires—Assyria, Babylon, Syria, Persia, Greece, and Rome—have all passed away. And that little land today, apart from its ancient religious interest and the way in which successive generations have turned to it for guidance and inspiration, is still a center of tragic interest.

Vital issues are centered there, amid strife and struggle as in ancient times. And the world is watching, somewhat fearful lest the conflicts may involve the whole world once more in war.

From every standpoint there is reason to study that ancient land and all that happened there. Paul said that the chief advantage of the Jew (Romans 3:2) was that to the Jews had been committed the oracles of God.

That statement is amply proven. While in other lands men were bowing down to wood and stone and worshiping false gods, in Israel devout men and women were seeking the true God. And they found Him, giving to the world the truth, righteousness and beauty of which the Bible is the great and varied repository.

In the Bible, too, are the inspiring experiences of men and women of faith, courage and achievement, the stories of individual lives, that in any time and among any people would be outstanding in their encouragement and example.

Who, for instance, considering Palestine today, can fail to see the significance of Nehemiah, leading his people from the Babylonian exile, helping to restore them in their ancient home, facing some of the problems Jews seeking restoration there are facing today? Surely in all of this there is food for study and thought.

The "Christian Herald," some years ago when the famous Dr. Talmadge was its editor, used to have a page entitled, "The Bible and the Newspaper." On this page current events were linked with Biblical parallels, or with some teaching that they emphasized. It was a wise emphasis. The Bible, though it be an ancient book, is a book of daily life and man's best teacher and guide.

These Days
By George E. Sokolsky

VIDEO AND POLITICS

For a year now, we have been looking at a television instrument. Most of the looking is done by the younger members of the family who like fights, wrestling, basketball and the doings of the "Small Fry." Whenever I want to see something, the set kicks up. Either some doctor's diathermy is at work, or an amateur is experimenting, or planes are overhead. We are always having mechanics about the place who leave fingerprints on the walls and woodwork and get paid for it. Certainly, nothing ought to go wrong so often and yet be in such good condition. It is like the doctor who tells the patient he is in prime shape, but the patient drops dead as he leaves the doctor's office.

The other day, I appeared on video and it was a beastly ordeal because the lights produce too much heat. Also, nobody told me not to slump in my seat, so when I did, the lights made my middle resemble that of Man-Mountain Dean. However, it was a gay experience, particularly as I said precisely what I wanted to say and the audience could see an attempt made to stop me.

I see by the newspapers that David Sarnoff, who runs the Radio Corporation of America and is a very shrewd hombre, having come up the very hard way, appraises video almost as revolutionary in political consequences. He said:

"We have but to recall the tremendous effect of radio broadcasting upon the social and political life of the nation to look forward to the profound effect which television is certain to have on domestic habits and politics."

He is so right about that. Radio made it possible for a lunkhead to read a ghost-written speech, after having had some specialist teach him to modulate his voice in such a manner that it came over the radio entertainingly. For example, Franklin D. Roosevelt had a perfect radio voice after he had been taught by experts. He never wrote a speech for himself. There used to be bets over who prepared which paragraph. The script was marked up like a musical score. It came over wonderful.

On the other hand, men like Herbert Hoover or Robert A. Taft do not sound so well on the radio because they have never gone in for voice culture and fancy pauses and suspense and such things. In a ward, they speak politics but are not auditioning to become a professional radio announcer who is hired for his voice.

Television will change that, and change it radically. The uninspired face, the fellow with his tongue in his cheek will be exposed. Sarnoff said:

"He must look into the television camera and speak to the people face to face. His appearance, his smile, his gestures, combined with the sound of his voice to complete the transmission of his personality—and it is that complete personality with which the voter will become acquainted."

For instance, Harry Truman, on television, looks better than he reads, except when he is doing gymnastics on the deck of a battleship. When he does gymnastics, he looks like an old man showing off to his youngest grandchild. But most of the time, he gives the impression of a sincere man, trying to get along. His words are weak and his voice is awful, but he evokes friendship and sympathy. Nobody can teach that. It is in the personality. It is the result of klieg lights on the subconscious. That is why many movies are spoiled by their stars: they speak a great spiritual purity but their eyes look as though they had taken too many flings. Make-up cannot change that—but when it comes to actors, most people don't care. For as that comic paper, "The New Yorker," once said, in an effort to confound an argument, an actor on the stage is not obligated to mirror his own life, and vice versa.

Anything is superior to the bluffing that radio makes possible. Video will not only change the political picture, but in time many ham commentators will disappear because when the public gets one look at them, it will prefer wrestling. That might save our sanity.

AMVET AUXILIARY PLANS FOR SAFETY

Plans for the promotion of the safety program now in progress were formulated and given approval at the March meeting of the Walter S. Savage, Jr., post's Amvet auxiliary.

The meeting, held in the home of Mrs. Bessie Stern, was attended by 14 members and two visitors.

Two new members were given the obligation by the sergeant-at-arms and were Mrs. Allen Ritter and Mrs. Wiley. The organization voted to sponsor a baby show next summer.

Mrs. Stern, membership chairman, discussed plans for a telephone membership campaign and a committee was named in this connection.

The April meeting was set for April 15 at the home of Mrs. Saul Adler with Mrs. Harold Breard and Mrs. Allen Ritter co-hostesses.

After delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and co-hostesses, a fun program was carried out.

Our Children

SCHOOL VACATIONS

John Henry is 13 years old, healthy and intelligent. He happens to live in a district where the schools close down every so often for a week's recess. When the paper came the first morning of the vacation period, he scanned the advertisement pages up and down, over and over and finally exclaimed: "Wouldn't you know it? There isn't a decent movie all this week. Just murder and mush. Wouldn't you think that when they knew the kids would be free to go, they would put on something decent for them?

"Last week 'Bambi' was on; but we were in school. And Saturday we all have to work or go to the dentist or something. Now this week, when we have a chance, nothing doing. Makes me sick."

Me too. Wouldn't you think that when a community turns its children loose for a week every so often, they would provide something worth their time instead of the schools they close? And why, in the name of common sense, close the schools that way?

My notion about public schools after a lifetime spent in them is that they never should be closed until late at night when the cleaners take them over. They are needed every day in the year, all day long and into the evening.

The schools belong to the people. They are the homes of learning for young and old. Provision for that learning should be made for all kinds of people from the youngest to the eldest. All kinds of learning should be provided for all kinds of people. Children should be able—any hour of the day, any day in the year—to find welcome, recreation, knowledge and help there. No child should be turned loose without a place to go, with nothing to do, no guidance save what a busy mother and father can offer.

Movie people ought to have a conscience about education. They ought, too, to have some understanding of public relations with their audience of children and, knowing a holiday is coming, provide decent entertainment for them.

John Edward? He went to work. Found himself a job for the week. "You can't just waste a week. I'm buying bonds. I'll need them to pay my way in prep. Can't expect Dad to do it all."

Wouldn't you think, as he said, that "They" would do something about this? Offer something besides murder and mush to intelligent, healthy-minded boys and girls?

Often temper tantrums in children are caused by eating the wrong foods. Dr. Patri's booklet, No. 303 "Feeding Children," will help you teach them to eat properly.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Pitching Horseshoes
By Billy Rose

The other night I was kicking the conversational gong around with a movie director. I won't use his name for reasons which will be apparent by the time you're through with this piece.

Billy Rose

"As soon as I finish directing a movie," said my friend, "I take the first plane back to Broadway. By hanging on to my New York address, I hope to keep from becoming a beachcomber."

"Come again," I said.

"Almost everyone who goes to Hollywood becomes a beachcomber," explained the director. "To begin with, it's manana country—it rains for a month or it suns for six months. Either they don't want you at all or they pay you too much. And when they pay you too much, you begin buttering up the boss. This does funny things to your ego and you get the jumps. To stand them off, you try booze and telephone numbers. And then it's only a question of time before your insides dry up and blow away into the Pacific. When that happens, you put on the white duck pants, squat on the sands at Malibu and wait for a case of gin to float in."

"That's an old beef," I said, "and I generally hear it from guys who are drawing down three G's a week. I meet plenty of Hollywood people here in New York and they don't seem fuzzy."

"You meet them for ten minutes," said the director. "You don't have to work with them. You know Larry McCoy?"

"You mean the big-shot producer?" I said.

"The same," said the director. "Not long ago he asked me to do a picture for him. And I was plenty worried when I took on the assignment. When Larry is bright, he's awfully bright, but there are times when his mind gets to dialing wrong numbers.

"The script called for a girl who combined acting know-how and marquee strength—someone who looked like Jennifer Jones and could emote like Barbara Bel Geddes. Not an easy order. The day after I started lining up a cast, McCoy waltzed a blonde magoo into my office. You know the type—tall, chesty and a lot of grapefruit-colored hair.

"Here's your leading lady," he told me.

"That evening at Romanoff's, I spotted McCoy in a booth with the blonde. Midnight he was on the floor dancing with her at Ciro's. Next morning I told Larry to get himself another boy. No picture with my name on it was going to be messed up because the producer felt like playing footsie. The Fatty Arbuckle days were over.

"Larry listened, closed the door and sat down. After staring at my ash tray for a full minute, he said, 'Let me level with you. I met this dame at a party a few nights ago, and she knocked me witless. I haven't slept four hours in the last four days. Unless she gets this part, baby isn't going to make with the kisses. And without those kisses, I might as well chuck myself out the window. I've got it that bad.'

"I told Larry I was sorry, but I wasn't fouling up my career to make Kinsey happy. 'At least shoot a test of her,' McCoy pleaded.

"That much I couldn't refuse, seeing as how the man was paying me a mighty fine dollar. I sent for the casting director and asked him to get me some dope on the newcomer.

"'Newcomer your Aunt Sarah,' said the casting man. 'This babe has been around Hollywood for years. I can show you a dozen pictures in which she played bit parts.'

"'How come McCoy doesn't know her work then?' I asked.

"'Search me,' said the casting director, 'unless it's the whiskey—the five hundred barrels that Larry has lapped up in the past ten years. The laugh is he used to run around with this girl. It only lasted a week, but it was quite a thing.'

"'McCoy told me he first met this girl a few days ago,' I said.

"'I think I know the answer to that one,' said the casting man. 'When Larry was stuck on her, she was a brunette and a bit on the plump side. She went back to New York a couple of years ago, slimmed down and decided to take another crack at Hollywood as a blonde.'

"I warned the casting director to keep his theories to himself. But I knew he was right. Larry's punchy brain hadn't recognized his seven-day sweetie in her blonde get-up, but his emotions had. Blonde or brunette, the girl could still give him the jim-jams. The old zing was still there.

"What to do? Well, after thinking about it a while, I decided to give it to McCoy straight."

"How did the producer take it?" I asked.

"Like a reprieve from the governor," said my friend. "He grinned, mumbled something about being a monkey's uncle, and never gave her a thought after that."

STRESSES NEED RED CROSS AID

World Conditions Such As To Require Large Budget

The urgency of fulfilling the Red Cross fund drive's goal has become even stronger with the president's St. Patrick's Day speech, and subsequent developments of bills before Congress, which will either institute universal military training or reinstate the draft, or possibly put through both measures. It is perfectly apparent that Congress is in favor of at least some part of this legislation, as requested by the president, and the resulting increased number in the armed forces will immediately require greater facilities on the part of Red Cross to meet the many needs and demands of the service man.

As a result, Red Cross in Ouachita parish is going to need every cent of the quota which its board has set as the minimum on which it can operate and still come close to fulfilling the needs of veterans and servicemen and their dependants, and the needs resulting from victims of individual disasters during the coming year.

Even prior to the contemplated legislation, the case load of home service cases, involving veterans, servicemen, and their dependents, has increased 50 per cent from November to February, according to Taunton Veazey, executive secretary, who stressed the point recently that many people feel now most men are out of service and no longer need Red Cross aid. On the contrary, the many legal aspects of filing for claims, compensation, and benefits allowed by law for either the veteran or his family are of such complexity and require so much time that the victim of the delay is often placed in a serious situation. The Red Cross not only has a field director at the Shreveport veteran's office to expedite the problems of Ouachita parish veterans, when they are brought to the Red Cross, but also has the vast experience and knowledge to aid the veteran in getting results the quickest way.

Beyond that, the Red Cross can make loans to tide the veteran or his family over the period when allowances are held up, a service which keeps many of our families on actual destitution through no fault of their own.

These problems of the past veterans continue and arise anew every day, as they will for years, and now tax the Ouachita parish staff and budget to the limits. So much more necessary then will be a full quota with an increased armed force an inevitability.

Could Cleopatra Drink a Pearl with Stomach Ulcer Pains?

An intriguing story of Cleopatra is the one where an admirer praised the beauty of two of her pearls, whereupon she dropped one into a glass of wine and drank it. She would hardly have done this had she suffered after-eating pains. If excess stomach acidity causes you distress after eating, or painful heartburn, gas, sour stomach, indigestion, even stomach ulcer pains, then try Udga for quick relief. Udga Tablets contain 3 proven fast-acting medicinal ingredients. Like a doctor's prescription, Udga works soothingly and fast. More than 210 million sold since 1928. Get a 25c box of Udga and if you, too, don't get amazing relief within one-half hour, you get DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK.

CLARE T. MAJOR SHOWS POPULAR

Kiddies And Adults Enjoy Wholesome Productions Given

Parents and teachers who find their resources strained to the point of exhaustion whenever they undertake the dual task of entertaining and educating even a small group of children, view the sublime courage of Clare Tree Major with unalloyed awe.

The founder and director of the famous Children's Theatre of New York is called upon to select, dramatize, and produce the cultural entertainment which will hold the mercurial interest of over two million young Americans annually. Moreover, the Herculean task is accomplished without ever resorting to low slapstick comedy or episodes of brutality and violence with which the movies shock their youthful patrons into paralyzed attention.

Mrs. Major, believing as she does that there is no more potent method in the ethical training of children than through the drama, is deeply aware of her responsibility, not only to entertain and win absorbed attention, but to set standards of character and behavior for children's emulation, which will result in their personal happiness and success and consequent good citizenship.

To accomplish this, she chooses from the great literature of the world examples which contain the necessary dramatic intensity, content of struggle, accomplishment, and also possibilities for humor—for children must laugh, and never must the plays descend to mere preaching. Then the child's instinct for color, movement, and simplicity of action must be taken into account. All Children's Theatre productions are exceedingly colorful, and the adult professional actors are schooled in a technique which enables them to project thought and emotion and the illusion of continuous movement with the simplicity and sincerity demanded by juvenile audiences.

When the Sterlington Methodists sponsor Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch on April 29 at the A. L. Smith School auditorium, local theater goers young and old will have an opportunity to witness the result of Mrs. Major's quarter-century determination to make the theater a temple of true education and spiritual development as well as sound entertainment for young America.

10 DAYS LEFT TO ASK FOR EXEMPTION

There are only 10 more days in which property owners of Ouachita parish can sign for their $2,000 homestead exemption, Bert Coverdale, parish tax assessor, announced today.

Home owners of Monroe and West Monroe are encouraged to sign exemption forms immediately, so that they might benefit from this deduction of the assessed value of their property.

The tax assessor's office is remaining open during the noon hour from now until April 15, the deadline for signing exemption forms.

Veterans receive a $5,000 tax exemption for five years, but they must sign the exemption form.

Deputies are in the rural districts, Mr. Coverdale said, and have exemption forms with them which enable rural property owners to sign for their exemptions without coming to the courthouse.

Mr. Coverdale said most of the property owners in the twin cities were taking advantage of this exemption and signing the forms.

LITTLE THEATRE TRYOUTS TODAY

Director Seeks 20 Men To Portray Characters In Fast-Moving Comedy

Kay Crandall Causey, Director of the Little Theatre Monroe, invited and urged all the people of Monroe and West Monroe to come out today for the try outs for the wise-cracking comedy, FRONT PAGE, which will be the Theatre's May production. Readings will be held in Georgia Tucker school this afternoon at 2:30 p. m., and also Tuesday evening at 7:30 p. m.

The cast requires close to 20 men, again, according to Mrs. Causey, who said that men in the Twin Cities seem to be backward about coming on their own without special invitation, or without being brought by someone.

There is nothing in these readings to frighten the most timid man—or woman—and for many that first tremuolus visit has been the beginning of an ardent hobby which has proved engrossing for years, and which has lead to a host of new friends and pleasant associations.

The play, the fifth of the season, will conclude the current year, and follows the tradition of making that last play a fast-moving comedy. Based on newspaper life in Chicago, the play revolves around the press room in the court house during a murder trial—and when one of the reporters finds he has captured the murderer, the excitement and the laughs have only begun.

Opportunity Plus

Last Friday in Greenville, Miss., approximately a thousand busniessmen, public officials, industrialists, experts in various fields, public and semi-public endeavors, educators and other leaders of the states of Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi met to launch a program for the industrial and economic advance of what has rightfully been termed the Middle South.

These leaders, all of whom showed enthusiasm and optimism which rarely has been expressed for similar proposals, outlined a program which is based on thorough study and contains concrete plans in the step-by-step operations toward ultimate successful completion. This is no hit-or-miss proposition, no idle dream of a group of idealists or "world planners;" it's a program which, with the proper cooperation of all concerned—business interests, economists, state governments and, most of all, the people themselves—will reap a harvest of prosperity never before enjoyed by the Middle South.

Speaker after speaker detailed the vast resources offered by the three states included in the program, resources which have been here for years but have not been utilized to the extent that tangible results, which means a better living for our people, have been accomplished.

The Middle South is regarded as being primarily agricultural, yet it has 51,955,000 acres in forest resources, 25.7 trillion (yes, we said trillion) cubic feet of natural gas reserves, 2,305,608,000 barrels of recoverable oil reserves, 1,512,000,000 tons of coal reserves.

The oil and gas produced in the Middle South last year put the petroleum industry of the three-state area into the billion-dollar bracket, according to leading oil men, who freely predict that both production and investments in the oil and gas business will be doubled within the next few years. Operations in our own territory seem to bear out this prediction.

There are many more blessings which Mother Nature has so richly bestowed upon us, but space here will not permit listing them all. We are selecting these few most important of all our resources for an obvious reason: Isn't this program right up our alley? What other section of the Middle South can supply such an abundance of ALL these resources which are so essential to community development?

We in the Twin Cities and Northeast Louisiana have too long neglected the use of our advantages to the fullest extent of their potentialities. Let's take inventory of our "stock." Timber? Drive twenty, thirty, forty, fifty miles south, west or north of Monroe. Gas? We are in the center of the world's largest gas field. Oil? New fields have been opened up at our back doors and new wells are being drilled in almost daily. Transportation facilities? We are served by two trunk railway lines, by good highways and we have a navigable river which we are allowing to flow "peacefully to the sea" without disturbing it, but which, with a little initiative, we could transform into a valuable transportation asset. Power? We have an abundance of cheap power, provided by municipal systems and the many interconnected lines and facilities of the Louisiana Power and Light Company, one of the sponsors of the Middle South development program.

Perhaps we do not fully understand or realize the scope of such a program as is proposed for the three states. It means not only providing more employment and more prosperity for our people, but it encompasses systematic plans for the advancement of our educational program, for the betterment of the health of those who do not have the advantages of urban medical facilities, for the improvement of our agricultural methods—in general, for the realization of our dreams for a better living.

We offer our congratulations to the four companies which are sponsoring the Middle South development program, as well as to the public officials, including the governors of the three states, and the economists and others who are wholeheartedly in accord with the movement. We sincerely hope that local authorities and civic leaders throughout the entire Middle South area will show the same degree of cooperation, and that our people will join in what promises to be the greatest program yet devised for our economic welfare.

CENSORSHIP

Washington officials aren't fooling when they propose censorship of the press in military and international matters. Agents are investigating publication of so-called secret information in newspapers and magazines.

General MacArthur's censor at times deals with newsmen with a heavy hand, a policy he can pursue because the MacArthur setup is a military government. But the government at Washington has no such power.

The security advisory board of the state department has already proposed that matters causing "serious administrative embarrassment" be banned from the press. Washington reporters, in seeking news, are often told that certain information is "restricted." Truman refuses to let members of Congress see executive department files.

Censorship is un-American and will always be fought by the American press. Governments can hide behind secrecy to cover a multitude of sins, errors and omissions. Real military and diplomatic secrets are sufficiently guarded if the possessors of the secrets are honest and alert.

Fear of the press and resentment of criticism actuate many in government and military circles. Some of these flunkies, if they had their way, could control the press as completely as Russia does.

It is possible for government and press to work out a voluntary arrangement of self-censorship which will be respected for security reasons. Anything beyond that will be resisted as an effort to draw an iron curtain between the people and the activities of their own government.

IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, April 3.—If Captain Gene Markey, recently recalled to active duty by the Navy, is assigned a post too far from the Hollywood area, look for his stellar missus, Myrna Loy, to put her screen career in moth balls and accompany him . . . The Buddy Kayes (he's the tunesmith who composed "Til the End of Time") are on the stork's list for September . . . Pals report that George Jessel and Tommye Adams, long a romantic twosome, have chilled for keeps. . . Altarbound: Adele Jergens and Judd Downey, Los Angeles attorney.

Maureen O'Hara has submitted a book of poetry to publishers . . . I hear that cartoonist Al Capp ("Lil Abner") is being considered as a summer replacement for radio commentator Drew Pearson; Capp would broadcast the humorous side of the news . . . Ken Murray and actress Betty Lou Walters will announce a June wedding date . . . Big news for kid fans: "Smoky" and "Flicka," the two famous movie horses, have been booked for a personal appearance tour. Larry Parks is undergoing a complete medical checkup to determine why he's persistently afflicted by backaches . . . If he is granted the license he's bidding for, Rudy Vallee, agog about television, will build a super video station in Hollywood . . . Wotzis about Mickey Rooney trying to date his ex-missus, Ava Gardner? . . . Add signs of the times: Reginald Denny, who did invaluable work during the war by building model target planes for Uncle Sam, has been asked to resume production by the War Department . . . Character actor Stephen Geray is nursing four cracked ribs as the result of a traffic accident.

Consider the case of Beverly Tyler, and marvel at the eccentric ways of Hollywood. Miss Tyler has been under contract to MGM for six years and in that time has been assigned only three roles. Recently Boris Morros and William Le Baron, independent producers, decided that she would be the ideal actress to play the feminine lead in their forthcoming picture, and asked Metro to "loan" her for the part. MGM was perfectly willing to do so—at a price. And that price was $50,000! Enough to pay Miss Tyler's contract salary for several years! All of which may throw a faint ray of light on at least one of the contributing factors to the much-lamented high cost of production.

Far be it from me to question Walt Disney's ability in any field of movie-making that he may care to undertake, yet, personally, I hate to see him substitute living actors for his cartoon characters, as he's done in approximately 90 percent of the footage of his latest picture, "So Dear to My Heart." Disney's cartoons have always been pure fantasy, pure imagination—and to my way of thinking, superb art. As long as he clung to that medium, he gave to the screen stories which could not be produced in any other fashion. I want to see him use his unique talents to produce more fantasies like "Snow White" "Dumbo," "Bambi' 'and "Pinocchio." Hollywood has plenty of producers and directors who can make excellent pictures with living casts, but there's no one else who can compete with Disney in his proper field.

There's a chuckle—and considerable food for thought, too—in a story that a certain actress is telling about an officious waiter at the Mocambo. The other evening, while she and her husband were enjoying an evening out in that famous food-and-fight emporium, her spouse excused himself and left the table for a few moments. While he was gone, she missed her purse, concluded it had dropped to the floor and started looking under the table. Whereupon the waiter stepped over to her and said: "If you're looking for your escort, miss, he's gone to the rest room!" Considering the number of Hollywood nightclubbers who end their evening under a table, perhaps the waiter was merely trying to be helpful.

DOWN SOUTH

'THE CONSENT OF THE GOVERNED'

In the United States of America, citizenship is an individual responsibility that no man can dodge. We are dedicated to the principle in this nation that governments derive their powers "from he consent of the governed," that whenever the government uses its power unjustly, "it is the Right of the People to alter it or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness."

These words are quoted from the Declaration of Independence. From the date of this fateful Declaration down to the present time, the people of the United States have assumed to themselves the powers of government; the people have been the government.

Having been born under this principle and nurtured under its traditions, it is hard for the people of this nation to understand why any people of any nation anywhere would accept a government which does not exist with "the consent of the governed." It is our devotion to this principle which has supposedly been the mainspring back of our entry into two world wars and which has governed our handling of the restitution of nations following these wars. We have constantly made clear our desire that whatever government is set up in the nations of the world should be with "the consent of the governed."

Yet here in the United States there is grave danger that we shall surrender our birthright in this respect by default. More and more of us are failing to go to the polls on election day and give our "consent" as to the kind of government we shall have. In this case, the sin of omission is most serious. By not voting, we are violating the first principle of democracy, in that our failure to do so allows minority rule in the land. Under such practice the government does not derive its powers from the consent of the governed but from the consent of only a small percentage of the governed.

The highest office conferred by concent of the people is President of the United States. While 100% vote by the voting population of the nation is of course only an idealistic goal, yet we should expect a greater than 50% vote, as was the case in the last national election. We should expect that it would require more than 30% of the voting population to elect a president, as was the case in this election.

Yet the presidential vote in a national election shows a much better vote when measured against the total voting population than does usually the vote in a state election or a city election. And, regrettably enough, the record in this respect in the states and cities of the South is not nearly so good as in the rest of the nation. A typical Southern state illustrates this with the record of only 28% of its voting population casting a ballot for president in the last national election, with a record of only 24% of its voting population casting a ballot for governor in its last state election. In the last city election in the capital city of this state, only 22% of the city's voting population cast a ballot for mayor, and it required only 12% of the voting population to elect the mayor.

While there is plenty of room for improvement nation-wide, therefore, there is most room for improvement in the South. This is a fact of which the South cannot be proud, but it is a fact which the South must face. It is not a situation that is conductive to good government; it certainly is not democratic government. Whatever the causes, whether the imposition of poll tax in some cases, whether the traditions causing adherence to the one party system, or just simply poor training in the individual responsibility of citizenship, they should be determined and removed—for the benefit of the South and of the nation, and for the preservation of democracy in the land.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

It is not surprising that Sunday school lessons, sermons and comments on religion in general are based very largely on the Bible and on Biblical times, since the Bible is "God's book for man's life."

Above all things also, it is the book of the Gospels, the story of Jesus of Nazareth, the book of His life and teaching, and the interpretation of the reality and meaning of His Messiahship, and of His coming into the world to be humanity's Savior and Redeemer.

But many parts of the Bible have to do with the life of an ancient people and with the individual lives of men and women who lived in a little land. It was situated between the great empires, warring for mastery in that ancient world, and in the history of the time seemingly of far more importance than Palestine and its people.

It is the little land that remains, while the great empires—Assyria, Babylon, Syria, Persia, Greece, and Rome—have all passed away. And that little land today, apart from its ancient religious interest and the way in which successive generations have turned to it for guidance and inspiration, is still a center of tragic interest.

Vital issues are centered there, amid strife and struggle as in ancient times. And the world is watching, somewhat fearful lest the conflicts may involve the whole world once more in war.

From every standpoint there is reason to study that ancient land and all that happened there. Paul said that the chief advantage of the Jew (Romans 3:2) was that to the Jews had been committed the oracles of God.

That statement is amply proven. While in other lands men were bowing down to wood and stone and worshiping false gods, in Israel devout men and women were seeking the true God. And they found Him, giving to the world the truth, righteousness and beauty of which the Bible is the great and varied repository.

In the Bible, too, are the inspiring experiences of men and women of faith, courage and achievement, the stories of individual lives, that in any time and among any people would be outstanding in their encouragement and example.

Who, for instance, considering Palestine today, can fail to see the significance of Nehemiah, leading his people from the Babylonian exile, helping to restore them in their ancient home, facing some of the problems Jews seeking restoration there are facing today? Surely in all of this there is food for study and thought.

The "Christian Herald," some years ago when the famous Dr. Talmadge was its editor, used to have a page entitled, "The Bible and the Newspaper." On this page current events were linked with Biblical parallels, or with some teaching that they emphasized. It was a wise emphasis. The Bible, though it be an ancient book, is a book of daily life and man's best teacher and guide.

These Days

VIDEO AND POLITICS

For a year now, we have been looking at a television instrument. Most of the looking is done by the younger members of the family who like fights, wrestling, basketball and the doings of the "Small Fry." Whenever I want to see something, the set kicks up. Either some doctor's diathermy is at work, or an amateur is experimenting, or planes are overhead. We are always having mechanics about the place who leave fingerprints on the walls and woodwork and get paid for it. Certainly, nothing ought to go wrong so often and yet be in such good condition. It is like the doctor who tells the patient he is in prime shape, but the patient drops dead as he leaves the doctor's office.

The other day, I appeared on video and it was a beastly ordeal because the lights produce too much heat. Also, nobody told me not to slump in my seat, so when I did, the lights made my middle resemble that of Man-Mountain Dean. However, it was a gay experience, particularly as I said precisely what I wanted to say and the audience could see an attempt made to stop me.

I see by the newspapers that David Sarnoff, who runs the Radio Corporation of America and is a very shrewd hombre, having come up the very hard way, appraises video almost as revolutionary in political consequences. He said:

"We have but to recall the tremendous effect of radio broadcasting upon the social and political life of the nation to look forward to the profound effect which television is certain to have on domestic habits and politics."

He is so right about that. Radio made it possible for a lunkhead to read a ghost-written speech, after having had some specialist teach him to modulate his voice in such a manner that it came over the radio entertainingly. For example, Franklin D. Roosevelt had a perfect radio voice after he had been taught by experts. He never wrote a speech for himself. There used to be bets over who prepared which paragraph. The script was marked up like a musical score. It came over wonderful.

On the other hand, men like Herbert Hoover or Robert A. Taft do not sound so well on the radio because they have never gone in for voice culture and fancy pauses and suspense and such things. In a ward, they speak politics but are not auditioning to become a professional radio announcer who is hired for his voice.

Television will change that, and change it radically. The uninspired face, the fellow with his tongue in his cheek will be exposed. Sarnoff said:

"He must look into the television camera and speak to the people face to face. His appearance, his smile, his gestures, combined with the sound of his voice to complete the transmission of his personality—and it is that complete personality with which the voter will become acquainted."

For instance, Harry Truman, on television looks better than he reads, except when he is doing gymnastics on the deck of a battleship. When he does gymnastics, he looks like an old man showing off to his youngest grandchild. But most of the time, he gives the impression of a sincere man, trying to get along. His words are weak and his voice is awful, but he evokes friendship and sympathy. Nobody can teach that. It is in the personality. It is the result of klieg lights on the subconscious. That is why many movies are spoiled by their stars: they speak a great spiritual purity but their eyes look as though they had taken too many flings. Make-up cannot change that—but when it comes to actors, most people don't care. For as that comic paper, "The New Yorker," once said, in an effort to confound an argument, an actor on the stage is not obligated to mirror his own life, and vice versa.

Anything is superior to the bluffing that radio makes possible. Video will not only change the political picture, but in time many ham commentators will disappear because when the public gets one look at them, it will prefer wrestling. That might save our sanity.

AMVET AUXILIARY PLANS FOR SAFETY

Plans for the promotion of the safety program now in progress were formulated and given approval at the March meeting of the Walter S. Savage, Jr., post's Amvet auxiliary.

The meeting, held in the home of Mrs. Bessie Stern, was attended by 14 members and two visitors.

Two new members were given the obligation by the sergeant-at-arms and were Mrs. Allen Ritter and Mrs. Wiley. The organization voted to sponsor a baby show next summer.

Mrs. Stern, membership chairman, discussed plans for a telephone membership campaign and a committee was named in this connection.

The April meeting was set for April 15 at the home of Mrs. Saul Adler with Mrs. Harold Breard and Mrs. Allen Ritter co-hostesses.

After delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and co-hostesses, a fun program was carried out.

Our Children

SCHOOL VACATIONS

John Henry is 13 years old, healthy and intelligent. He happens to live in a district where the schools close down every so often for a week's recess. When the paper came the first morning of the vacation period, he scanned the advertisement pages up and down, over and over and finally exclaimed: "Wouldn't you know it? There isn't a decent movie all this week. Just murder and mush. Wouldn't you think that when they knew the kids would be free to go, they would put on something decent for them?

"Last week 'Bambi' was on; but we were in school. And Saturday we all have to work or go to the dentist or something. Now this week, when we have a chance, nothing doing. Makes me sick."

Me too. Wouldn't you think that when a community turns its children loose for a week every so often, they would provide something worth their time instead of the schools they close? And why, in the name of common sense, close the schools that way?

My notion about public schools after a lifetime spent in them is that they never should be closed until late at night when the cleaners take them over. They are needed every day in the year, all day long and into the evening.

The schools belong to the people. They are the homes of learning for young and old. Provision for that learning should be made for all kinds of people from the youngest to the eldest. All kinds of learning should be provided for all kinds of people. Children should be able—any hour of the day, any day in the year—to find welcome, recreation, knowledge and help there. No child should be turned loose without a place to go, with nothing to do, no guidance save what a busy mother and father can offer.

Movie people ought to have a conscience about education. They ought, too, to have some understanding of public relations with their audience of children and, knowing a holiday is coming, provide decent entertainment for them.

John Edward? He went to work. Found himself a job for the week. "You can't just waste a week. I'm buying bonds. I'll need them to pay my way in prep. Can't expect Dad to do it all."

Wouldn't you think, as he said, that "They" would do something about this? Offer something besides murder and mush to intelligent, healthy-minded boys and girls?

Often temper tantrums in children are caused by eating the wrong foods. Dr. Patri's booklet, No. 303 "Feeding Children," will help you teach them to eat properly.

Pitching Horseshoes

The other night I was kicking the conversational gong around with a movie director. I won't use his name for reasons which will be apparent by the time you're through with this piece.

Billy Rose

"As soon as I finish directing a movie," said my friend, "I take the first plane back to Broadway. By hanging on to my New York address, I hope to keep from becoming a beachcomber."

"Come again," I said.

"Almost everyone who goes to Hollywood becomes a beachcomber," explained the director. "To begin with, it's manana country—it rains for a month or it suns for six months. Either they don't want you at all or they pay you too much. And when they pay you too much, you begin buttering up the boss. This does funny things to your ego and you get the jumps. To stand them off, you try booze and telephone numbers. And then it's only a question of time before your insides dry up and blow away into the Pacific. When that happens, you put on the white duck pants, squat on the sands at Malibu and wait for a case of gin to float in."

"That's an old beef," I said, "and I generally hear it from guys who are drawing down three G's a week. I meet plenty of Hollywood people here in New York and they don't seem fuzzy."

"You meet them for ten minutes," said the director. "You don't have to work with them. You know Larry McCoy?"

"You mean the big-shot producer?" I said.

"The same," said the director. "Not long ago he asked me to do a picture for him. And I was plenty worried when I took on the assignment. When Larry is bright, he's awfully bright, but there are times when his mind gets to dialing wrong numbers.

"The script called for a girl who combined acting know-how and marquee strength—someone who looked like Jennifer Jones and could emote like Barbara Bel Geddes. Not an easy order. The day after I started lining up a cast, McCoy waltzed a blonde magoo into my office. You know the type—tall, chesty and a lot of grapefruit-colored hair.

"Here's your leading lady," he told me.

"That evening at Romanoff's, I spotted McCoy in a booth with the blonde. Midnight he was on the floor dancing with her at Ciro's. Next morning I told Larry to get himself another boy. No picture with my name on it was going to be messed up because the producer felt like playing footsie. The Fatty Arbuckle days were over.

"Larry listened, closed the door and sat down. After staring at my ash tray for a full minute, he said, 'Let me level with you. I met this dame at a party a few nights ago, and she knocked me witless. I haven't slept four hours in the last four days. Unless she gets this part, baby isn't going to make with the kisses. And without those kisses, I might as well chuck myself out the window. I've got it that bad.'

"I told Larry I was sorry, but I wasn't fouling up my career to make Kinsey happy. 'At least shoot a test of her,' McCoy pleaded.

"That much I couldn't refuse, seeing as how the man was paying me a mighty fine dollar. I sent for the casting director and asked him to get me some dope on the newcomer.

"'Newcomer your Aunt Sarah,' said the casting man. 'This babe has been around Hollywood for years. I can show you a dozen pictures in which she played bit parts.'

"'How come McCoy doesn't know her work then?' I asked.

"'Search me,' said the casting director, 'unless it's the whiskey—the five hundred barrels that Larry has lapped up in the past ten years. The laugh is he used to run around with this girl. It only lasted a week, but it was quite a thing.'

"'McCoy told me he first met this girl a few days ago,' I said.

"'I think I know the answer to that one,' said the casting man. 'When Larry was stuck on her, she was a brunette and a bit on the plump side. She went back to New York a couple of years ago, slimmed down and decided to take another crack at Hollywood as a blonde.'

"I warned the casting director to keep his theories to himself. But I knew he was right. Larry's punchy brain hadn't recognized his seven-day sweetie in her blonde get-up, but his emotions had. Blonde or brunette, the girl could still give him the jim-jams. The old zing was still there.

"What to do? Well, after thinking about it a while, I decided to give it to McCoy straight."

"How did the producer take it?" I asked.

"Like a reprieve from the governor," said my friend. 'He grinned, mumbled something about being a monkey's uncle, and [illegible] after that [illegible]

STRESSES NEED RED CROSS AID

World Conditions Such As To Require Large Budget

The urgency of fulfilling the Red Cross fund drive's goal has become even stronger with the president's St. Patrick's Day speech, and subsequent developments of bills before Congress, which will either institute universal military training or reinstate the draft, or possibly put through both measures. It is perfectly apparent that Congress is in favor of at least some part of this legislation, as requested by the president, and the resulting increased number in the armed forces will immediately require greater facilities on the part of Red Cross to meet the many needs and demands of the service man.

As a result, Red Cross in Ouachita parish is going to need every cent of the quota which its board has set as the minimum on which it can operate and still come close to fulfilling the needs of veterans and servicemen and their dependants, and the needs resulting from victims of individual disasters during the coming year.

Even prior to the contemplated legislation, the case load of home service cases, involving veterans, servicemen, and their dependents, has increased 50 per cent from November to February, according to Taunton Veazey, executive secretary, who stressed the point recently that many people feel now most men are out of service and no longer need Red Cross aid. On the contrary, the many legal aspects of filing for claims, compensation, and benefits allowed by law for either the veteran or his family are of such complexity and require so much time that the victim of the delay is often placed in a serious situation. The Red Cross not only has a field director at the Shreveport veteran's office to expedite the problems of Ouachita parish veterans, when they are brought to the Red Cross, but also has the vast experience and knowledge to aid the veteran in getting results the quickest way.

Beyond that, the Red Cross can make loans to tide the veteran or his family over the period when allowances are held up, a service which keeps many of our families on actual destitution through no fault of their own.

These problems of the past veterans continue and arise anew every day, as they will for years, and now tax the Ouachita parish staff and budget to the limits. So much more necessary then will be a full quota with an increased armed force an inevitability.

Could Cleopatra Drink a Pearl with Stomach Ulcer Pains?

An intriguing story of Cleopatra is the one where an admirer praised the beauty of two of her pearls, whereupon she dropped one into a glass of wine and drank it. She would hardly have done this had she suffered after-eating pains. If excess stomach acidity causes you distress after eating, or painful heartburn, gas, sour stomach, indigestion, even stomach ulcer pains, then try Udga for quick relief. Udga Tablets contain 3 proven fast-acting medicinal ingredients. Like a doctor's prescription, Udga works soothingly and fast. More than 210 million sold since 1928. Get a 25c box of Udga and if you, too, don't get amazing relief within one-half hour, you get DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK.

CLARE T. MAJOR SHOWS POPULAR

Kiddies And Adults Enjoy Wholesome Productions Given

Parents and teachers who find their resources strained to the point of exhaustion whenever they undertake the dual task of entertaining and educating even a small group of children, view the sublime courage of Clare Tree Major with unalloyed awe.

The founder and director of the famous Children's Theatre of New York is called upon to select, dramatize, and produce the cultural entertainment which will hold the mercurial interest of over two million young Americans annually. Moreover, the Herculean task is accomplished without ever resorting to low slapstick comedy or episodes of brutality and violence with which the movies shock their youthful patrons into paralyzed attention.

Mrs. Major, believing as she does that there is no more potent method in the ethical training of children than through the drama, is deeply aware of her responsibility, not only to entertain and win absorbed attention, but to set standards of character and behavior for children's emulation, which will result in their personal happiness and success and consequent good citizenship.

To accomplish this, she chooses from the great literature of the world examples which contain the necessary dramatic intensity, content of struggle, accomplishment, and also possibilities for humor—for children must laugh, and never must the plays descend to mere preaching. Then the child's instinct for color, movement, and simplicity of action must be taken into account. All Children's Theatre productions are exceedingly colorful, and the adult professional actors are schooled in a technique which enables them to project thought and emotion and the illusion of continuous movement with the simplicity and sincerity demanded by juvenile audiences.

When the Sterlington Methodists sponsor Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch on April 29 at the A. L. Smith School auditorium, local theater goers young and old will have an opportunity to witness the result of Mrs. Major's quarter-century determination to make the theater a temple of true education and spiritual development as well as sound entertainment for young America.

10 DAYS LEFT TO ASK FOR EXEMPTION

There are only 10 more days in which property owners of Ouachita parish can sign for their $2,000 homestead exemption, Bert Coverdale, parish tax assessor, announced today.

Home owners of Monroe and West Monroe are encouraged to sign exemption forms immediately, so that they might benefit from this deduction of the assessed value of their property.

The tax assessor's office is remaining open during the noon hour from now until April 15, the deadline for signing exemption forms.

Veterans receive a $5,000 tax exemption for five years, but they must sign the exemption form.

Deputies are in the rural districts, Mr. Coverdale said, and have exemption forms with them which enable rural property owners to sign for their exemptions without coming to the courthouse.

Mr. Coverdale said most of the property owners in the twin cities were taking advantage of this exemption and signing the forms.

LITTLE THEATRE TRYOUTS TODAY

Director Seeks 20 Men To Portray Characters In Fast-Moving Comedy

Kay Crandall Causey, Director of the Little Theatre Monroe, invited and urged all the people of Monroe and West Monroe to come out today for the try outs for the wise-cracking comedy, FRONT PAGE, which will be the Theatre's May production. Readings will be held in Georgia Tucker school this afternoon at 2:30 p. m., and also Tuesday evening at 7:30 p. m.

The cast requires close to 20 men, again, according to Mrs. Causey, who said that men in the Twin Cities seem to be backward about coming on their own without special invitation, or without being brought by someone.

There is nothing in these readings to frighten the most timid man—or woman—and for many that first tremulous visit has been the beginning of an ardent hobby which has proved engrossing for years, and which has lead to a host of new friends and pleasant associations.

The play, the fifth of the season, will conclude the current year, and follows the tradition of making that last play a fast-moving comedy. Based on newspaper life in Chicago, the play revolves around the press room in the court house during a murder trial—and when one of the reporters finds he has captured the murderer, the excitement and the laughs have only begun.

The spokesman said the "situation is normal except for the temporary hold-up of some trains. Other trains are running and the road traffic to and from Berlin is continuing."

The Americans continued to fly their aerial supply and passenger service into Templehof airdrome from Frankfurt. U. S. air force C-47 transports began taking off from Frankfurt early this morning and 32 made the run today.

The aerial ferry was continued although a 56-car American military freight train successfully tested the Soviet land blockade last night and reached Berlin with only the customary presentation of the train commander's documents showing the contents of the cars. The Russians did not insist upon making an inspection of the British, who sent two military freights through the Soviet zone the same way, said Gen. Sir Brian Robertson's special passenger train with part of his staff aboard passed through the Soviet zone westward last night, also without incident.

This seemed to indicate the Russians were chiefly interested in controlling west-bound freight and east-bound passengers.

British and American automobiles and trucks traveled without hindrance along the 112-mile Autobahn linking this city behind the iron curtain with the western zones. English-speaking Russian guards checked passengers' documents as usual. They were quick in their checks and pleasant.

Surround Building

The 50 or more American military police who closed in on the block-square Soviet Reichsbahn building in the American sector last midnight maintained their siege throughout the day. The Russians were occupying the building, which they call their military railroad headquarters, when the British, Americans and French moved into Berlin nearly three years ago. The Russians never gave it up, although it is in the American sector.

There was speculation whether the British would take similar action against the broadcasting headquarters of powerful radio Berlin. This station, although in the British sector, has been occupied by the Russians ever since they conquered the city and daily pours out Soviet propaganda. Today, as every day, a Russian guard was posted in the lobby with a tommygun.

Armed with carbines and sidearms, American military police let German employes into the railroad building, and there were about 1,100 there today. They let out all Russians who wished to leave, but they barred all Russians who attempted to enter.

Eight Russians—including a general, several other officers and armed guard personnel—staged a "sit in" in the building, however.

Among the 40 Russians who sought to enter and were turned away were a number of supervisory officials and about a dozen others who brought food for those remaining inside. All the food was inspected by the American guards before it was taken inside by German police. The Americans themselves could not enter the building because two Soviet guards with guns an bayonets stood just inside the entrance.

When the guards arrived the Russians asked, "are we being evicted?"

"If you leave you cannot get back," replied the colonel in charge. "You will have to judge for yourself. These are my orders."

Allow Food In

"We don't want to starve them out," was an American's answer to why food was permitted to go in.

Col. Frank L. Howley, head of U. S. military government in Berlin, said the building was cordoned off because the Russians had been sending in guards there "after dark."

It was explained that the United States could not permit Soviet armed guards to take over territory or buildings that are under American jurisdiction.

Howley said Gen. Alexander Kotikov, was said to have explained that the Soviet guards had been sent in because of reports that "criminal" elements were plotting to destroy records in the building.

Howley said Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American commander in Germany, would take Kotikov's protest under consideration "at the earliest opportunity."

He bluntly declared, "if there is any building in our sector that needs protection we feel we are adequate to do it without Russian Help."

He said the telephone to the building had not been cut off and there were no plans to dislodge the Russians remaining inside.

"If they want to live and work there, it's all right with us," he said, but "we will not admit any other Russians until this thing is settled."

Block Highway

There was no explanation of the blockade of the Potsdam road that was established by an American officer, six soldiers and two German policemen at 11 a. m. close to the Soviet boundary.

It did not create much excitement, as the Russians began diverting their traffic to other routes as soon as they got wind of it.

It appeared the American move was an outright counter to the establishment two days ago of temporary Soviet road blocks along the edge of their sector in Berlin.

Field Marshall Lord Montgomery, British chief of the imperial staff, arrived in Helle, today, to see Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, British commander in Germany. He was noncommital about the Berlin crisis.

The anti-communist newspaper Sozialdemokrat said provincial German police in Saxony had been alerted for several weeks to be ready to take over police duties in all Berlin.

Hold Night Maneuvers

Russian authorities sent information to U. S. air force officers last night that they were holding night maneuvers over the Soviet zone with a large number of fighter planes. They advised that American planes flying from Frankfurt be warned. The transports flying supplies in from Frankfurt make day trips, however, and none reported any interference.

U. S. officials said two German food trains had to be re-routed into Berlin from the west because the Russians reported "operational difficulties" in Thuringia. The Russians are reported preparing spring military maneuvers in Thuringia, a possible reason for the railway snarl.

U. S. army headquarters at Frankfurt said the lack of passenger train service would not halt the sending of American families into Berlin. Twenty-seven women and children who arrived in Bremerhaven yesterday will be sent in by air.

DOROTHY DIX

Unfaithful Husbands

Philandering Mate, Other Woman Both Deserve Censure

DEAR MISS DIX: Are women always to blame when husbands are unfaithful? I know a woman who threatened a girl with bodily harm unless she left town and let her husband alone.

A. S.

ANSWER: Certainly the men are just as much to blame as the girls they philander with, but the wives always put the blame on the girl because it is the only way in which they can save their faces. They are bound to represent to themselves that their husbands are poor, ignorant innocents who have been inveigled into affairs by designing women, and that if left alone they never would have dreamed of such a thing as wandering away from their own fireside.

DOROTHY DIX

Of course, there are a lot of weak, vain, silly men who would stay on the straight and narrow path if no temptation came their way. These are the foreordained prey of any pretty girl who flatters them and tells them how handsome they are, and how alluring and how much younger they are than their wives.

MOST MEN ARE HARD-HEADED

But most men are worldly wise and hard-headed and they can no more be taken in in a love affair than they can in a business deal. They are not victims of adventuresses. They are adventurers themselves. When you see a married man out with a girl young enough to be his granddaughter, it is ridiculous to say that she has lured him away from his family and to blame her for it.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a boy 18 years old. Have been going with the sweetest girl in the world for about a year. Now this is my problem: Her father is cruel to her and she begs me to marry her. Says she just can't take one more beating from him. I love her, but I have no job.

I am no quitter, but I cannot see the future as happy because I have no work and no immediate prospects of getting any. What is your advice?

ANXIOUS

ANSWER: Don't marry her, my boy, until you have some way of making a living and supporting a family decently. Don't let your sympathies run away with you and cause you to do a thing that you will spend the balance of your life regretting.

Wait until you are ready to marry. I say that for the girl as well as you, because she would be jumping out of the frying pan into the fire if she married you under present conditions. She at least has a home, even if it is an unhappy one. She has a roof to cover her and three square meals a day, and you couldn't even give her that.

Instead of marrying the girl, call in the law. It will stop her father from beating her. Don't marry any girl because you are sorry for her. And don't let any girl rush you into marriage. Many a girl cries on a man's shoulders until he marries her for pity, and then he spends the balance of his life weeping himself over his folly.

DEAR MISS DIX: Do you think that a man can really care for a girl, take her out and be with her at least four nights a week, and yet not make any attempt to even kiss her?

WONDERING

ANSWER: Yes, there are still some men left who do not think that every time they spend a dollar on a girl she has to pay them back by submitting to their familiarities. There are still some men whose sense of honor keeps them from making love to a girl until they are in a position to back up their love-making with a proposal of marriage. There are still some men who treat a girl as they would want some other man to treat their sister, and that kind of man is worth waiting for.

Because a man kisses a girl and paws her over does not mean he loves her. Very often it only means that he holds her lightly, and he just wants to gratify himself.

Mackenzie's Column

By DeWitt Mackenzie

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Paradoxical though it may seem, the most hopeful news which workers for peace have had in a long time is the disclosure that the United States has "an adequate supply" of atomic bombs and is steadily making more.

Military strength is the best guarantee any country can have against aggression so long as the world still breeds throwbacks to barbarism. It's tough to have to admit that peace must be maintained through fear rather than through brotherly love. But that's the way it still is.

So as the garlic laden breath of war continues to blow warm upon our necks, from you know where, it is good to hear from members of Congress that David E. Lilienthal, chairman of the atomic energy commission, has given the House appropriations committee this assurance about the status of our bomb supply. Equally encouraging is the assertion by Senator Hickenlooper of Iowa, chairman of the Senate-House atomic energy committee, that he believes if war comes again America should use the bomb with the aim of shortening the conflict and saving lives.

"I do not think the bomb should be used indiscriminately," the senator told a reporter. "But I have no qualms about using it strategically, where it will be an effective means of ending the war."

That makes sense. War means killing, and anyone who tries to compromise on that immutable fact is merely defeating his aim of lessening the disaster. Of course the first objective of every right-minded person should be absolute peace and the outlawing of war. But if peace is shattered by an aggressor, the most humane way of dealing with the situation is to knock him out the quickest way possible under accepted rules of war. That's the goal of every general staff—and it means killing.

Just after America had been forced into the last war I heard a clergyman tell a congregation of perhaps 1,000 from his pulpit:

"I am going to say something which will shock some of you immeasurably, especially coming as it does from one wearing clerical cloth. There are times when Christians must kill, and this is one of them."

Yes, that idea is shocking, but we shall not escape it until that happy day when we can make our United Nations function for peace. Meantime our business is to carry out as expeditiously as possible any unwelcome job which we have thrust upon us by aggressors. There is no sense in condoning the sacrifice of millions of young soldiers on the battle field in "legitimate" warfare, and shying at the killing of a few score thousands of civilians with an atomic bomb—if that will end or greatly shorten the conflict. Apropos of this, and just in passing, it is well to note that it's just as painful for a soldier to be killed as it is for a civilian.

Thus it is encouraging to feel that if we are attacked we shall not hesitate to use atomic bombs if necessary. Naturally, as Senator Hickenlooper says, the atomic bomb should be used only for strategic purposes. The useless killing of civilians or destruction of cities is wicked and indefensible. But if you could wipe out the enemy's industrial centers overnight, thereby ending the war, it would be the right thing to do.

It's well that we should get this problem of the atomic bomb ironed out in our minds, because one of these days we may have to act quickly. Hesitation might cost us our freedom.

Latin-Americans on exactly what can be purchased from them.

Marshall himself has held personal talks with the delegates of the major producing countries—Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Colombia and Venezuela. The heads of other delegations will confer with him next week.

Marshall told newsmen the approval of ERP by Congress was of tremendous importance to the world. He said: "I was very much pleased to see how rapidly the discussion brought a favorable conclusion at this time."

During the day Marshall and Chilean Defense Minister Juvenal Hernandez discussed a Chilean resolution to condemn Communist activities in the western hemisphere.

Hernandez, author of the resolution now before the conference, said he had the impression Marshall is optimistic over the possibility of averting a new war. Marshall said no final conclusion was reached on anti-Communist action.

FARR NAMED DIRECTOR OF CLERKS OF COURT

ALEXANDRIA, La., April 3.—(AP)—The Louisiana clerks of court association today elected Victor Pitre of Gretna president. J. F. Beaman, Alexandria, was reelected secretary-treasurer and A. J. Broussard, Bossier City, vice president.

asked that the two applications be reconsidered but that the security council was not able to make a favorable recommendation, and the matter was postponed.

The security council and the assembly must agree on a new member. Failure of an application to pass the council prevents approval by the assembly.

The three delegates said that they believe it appropriate to bring up the two applications in view of the meeting of the assembly in special session April 16. Italy and Trans-Jordan could be admitted at the forthcoming session.

That session was called to consider Palestine alone. But a two-thirds vote of the members can broaden the work calendar.

The last security council battle on members was Oct. 1, 1947, when Gromyko vetoed the applications of Italy and Finland.

At the same session Romania, Bulgaria and Hungary failed to muster the necessary seven-vote majority to pass the council.

Gromyko insisted that Italy and Finland could not be admitted unless the other three were passed. Charges of "trading" and "political maneuvering" were hurled back and forth between Gromyko and the western powers.

Gromyko has declared he could not pass Trans-Jordan because there is no diplomatic relations between Russia and the Arabic country.

Trans-Jordan is the seventh member of the Arab league, which is fighting the U. N. resolution to partition Palestine into Jewish and Arab countries. The six other Arab nations are U. N. members.

Gromyko helped put that Palestine resolution through the assembly last Nov. 29 and is defending it now. Observers speculated that he would not give the Arab countries another vote against partition by admitting Trans-Jordan.

Meanwhile, China's top delegate to the U. N., Dr. T. F. Tsiang, declared his country will keep hands off on partition in the special assembly.

He said in an interview that he feels a solution of the whole Palestine problem is impossible unless Jews and Arabs agree.

He was the first of the Big Five delegates to disclose his plans for the special assembly.

One of the most heated battles will be whether to overturn the partition decision. One key delegate who would not be identified said he doubted the assembly will reverse its action. Last Nov. 29 the delegates voted 33 to 13 for dividing the Holy Land. Ten countries, including China, abstained, and the 57th nation, Siam, was absent.

Arab sources disclosed, meanwhile, that Jamal Husseini, vice-chairman of the Arab higher committee and right-hand man of Haj Amin El Husseini, exiled mufti of Jerusalem, will arrive by plane Monday to talk truce with the security council.

By unanimous vote the security council last Thursday called on the Arab higher committee and the Jewish agency for Palestine to send representatives to discuss a truce in the Holy Land fighting.

The Arab higher committee and the Jewish agency are the official representatives of the Arabs and Jews of Palestine before the U. N.

DRAFT

He also has come out in favor of reviving the draft on a limited basis.

As the committee closed its hearings, Secretary of Defense Forrestal wrote Gurney that he does not wish "to foreclose the possibility" that he later might ask Congress to authorize a 70-group air force.

But Forrestal added "I do not think it yet advisable" to go beyond the 55-group force called for in the new preparedness program.

When he testified before the committee last week, Forrestal made a rough guess it would cost $18,000,000,000—on top of the $11,000,000,000 already in the budget for defense—to build the air force to 70 groups.

The secretary explained today he was talking about the additional cost in terms of generally expanding the whole military establishment—army, navy, marines as well as air force—to support a mightier air fleet.

President Truman's air policy commission recommended a 70-group air force. Some senators have criticized the military for deciding on only 55.

In his letter to Gurney, Forrestal stressed his belief that America's total military force must be well balanced. He indicated an extra 229,000 men would be required in all the services to support 70 air force groups. That would be in addition to the 220,000 the services are counting on from the proposed draft.

The Senate committee has before it a selective service bill submitted by Forrestal. It calls for registration of men up to 45, with a limited draft of non-veterans 19 through 25.

The U. M. T. section of the bill provides for a year's training of the Nation's youths, mainly those 18 and 19 years old. They would not be part of the armed forces.

Testimony at the committee's final session today was mainly in opposition to U. M. T. Here's a summary:

1. Historian Charles A. Beard said in a statement read to the committee for him that U. M. T. would create "a monstrous military bureaucracy."

2. Prof. Lloyd H. Reyerson of the University of Minnesota said U. M. T. "betrays the fact that those in control have not yet grasped the significance of scientific warfare."

3. Col. Truman Smith, retired, formerly of the army's general staff, endorsed the proposed draft. But he added that U. M. T. "may prove a most serious weakness in that defense funds and energies will be diverted to it from our first line of defense forces."

Atomic Scientist Henry D. Smyth took no definite stand on U. M. T. or the draft. But he said there is an "extreme shortage" of young scientists. He urged creation of an auxiliary scientific corps.

Smyth is the author of the army's report on the atomic bomb.

Meanwhile, Boxer Joe Louis was quoted by the "committee against Jim Crow in military service and training" as criticizing the army's policy of race segregation among troops. The heavyweight champ served in the last war.

Pre-election disorders continued in southern Italy. Within the past 24 hours nine Communists, two monarchists and a socialist have been wounded by gunfire.

Police arrested 10 persons accused of belonging to the Arditi following the armed ambush near Naples of a car full of Communists. Among the nine passengers wounded was Eugenio Reale, former Italian ambassador to Poland. The Arditi is a Fascist group bent on political revenge.

Communists battled monarchists in the streets of Petrona in Calabria province. Two monarchists were gravely wounded. Four persons were arrested.

At Sinopoli, near Reggio Calabria, Deputy Mayor Rocco Simonin, a socialist, was shot and wounded. Leftist newspapers said a Christian Democrat did the shooting.

The chamber of labor in Sicily's capital city of Palermo called a 10-minute strike today to protest the machine-gunning of three labor leaders two nights ago.

At Taranto in southeastern Italy, U. S. Ambassador James C. Dunn warned the Italians against "propagandists who seek to turn the Italian people into the adventure of totalitarianism." Dunn spoke to 200 dock workers in the Communist-governed port city upon the arrival of the 500th American ship carrying food and relief supplies to Italy.

In the northern city of Sesto San Giovanni Italy's No. 2 Communist, Luigi Longo, attacked the Marshall plan. Without this program of American aid, he contended, Italy could give work to its 2,000,000 unemployed and ship goods to eastern Europe. His audience was small—only about 2,000 of the industrial city's 40,000 workers.

CROSS-VOTING

Dewey's lieutenants advanced their man as the most likely recipient. They said a great many Democrats must have supported the New York governor in the 1944 general election.

MacArthur and Stassen adherents entered the final period before Tuesday's vote claiming about everything in sight.

Dewey played it cage. He conceded the lead to MacArthur as a "favorite son" before he flew home to New York and bent his efforts toward beating out Stassen.

However, Fred R. Zimmerman, Wisconsin secretary of state and a MacArthur delegate, was more conservative.

"We are sure of having a majority of the delegates," he told a reporter. "I think we will get 16 or 17 and we might even get 20 of the 27 delegates if Dewey and Stassen keep killing each other off."

Bernard Gettleman, a state senator and Dewey delegate from one of the Milwaukee districts, had other ideas.

"I won't be satisfied with less than 27 for Dewey," Gettleman said. "I think he is going to win just like he did in 1940 and 1944."

Stassen limited his claim to 14 delegates, a majority. But his people spoke hopefully of a possible "collapse" of the MacArthur boom. They listed Dewey as "a bad third."

All of this added up to the rankest kind of confusion in a state which may have a booming psychological voice in the choice of the next Republican nominee.

The outcome here may affect directly the results in the April 13 Nebraska free-for-all vote, where GOP aspirants are pitted against each other in a popularity test.

WALLACE BLASTS

said, "the Russians have no necessity to expend their borders, nor will they for many decades to come, except as external threats and pressures compel them to seek military security."

Wallace added: "When we have stopped the circulation of the myth we shall find that we can live at peace with Russia without jeopardizing our own hopes for an economy of abundance based on a system of progressive capitalism in a democratic society."

Wallace took cognizance of Mr. Truman's speech Monday comparing him to Alcibiades, who the president termed "the greatest demagogue of all times."

"I know that Mr. Truman wasn't trying to flatter me," Wallace said. "Quite the contrary. Yet, as I checked Plutarch, the great historian, I found his comment about Alcibiades, the man with whom I was compared: 'The truth is, his accusers alleged nothing that was certain or solid against him.' "

The presidential aspirant also lashed out at George V. Allen, assistant secretary of state for public affairs, who on Thursday criticized what he described as Wallace's "misrepresentation of our foreign policy aims."

Wallace said: "With millions of fellow Americans, I will be embarrassed when George Allen, directing the 'Voice of America' tells the world that we are against interference in the affairs of sovereign states, that we are against intimidation, that we detest coercion."

Referring to Allen's two year tenure as ambassador to Iran, Wallace said the Iranian "army and police force, which received Mr. Allen's fatherly care, has no possible military value against a foreign power. Its purpose is to keep the landless peasants landless, to smash the trade unions and to protect the oil interests of the foreign oil companies."

Wallace added that "the thirst for profits from oil of huge corporations is being quenched by a foreign policy which ignores human values. It is not only Iran and Italy. There is our openly sordid policy with regard to Palestine."

MINERS

tell me, they won't go back until this thing is settled."

Ed Morgan, president of the U. M. W. District 13, at Madisonville, Ky., said he doubted that the miners will go back to work "until this pension dispute is settled in accordance with our contract with the operators."

Mr. Truman's move in the coal crisis shortly after his return to the capital from a two-day trip to Williamsburg, Va., was applauded on Capitol Hill.

Chairman Ball, Republican, Minnesota, of the Senate-House "watchdog" committee on the Taft-Hartley act said:

"I am only sorry we did not move faster."

Opposed to special legislation to deal with Lewis, Ball said he thought the prospective injunction proceedings "will work out all right."

Lewis put quotations marks around the word "strike" in denying any responsibility for the work tieup.

But this was in direct conflict with the conclusion of the presidential inquiry board.

Blame Lewis

The board's report, made public today by President Truman, blamed the stoppage directly on Lewis. It said:

"We find independent action was taken by the president of the United Mine Workers of America in the form of communications to the officers and members of the United Mine Workers of America which induced them to take concerted action to stop work. * * *

"We find the stoppage was not independent action by miners acting individually and separately.

"Their stoppage has precipitated a crisis in the industry and in the nation as a whole."

What caused the walkout, the board found, was Lewis' letter of March 12 telling the miners the coal mine owners had "dishonored" their agreement to establish a pension plan. The walkout began March 15.

"The stoppage of work followed so closely upon the receipt of the letter as to constitute cause and effect," the board said. "This was more than a coincidence."

Members of the board were beside U. S. Appeals Judge Minton, Publisher Mark Ethridge of the Louisville (Ky.) Courier-Journal, and Labor Relations Professor George W. Taylor of the University of Pennsylvania.

Pension Disagreement

They said the whole trouble was the failure of Lewis and Ezra Van Horn, who represents the coal operators, to agree on a way of paying pensions out of a $30,000,000-welfare fund. It has built up from 10-cent tonnage loyalty payments on coal production since last July.

The board said Lewis and Van Horn disagreed on (1) who was to be eligible for the pensions, and (2) how much to pay those eligible.

It also found that Van Horn was right in saying that Lewis' plan—for $100 monthly pensions for miners 60 or older with 20 years' service—was too expensive for the fund's revenue.

Of this, the inquiry board's report said:

"If carried out, the Lewis proposal would more than exhaust the present fund of over $30,000,000 and such additional funds as may be reasonably anticipated, and leave nothing for the many other objectives of the fund as enumerated in the agreement * * *."

Plan Legal Battle

Some observers thought Lewis' do-as-you-please message meant for the miners to go back; that he could not go much farther, because of his stand that he had not influenced them to stop work in the first place.

Others felt Lewis was just paving the way for a legal battle on the government injunction move. He could hold out the message as evidence of telling the miners they acted on their own decision.

Then, too, by saying in advance that it was not for him to call the men back, Lewis left the possible implication that the miners should not pay any attention to any future back-to-work order he may make at court direction.

Miners Reaction

PITTSBURGH, April 3.—(AP)—An official of the United Mine Workers said flatly tonight he believed the nation's 400,000 soft coal miners will defy a government-obtained injunction ordering their return to the pits.

"I've been doing a little talking among the miners since I've learned of this injunction and I don't believe the UMW members will be back at work Monday," the UMW chieftain said. The official, a top member of the John L. Lewis official family in western Pennsylvania, declined to permit use of his name.

Shortly after the injunction was obtained by the government the first reaction of UMW field leaders was one of stunned surprise.

The first operator's comment came from M. M. McCormick, superintendent of the Consolidation Coal Company's Van Lear mine in the Big Sandy field in Kentucky, who said:

"I'm glad to hear that (of the injunction). We'll be glad to get back to work. It's my opinion that 90 per cent of the men in this field want to work. This gives them the chance they're looking for."

PRESIDENT

the western powers, Italy's situation is considered the most critical at the moment.

A direct move to counter Communist influence there was made in another quarter today. The United States, Britain and France joined in asking the United Nations security council to reopen Italy's application for U. N. membership. Since Russia once blocked this, today's move puts the Russians and their Communist associates on the spot.

The aid bill became law two weeks before the April 18 Italian elections and it seemed a fair bet that ships laden with American aid would be started for Italy—if they do not actually show up in port there—before the ballots are cast.

The $6,098,000,000 bill which Mr. Truman signed into law at a White House ceremony today was rushed through its final stages largely because of the imminence of the Italian elections.

Those present at the ceremony in the president's office included Treasury Secretary Snyder, Interior Secretary Krug, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson and Undersecretary of State Lovett.

Secretary of State Marshall—who first proposed in a speech last June that the United States would help the nations of Europe if they would help themselves—is attending the inter-American conference at Bogota, Colombia. But he radioed a message which the White House released, saying:

"The leaders in Congress and the membership generally have faced a great crisis with courage and wisdom * * *"

In the statement which he issued on this "momentous occasion in the quest for world peace," Mr. Truman said the passage of the act proves that "swift and vigorous action for peace is not incompatible with the full operation of our democratic process of discussion and debate."

The chief executive added:

"Our program of foreign aid is perhaps the greatest venture in constructive statesmanship that any nation has undertaken. It is an outstanding example of cooperative endeavor for the common good.

"The foreign assistance act is the best answer that this country can make in reply to the vigorous and distorted misrepresentations of our efforts for peace which have been spread abroad by those who do not wish for our efforts to succeed.

"This measure is America's answer to the challenge facing the free world today."

The new law is a broader measure than the president originally asked but, except in one point, is exactly in line with administration foreign policy recommendations to Congress.

The one exception was a provision in the section on aid for China. Congress ruled that out of the $463,000,000 assigned China for the next 12 months $125,000,000 may be spent for military equipment.

For Greece and Turkey the law authorizes an expenditure during the 12 months of $275,000,000 for military equipment. Both those countries will get their economic help as members of the 17 cooperating European nations (including western Germany) in the Marshall plan, or European recovery program.

The $5,300,000,000 authorized for the Marshall plan will be available for expenditure over the next four and a quarter years but is expected to be used up in the 12 months beginning April 1. Early next year Congress will review the whole operation and decide how much more money may be needed.

The measure the president signed appropriated no funds and the administration must go before Congress soon and ask for the actual cash.

However, the bill did authorize an advance of $1,000,000,000 from the RFC to finance initial aid to Europe and $1,000,000 to get the goods going to the Middle East and China so there will be no relay on that score in starting operations.

Mr. Truman's next big task is to select an administrator for the program. The position will pay $20,000 a year and carry cabinet rank. Most frequently mentioned for the post is Paul G. Hoffman, president of the Studebaker corporation.

MAN HAS 8 CHILDREN BUT CAN'T AVOID TAX

WASHINGTON, April 3.—(AP)—A man can have eight children, contribute $1,458.50 a year to their support—and still not be able to claim a single income tax dependency credit.

He can't, said a U. S. tax court decision today, if they live with his divorced wife and she contributes a penny more to their support than he does.

The ruling was made in a case under the old income tax law, but it holds just as good for the new lower taxes: you can't claim a dependent without furnishing more than half of the support.

The father of eight, Ollie J. Kotlowski of Milwaukee, was ordered by the court to pay the government an extra $1,046 in taxes for 1944 and 1945.

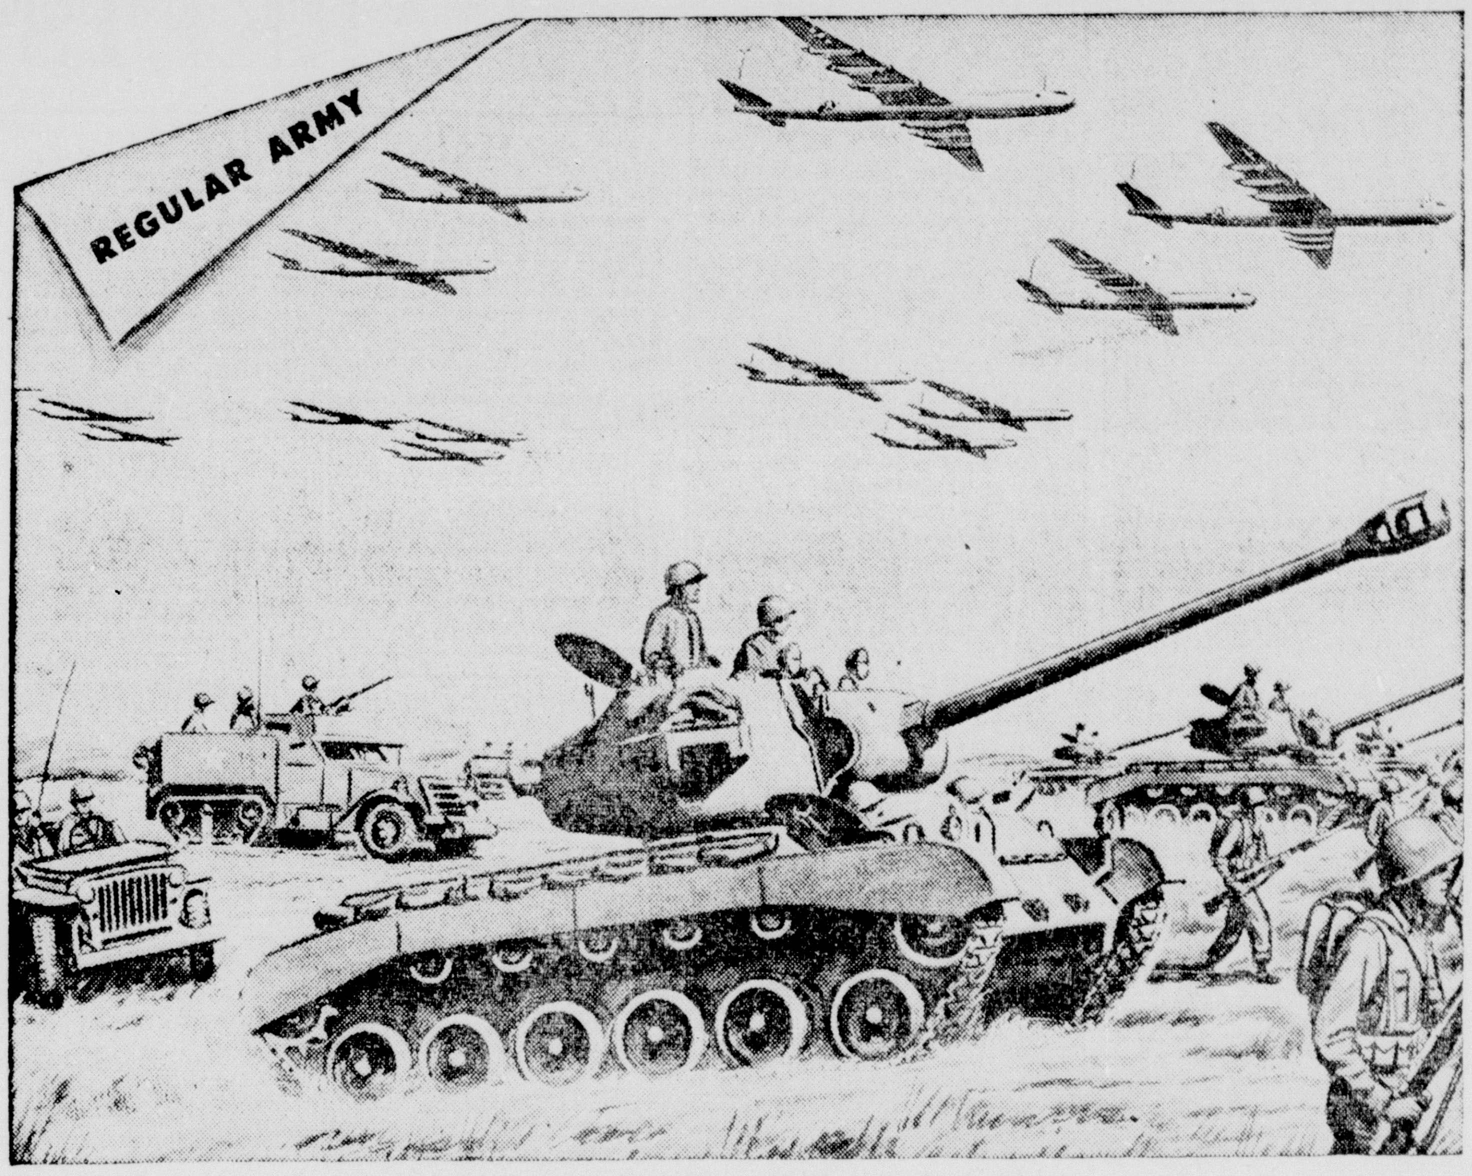
He admitted that his wife contributed more than half to the children's support by taking a job and by renting a part of the house—this in addition to handling household tasks and caring for the eight children.

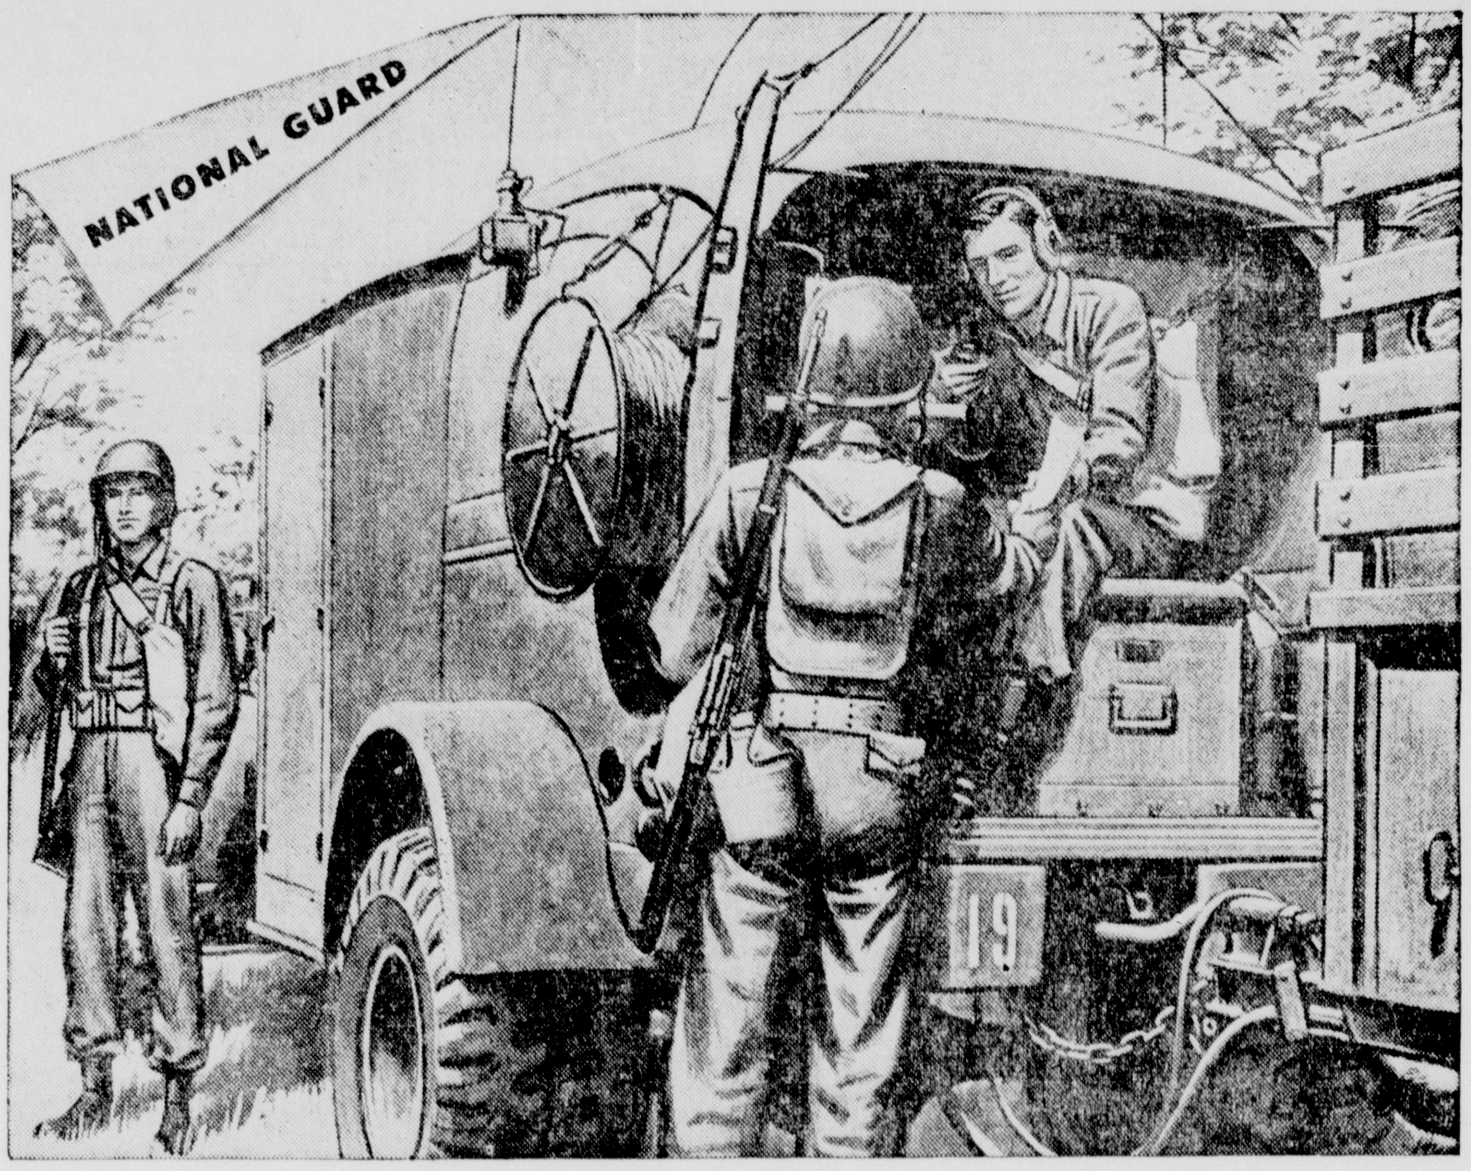
Although she contributed $265 more to their support in 1945 than he did, Kotlowski argued his contribution was enough to support some of them and he said he ought to get dependency credits for three or four, anyway.

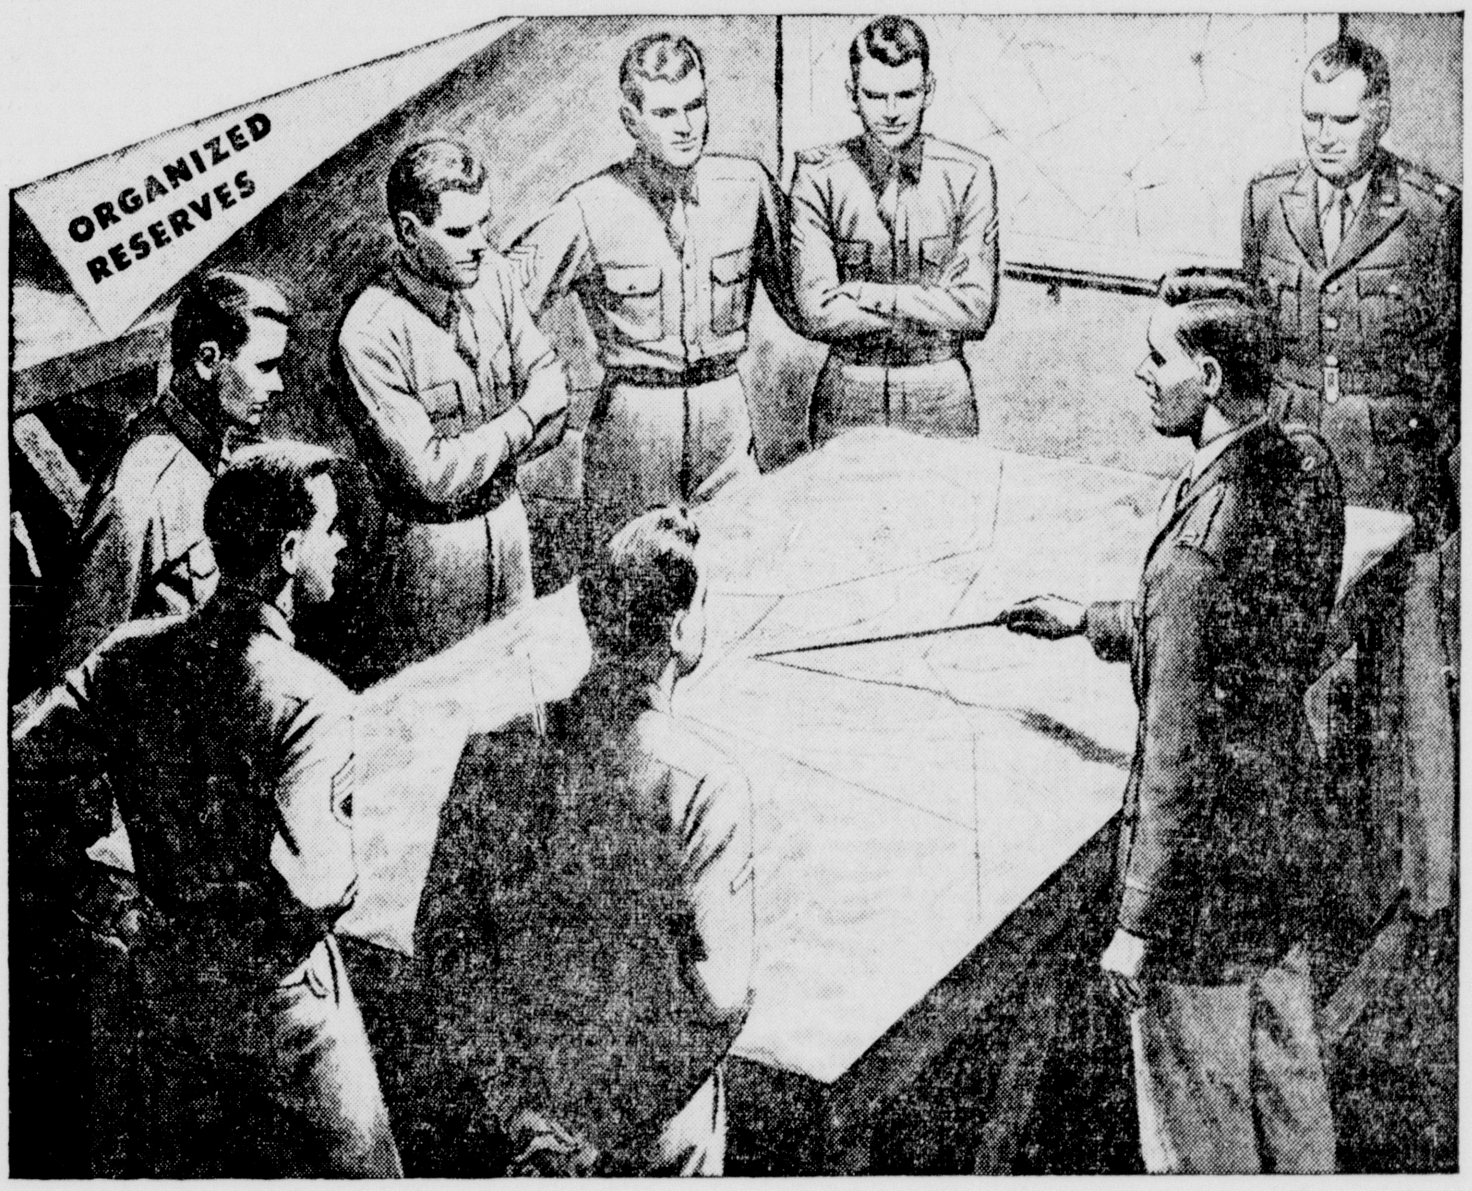
The tax court observed that $952.50 of his payments in 1945 resulted from a legal order to pay for "the support and maintenance of the eight children." That, said the court, meant he paid partial support for eight—not full support for some of them.

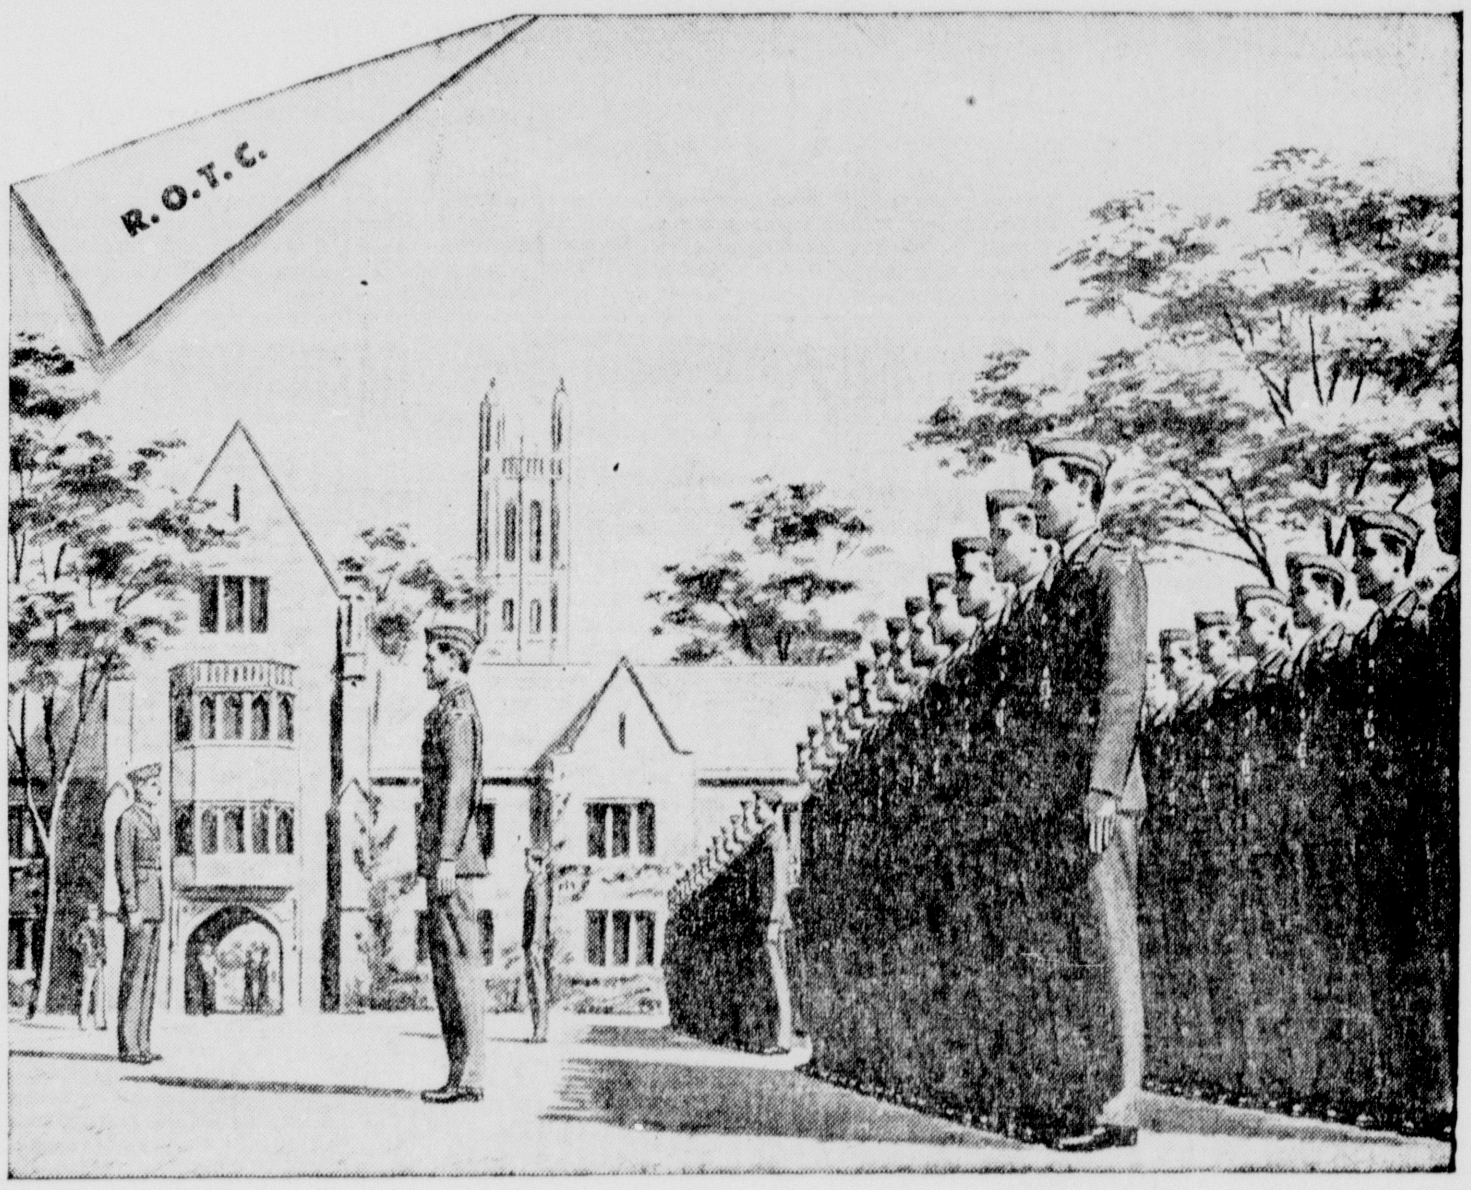
"In this situation, it cannot be said that he contributed more than 50 per cent to the support of any one or more of the children," the tax court concluded.

Nellie Custis, whose grandmother, a widow, married George Washington, revived the custom of wearing a bridal veil when she was married on General Washington's last birthday, Feb. 22, 1799.









For peace—be strong, America!

This Army Day finds your new Regular Army charged with the task of helping to build a lasting world peace.

No other nation ever has dared face such an assignment on a 100% volunteer basis—a traditional American policy in peacetime.

You have today the largest volunteer army that any nation has ever successfully recruited in peacetime. But this army is still short of the minimum strength required to do the job that you, through your Congress, have given it.

The strength of your new Army is not found in numbers alone. It is also found in the intelligence, training and physical fitness of the individual soldier—and in his clear conviction that only a strong America can be a peaceful America.

Shoulder to shoulder with this soldier are other volunteers who are helping with the gigantic job of peace. The National Guard of the United States, the Organized Reserve Corps and the R.O.T.C. also deserve your active interest and whole-hearted support.

Visit Army Day exhibits and events that are being held in your community. This is your opportunity to get vital, first-hand information about your new Army—and about what you can do to help maintain it. Find out how your Army is protecting you and how it is helping to secure the peace the whole world so desperately desires.

Fly the flag on this Army Day! Salute your new soldier! And vow that you will back him to the limit in the monumental task assigned to him!

A STRONG AMERICA IS A PEACEFUL AMERICA

Union Wildcat Flows Crude Oil, May Lengthen Ora Field 3 Miles

Bagley-Cararas Auger No. 1 Believed Commercial Producer; Test Delayed

A three mile extension of Ora Field appeared almost a certainty yesterday when C. M. Bagley and Jerry Cararas flowed an undetermined amount of crude oil from their wildcat Auger No. 1 in section 36-23-1W.

The well was perforated from 2170-72 feet late yesterday morning and flowed crude and salt water into pits until shut off for swabbing late in the afternoon. Actual testing was delayed when the swabbing cable snapped, dropping the tool into the hole.

Neither Bagley nor Cararas expressed any opinion about the possibilities of the well, although observers were for the most part agreed that it would make a commercial producer. Previously, without confirmation or denial from the operators, reports persisted as to discovery of some 15 feet of saturated sand.

Two companies, Shell and Lion are reported preparing tests north of the wildcat. In line with the preliminary indications of the Auger, lease and mineral trading throughout the day soared into figures as high as $500 per acre.

Two miles south of the Auger, Shell is preparing to gauge the Frost Lumber A-37, section 12-22-1W. During a drill-stem test last week, the well flowed four barrels of oil in seven minutes from the Nacatoch at 2,098-2,108 feet.

The well is about one mile north of Ora production. Successful completion will link the field and the outpost wildcat, proving up as many as an estimated 1,500 additional acres. Such an expansion would double Ora's present productive capacity.

Ora's first quest for a deep structure went by the boards last week with abandonment of Shell's wildcat Frost Lumber Industries No. 1, section 15-22-1W, about seven miles northeast of Farmerville.

The well was plunged at 8,833 feet after the company found no commecial possibilities whatsoever. Contract depth was between 9,000-9,500 feet in the Smackover.

Ora's lone new producer last week was Shell's Frost Lumber B-9, section 26-22-1W, rated at pumping 96 barrels a day from an open hole bottomed at 2,136 feet.

In section 14-22-1W, northeast of the Ora discovery well, Shell abandoned the Frost Lumber A-36 at 2,110 feet. Another casualty was J. F. Stone's Alton Odom No. 1 in section 2-21-1W, plugged at 2,210 feet. The test was a proposed Nacatoch extension of the field's southwest development, which is now manifesting a distinct northeast-southwest trend.

Sam Sklar has staked the tenth location on his Jack S. Dykes lease in section 9-21-1W. In the same area, Shell has asked a permit for the Frost Lumber D-9, section 34-22-1W.

Carbons Consolidated company, latest to try its hand in the Ora strike, has set casing at 2,127 feet in its maiden venture, the Anderson Johnson No. 1, section 34-22-1W. The company, meanwhile, has spudded in a second test, the Anderson Johnson No. 2, also in section 34-22-1W, and has set surface pipe at 103 feet.

TEXAS CO. WELL BELOW 16,000 FT.

Drilling Pushed More Than 3 Miles Into Earth At Barataria Bay Project

The first test for oil in Louisiana to go below 16,000 feet has been drilled by The Texas Company.

The company reported Wednesday its operation in the Queen Bess Island area of Barataria Bay, Jefferson parish, has been drilled to 16,068 feet—a depth of more than three miles.

Drilling was continuing slowly in very hard sandy shale and lime. For the past two days, the hole has been deepened at the rate of only 12 feet per day.

The test is State-Barataria No. 4. It is located about 1 1/4 miles northeast of the world's deepest producing well drilled by Texas last year. This well produces gas and condensate from the 13,900-foot zone. The gas is being used as fuel to power the current operation.

Crude oil production in the United States went up 136,085 barrels daily during the week ended March 27 to make the week's total average daily production 5,398,490 barrels, the Oil and Gas Journal reported.

Kansas production accounted for more than 90 per cent of the increase with a gain of 128,650 barrels to 300,000 barrels.

Other increases included: Oklahoma, up 4,950 barrels to 400,000; Michigan, up 2,900 to 48,600; Illinois, 1,000 to 169,700; Indiana, 1,700 to 18,700. Louisiana fell off 1,100 barrels to 475,050.

The American Petroleum Industry is planning a $6,000,000,000 18-month program to provide oil for future needs, Dr. Gustave Egloff, of Chicago, disclosed yesterday.

Dr. Egloff is director of research for the Universal Oil Products company, vice-president of the American Chemical Society and a member of the industrial atomic energy commission. He made the disclosure in a talk to the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers meeting at Cincinnati.

He said the program includes exploration, drilling, refining and distribution.

Program details for the Interstate Oil Compact Commission's spring quarterly meeting in Chicago May 5-7 were worked out yesterday at a meeting of the commission's executive committee in Dallas.

Governor Dwight Green, of Illinois, will give the welcoming address at the Chicago meeting. Hiram Dow, of Roswell, N. M., former Compact chairman, will speak on the group's conservation history. B. A. Hardey, of Shreveport, chairman of the Louisiana state mineral board, will discuss state versus federal control of resources. Governor Beauford Jester of Texas will talk on effects of nationalizing oil in Mexico.

CHANGE DRILL NIGHT

Members of Company I, National Guard, are informed that drill will be Monday night this week and not on Wednesday. This change is made for this one time because of the fact that Army Day is April 6.

Aluminum Pipe In Crude Line

Interstate Oil Pipe Line company is installing aluminum pipelines in two areas where excessive corrosion is an acute operating problem.

Test of the new type pipe, the first under actual field conditions, will be made in South Louisiana, where soil conditions along the banks of the Intercoastal Canal cause excessive external corrosion, and in South Arkansas, where sour crudes are responsible for rapid internal corrosion.

The aluminum pipe will be the first of its kind installed anywhere in crude oil service. It will also be the first aluminum pipe to be field welded by the relatively new Heliarc process, which eliminates the need for a flux by shielding the metal with a cloud of argon gas.

In making welds under field conditions, it will be necessary to place a tent around the welder to prevent the argon from being blown away.

HALF WORLD OIL IN SOVIET GRASP

52.2 Per Cent Of Known Reserves Inside Russia Or Short Distance Away

HOUSTON, Tex., March 27.—(AP)—Statistics indicate Russia has only 11.4 per cent of the world's known crude oil reserves but that over half of all reserves right at her back door.

Max Ball, director of the department of interior's oil and gas division, says the middle east has 40.8 per cent of all known reserves of the eastern hemisphere 55 per cent.

Combining the estimates for Russia and the middle east would indicate 52.2 per cent of the world's reserves are either within Russian borders or only a comparatively short distance away.

Ball's report lists the United States as having 31.2 per cent of known reserves and the western hemisphere 45.0. Venezuela has 10.4 per cent, leaving only 3.4 for Mexico, Canada and other western hemisphere nations.

The report carried a recommendation the United States maintain a consistent foreign oil policy and that every reasonable support be given American oil companies operating abroad.

It was pointed out, however, the United States consume 63 per cent of the world's output of crude oil and the middle east only 9 per cent.

"If the middle east had been subjected to exploratory campaigns carried on in the United States for nearly 90 years," Ball said, "its reserves would outweigh those of this nation by a far greater ratio."

GASOLINE RATION BELIEVED LIKELY

Plans Being Made For Fair Distribution Of Increasingly Short Supply

WASHINGTON, April 3.—(Special)—Gasoline as usual during the coming season is not in the cards. Government officials and representatives of the petroleum industry agree that a shortage is impending that cannot be blinked away.

Plans are being made to insure an equitable distribution of all available gasoline. When curtailment becomes necessary every filling station in the country will be cut a proportionate amount. This will be made possible by the improved transportation situation. The railroads are in a position to handle their proportion of production. The tanker situation has eased greatly as is indicated by the decline in rates.

The only thing that could interfere with the determination officials and the oil companies to distribute all available production equitably would be inability to secure the necessary transportation. Apparently both railroad and tanker facilities are adequate to handle more gasoline than can be produced.

With the great increase in mechanization on farms, the agricultural industry is consuming unprecedented amounts of gasoline. That use as well as the sharp increase in passenger car and truck consumption has outstripped production capacity.

The refinery capacity has not been able to keep pace with the demand due to the shortage of steel for the construction of additional facilities.

There has been a tendency on the part of the public to jump to the conclusion that because the oil industry was able to meet fuel oil requirements last winter a similar outcome may be expected this summer. There is nothing to justify such optimism. The spread between gasoline production and prospective demand is much greater. Since there is no thought of attempting to ration consumers, the only control will be exercised by the companies by reducing proportionately the amounts delivered to dealers. Dealers will be expected to exercise their judgment in apportioning supplies to those who need it most.

One possibility is that the uncertainty as to supply may curtail vacation travel by automobile. Motorists will think twice before starting on a trip if there is doubt that they will be able to secure gasoline along the road. The tendency of dealers will doubtless be to give preferment to local customers, with the possibility that supplies will not be available to tourists.

Some conservation of gasoline may result from the reluctance of public utility commissions to grant certificates for bus lines to replace streetcars and even to curtail the number of permits granted for bus operations.

Flood Waters Block Opening Of New Distillate Sector In Catahoula

Flood waters are continuing to delay opening of a new distillate field in Catahoula parish, discovered by Hunt Oil company and Gulf Refining company at their recently completed Louisiana Delta Lumber No. 1, a wildcat eight miles north of the Avoyelles parish line in section 6-4-5E.

During company tests, the well reportedly flowed 250 barrels of 40 gravity oil per day through a quarter-inch choke from the Wilcox sand, perforated from 5,506-12 feet. Gas-oil ratio was given as 2,860 to 1.

New operators in the South Delhi area of Franklin parish are steadily expanding production. Latest completion is Bryant and Caraway company's Merritt No. 1, section 11-16-8E, rated at flowing 277 barrels of 47 gravity oil a day through a 3/16-inch choke. Perforations are between 3,569-75 feet in the Paluxy.

About a mile to the northeast, C. H. Murphy, Jr., and Sun Oil company are preparing to complete the J. E. Holt No. 14, section 1-16-8W. Latest reports said the operators had logged an estimated 27 feet of oil sand in the Paluxy from 3,620-47 feet.

American Liberty Oil company is pushing ahead at its sixth location, the Holt No. 9, section 14-16-8E, where the company is waiting to cement surface pipe set at 413 feet. Two miles southwest of production, Tidewater Associated has staked location for a wildcat extension, the W. C. Fuller, section 15-16-8E.

The California Company is still engaged in building roads to the site of its new Ouachita parish exploration, the Walter Maxey No. 2, section 32-18-1E, about 14 miles west of Monroe. California has displayed increasing interest in the parish recently. Latest development is acquisition of broad spreads of acreage direct from landowners in an area about 12 miles west and six miles south of Monroe.

LaSalle and Concordia parishes both received setbacks last week. The LaSalle Little Creek field recorded three abandonments and the Olla sector a fourth. The casualties were Hunt's Tannehill-Gallagher No. 12 and 13, Placid Oil's Tremont Lumber No. 13, and Placid's Louisiana Central Lumber No. 125, 24-10-2E.

In Concordia, Hunt plugged his deep wildcat Fisher Lumber company No. 2 at 10,167 feet. Location was in section 33-7-9E, approximately three miles south of Vidalia.

The California company completed the Lake St. John Union 4 No. 1, section 30-8-7E with an officially gauged flow of 236 barrels a day. Test was through an 11/64-inch choke from perforations at intervals between 9,092-9,128 feet.

On the Tensas parish side, Magnolia Petroleum Company is coring an estimated 30 feet of sand in the lower Tuscaloosa at the Craft No. 1, section 51-9-10E. If successful, the test will extend production one location farther to the east.

The California Company is drilling ahead below 5,644 feet at the Lake St. John Unit No. 5, section 54-9-10E, after building a new derrick to replace the one destroyed last week when a gasser blew in at 5,257 feet.

HICO DISTILLATE TEST COMPLETED

Feazel Brings In Barham No. 1 For 97 Barrels Of Oil, 3,610,000 Feet Of Gas

W. C. Feazel and Southwest Gas Producing have brought in a second producer in the rich Hico-Knowles distillate sector of Lincoln parish, proving up considerable additional acreage in the fast-growing development.

Location of the test, the C. C. Barham No. 1, is in section 21-20-3W, almost at the door of Dubach, nearest town to the site.

Feazel's first project was the Cooper No. 1, section 25-20-4W, finaled like the Barham from the Bodcaw horizon around 8,300 feet.

On state potential test the well made a rating of 97.5 barrels of high gravity distillate daily with gas flow of 3.610 cubic feet of gas through one-quarter choke. Gas-oil ratio was 37,501:1. Production is from the Bodcaw zone of the field through perforations made at 8,510-8,530 with 160 shots. Baker plug was set at 8,630 feet to shut off the lower sand in which production was originally found. Prior to completion the test was acidized with 750 gallons of mud acid and with 2,000 gallons of 15 per cent hydrachloric acid.

Similar to other tests in the field the Barham came in with a fast rising gauge as the gas pressure jumped from nothing to sufficient to produce the amount of gas shown by the test of over three million cubic feet. Open flow pressure was not reported, but it was said that the well would show one of the highest pressures in the field, on open flow.

The Barham is more than 15,000 feet from the nearest production in the area which is a wide extension of the producing section in the north portion of the field.

In the lower half of the field in section 11-19-4W, the California company was waiting on cement to harden preparatory to starting testing of the J. L. Hood et al. Unit B-28 No. 1. Seven inch producing string was cemented at 8,834 after a coring job was completed at 8,770. Three other tests are actively drilling in the field, the California company M. H. Nobles Unit B-27 in section 12-19-4W which was waiting on cement after settling first string of 10 3/4 inch pipe to 1,810 feet, Southwest Gas Producing company Vaughn Unit 9 No. 1 in section 25-20-4W, drilling in red shale below 6,586 and Hunt Realty corporation Unit 16 No. 1 in section 26-20-4W drilling below 7,443 in red shale and sand.

South of the Hico-Knowles field approximately 12 miles, Carter Oil company's wildcat, Marvin Mathews No. 1 in section 22-18-4W, was making hole in black shale and hard sand below 9,376 feet.

THE NATION TODAY

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, April 3.—(AP)—Here are questions and answers on the new tax law which Congress passed over the president's veto.

This new law, although passed only yesterday, cuts everyone's 1948 income back to January 1.

But the boss will not start taking the new, lower tax cut of your paycheck till May 1.

Q. Since my tax has been cut back to January 1, then too much tax has been withheld from me. How does the boss make up for that?

A. He doesn't. He'll just start on May 1 taking less tax from you, according to the new rate, from May 1 to the end of the year.

Q. Then how do I ever get straight on that over-charged tax taken since January 1?

A. You wait till you make final return in 1949 on 1948 income. Whatever refund is due you, you will then get from the government.

Q. But this new law says husbands and wives can split their income to get a lower tax. When do I do that? I'm married. Should I remind my boss of that?

A. No. Husbands and wives go along just as they have been going. You don't split your income during 1948. You do that in 1949 when you file a final return on 1948 income.

Although the law allows couples to split their incomes, that doesn't change the way the boss has been withholding tax from you, except to cut down the amount he would have withheld if there had been no new law.

Q. But what do I do about the boss? Tell him anything? Change anything? Fill out new forms?

A. No. Just sit tight unless you're in the two groups—blind or over 65 years of age—explained here:

1. Every taxpayer, no matter what his age, now gets a personal exemption of $600. (It used to be $500.) This means $600 of your income is not taxable. And you get a $600 exemption for your wife, too. And you get a $600 exemption for each dependent. A wife is not a dependent.

But if you're a taxpayer and are 65 years old or will be 65 in 1948, you get an extra $600 exemption for yourself. If your wife is 65 or will be in 1948, you get an extra $600 exemption for her.

Example: You, the taxpayer, are 65. You get a total $1,200 exemption. If your wife is 65, you get another $1,200 exemption. But if you have a dependent who is 65 or older, you get only the straight $600 exemption for him.

2. Every taxpayer who is blind gets an extra $600 exemption, in addition to his regular $600 exemption. If your wife is blind, you get an extra $600 exemption for her, plus her regular $600 exemption.

Example: If you're a taxpayer and are blind, you get a total $1,200 exemption for yourself. If your wife is blind, you get a $1,200 exemption for her, too. But if you have a blind dependent, you get only the usual $600 exemption for a dependent.

If you're a taxpayer and are 65 and are blind, you get a total $1,800 exemption: The regular $600, plus $600 for being 65, plus $600 for being blind. You get an $1,800 exemption for your wife if she is 65 and blind.

If you're in Nos. 1 or 2 above you should—before May 1—fill out form W-4, called a withholding exemption certificate, and give it to your boss. Then the boss will make allowance for your age or blindness in figuring the amount of tax to withhold from you.

But only the people in Nos. 1 and 2 have to fill out any kind of form for the boss before he starts taking less tax from you on May 1.

Q. What of those people who on or before March 15 filed an estimated income tax return for 1948? What do they do?

A. Some people on or before March 15 had to file an estimated tax return on their 1948 income because the full tax was not being withheld from their income, or no tax was being withheld.

By March 15 they had to start making the first of four payments on the difference between the full tax they'd owe in 1948 and the amount of tax, if any, withheld from them in 1948.

The next payments are due June 15, September 15, 1948, and January 15, 1949. So their next payment is due June 15.

On that date these people file a revised estimate on their 1948 income tax. For some of them, because of the new cut, this will mean paying less estimated tax. For some their estimated tax will be wiped out altogether.

ACCIDENTAL SHOT WOUNDS NEGRO MAN

A 47-year-old Negro was wounded at 4:25 p. m. Saturday when a revolver in the hands of N. J. Dunn, bookkeeper for the Delta Automatic Music Company, accidentally discharged in the company's store, 804 DeSiard street, Monroe police reported last night.

The Negro, Charlie Mack, 708 Layton avenue was shot in the left side of the stomach, just above the belt, police said.

The Smith and Wesson .32 caliber pistol belonged to the injured Negro's brother-in-law, Lucien Webb, who had it in pawn for $15 and was to come for it Saturday afternoon.

"We were playing and I didn't know the pistol had any bullets in it," Dunn said. "I wouldn't have had it go off for anything in the world."

The wounded Negro was taken to the St. Francis Sanitarium by a Davis-Lawhead ambulance, where his condition was reported by hospital attendants to be critical.

M. G. Ward, manager of Delta Automatic Music Company said Charlie Mack had been in his employment for two years and was an excellent worker.

Police officers and an ambulance were summoned to the scene immediately by Dunn.

Steel Cut Worries Oilmen

A sharp cutback in steel production during the past few weeks as a result of the nation-wide soft coal strike may have serious consequences on the petroleum industry's plans for a program of record expansion.

With steel already in critically short supply, production declines in all major plants threaten to curb the number of new wells able to be drilled, as well as processing and refining of crude oil and natural gas.

The National Petroleum Council sounded a warning last week that further oil shortages are around the corner if sufficient steel is not available.

The Council's steel requirements committee reported the industry will need 15,571,500 tons of steel during the next 18 months to prevent shortages. This figure includes a 7,707,900-ton estimate of needs for oil and gas production, refining facilities and oil pipelines.

At the same time, the American Petroleum Institute reported that corrosion of refinery equipment is the chief obstacle to continuous maximum production of petroleum products. The problem is accentuated, it said, because many of the newer sources yield crude oil with a higher sulphur content.

Replacement of refinery equipment will be impossible, the Institute continued, unless adequate steel supplies are channeled immediately into the petroleum industry.

The industry meanwhile is going on record in favor of a definite allocation of steel. If oil and natural gas producers obtain anywhere near their demand, they fear increased requests by other major consumers for use in freight cars, automobiles and agricultural implements, with a resultant battle-royal.

New York

NEW YORK, April 3.—(AP)—Hedging and liquidation depressed cotton futures in active dealings today.

Extreme losses, chalked up on or shortly after the opening, were not maintained in subsequent dealings as a reappearance of trade and commission house buying was attracted to the list. Some of the selling earlier was based on technical considerations by the fact that some deliveries of cotton on Friday had advanced into new highs for the season.

FAMOUS OIL FIGURE SUCCUMBS IN TEXAS

HOUSTON, Tex., April 3.—(AP)—Daniel J. Moran, retired president of Continental Oil Company and one of the oil industry's legendary figures, died in a Houston hospital at 1:17 p. m. today.

During the past 40 years he rose from a summer vacation oil field worker to the vice-presidency of the Texas Company and president of Continental, formerly the Marland Oil Company.

Moran resigned as president of the Ponca City, Okla., company last December because of ill health. He underwent a serious operation last year and re-entered the Houston hospital several weeks ago. He had been in a coma the past three weeks.

He would have been 60 years old May 31.

During the past year, Mrs. Bannerman served the organization as third vice-president.

FIRE ALARMS

Firemen of companies 1, 3, and 6 answered an alarm at 309 North Eighth street at 3:43 p. m. yesterday. Firemen said the house, belonging to a Negro, Mary Parker, suffered a slightly damaged room when sparks from a trash fire ignited the wooden shingles.

West Monroe firemen were called to the 100 block of Flannigan street, West Monroe, at 10:40 p. m. Friday where a truck was reported on fire. Firemen said the truck belonged to W. T. McBroom of the Travelers Rest addition and was out when they arrived.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, April 3.—(AP)—Leading stocks tilted higher here and there in today's market although many pivotals did nothing or edged into minus territory.

Dealings quickened at intervals after the opening. Mild irregularity persisted near the close. Transfers for the two hours ran to about 500,000 shares.

Bonds were narrow and commodities nervous.

URGE EARL LONG TO CONTINUE TASK

State Board Of Institutions Asks Governor-Elect To Carry On Work Begun

ALEXANDRIA, La., April 3.—(AP)—A request for Gov.-Designate Earl K. Long to continue to improve state institutions was made today in a report by the state board of institutions on the status of the current $22,550,000 construction program.

Long was asked to carry on the work of the past eight years, undertaken "during trying times when it has been almost impossible to complete a building program not directly a part of the war effort."

Plans for two projects totalling more than $10,000,000 were being completed by architects, the report said. They are the Confederate Memorial Hospital, Shreveport, $8,000,000 and the third mental hospital, in St. Tammany parish, $2,500,000.

The board reported that a contract had been awarded for a receiving station and a hospital at the state penitentiary to cost $1,500,000. Other projects at the penitentiary will cost $260,000.

At the East Louisiana State Hospital six buildings totaling $1,082,000 have been completed and a $500,000 farm colony structure is 90 per cent finished. Contract for a white men's building to cost $1,218,600 has been awarded. Bids for a $600,000 power plant were received yesterday.

Contracts have been awarded for a tuberculosis unit and alterations and repairs at the Lafayette Charity Hospital. Total cost of both projects is $1,184,600. A TB unit at Ruston costing $775,000 is nearing completion.

At the state colony and training school near Alexandria work has almost been completed on three dormitories costing $800,000 and a laundry costing $30,000. A contract calling for $461,000 has been awarded for two additional buildings to house patients. Plans are being prepared for a sewerage disposal plan and a farm colony building to cost $550,000.

At Central Louisiana State Hospital, Pineville, a $600,000 women's receiving building is 70 per cent complete while other work totaling $350,000 has been completed.

Other work is underway at the Industrial School for Colored Youths, $539,700; Florida Parishes Charity Hospital, $190,000; Industrial School for Girls, near Alexandria, $200,000; Hot Wells, $380,000; Pineville Charity Hospital, $200,000; Conway Memorial Hospital, $220,000; Greenwell Springs Tuberculosis Unit, $130,000.

The board which made the report is composed of Dr. M. F. Jarrell, Alexandria, chairman, Dr. Walter Leabo, F. X. Mouton, Dr. O. B. Owens and Dr. C. S. Holbrook.

like to see the excises on cosmetics and luggage, now 20 per cent of retail price, returned to their former 10 per cent of retail levels.

The transportation tax, at 3 per cent on the bills for moving freight, now yields about $276,000,000 annually; the communications excise 15 per cent on local telephone bills, 25 per cent on long distance telephone, telegraph, cables, radio and leased wires; brings the treasury about $418,000,000 annually—on a total of almost $700,000,000 on the communications and transportation levies.

The cosmetics and luggage excises yield $180,000,000.

Knutson declined to estimate how much revenue might be lost in the general revision of the internal revenue code, qualifying his proposed adjustments with "if we can afford it."

Senator George (R-Ga), senior Democrat on the senate finance committee, saw little hope for cutting excise levies at this time.

George supported the individual income tax cut and he said today revisions of the excise list are needed, but he emphasized that "this would lose a lot of revenue, and we can't affort it."

The West Closes Its Ranks
British Foreign Minister Bevin and Anthony Eden, deputy leader of the Opposition, agree: "The time is ripe for consolidation of Western Europe." Bevin announces Britain discards traditional policy of staying aloof while holding the balance of power in favor of federation that would be as strong or stronger than USSR and its satellites.
"Benelux" nations (Belgium, Netherlands, Luxembourg) plus France and Britain are nucleus of western European federation.

Club; associate editor of the Pow Wow, and she was a member of the Purple Jackets, E. H. S. and Wig and Mask Clubs, Delta Psi Omega, national dramatic honor society, and the Baptist Student Union. She was one of the elected "Big Shots" during her sophomore year here.

Miss Scott held office in the Student Council, and Purple Jackets. Her biggest job was serving as president of Phi Theta Kappa. Other organization activities included membership in the Wig and Mask Club, Westminster Foundation and the E. H. S. Club. Also interested in student publications, Miss Scott held the post of associate editor of the Chacahoula and membership on the Pow Wow staff. She was chosen for "Who's Who" for the Chacahoula, and a "Big Shot" in the annual election.

Three local pastors were donated new automobiles by their appreciative and generously inclined parishioners, this column stated yesterday, but along comes W. C. Salley, mighty power at Ridge Avenue Baptist Church and declared: "Why our pastor, Rev. A. T. Mitchell, got a car from this church months ago as a token of kindly forethought of his membership. How about this?" We apologize, this makes four such cars donated in the Twin Cities to date. We wish all churches hereabouts could follow the pattern set.

Last week and this week have been designated as safety period by the local Amvets' Auxiliary. Each school child in the city of Monroe will, during this time, be urged by teachers to observe all possible caution in the streets of the city so that life and limb be spared from accident. That's what that big streamer means as it hangs across DeSiard street. School children, too, have a chance to win a prize. They will all be encouraged to prepare and submit a slogan and the one regarded the best, will be the one to enable its author to win a valuable prize. The project in Monroe is closely allied with a similar one that is being fostered by the Louisiana Press Association in a public service program. If only one life is saved through this means, it will be worth all time and effort expended.

Mrs. Charles M. Ponder, of West Monroe, has been so fortunate as to have been named on a Mother's Day broadcast from New York May 5. She is still in doubt as to just what her role in the air will be, but she knows that her selection resulted through a winning letter that her son, Jack, 16-year-old high school student, wrote to a magazine that has arranged the contest. Mrs. Ponder and her son will be given an all-expense paid trip to New York in order to fill the engagement on the air.

The West Monroe branch of the parish library the past week lost a librarian. Miss Maggie Cason, who completed a library course at L. S. U. at midterm, came to Monroe and was at once employed at the West Monroe branch library, which place she accepted only until such time a better position offered. In the short space of two months, the better job appeared. She received a wire Thursday that a U. S. Navy library job is open and she was on her way to Pensacola, Fla., the next day as a result.

Everybody who has a birthday watch out! To disclose this important personal information will cost the person who talked too much the sum of 25 cents. This somewhat unique project is to be initiated at once by the Crosley school band in West Monroe, Thomas McCrea, director. Profits that are derived from this source will be used for the purchase of band instruments.

The project runs thuswise: Persons will be solicited to break down and give their natal days—how far back it may be won't be a matter to be questioned. . . . Then the person will be asked to pay 25 cents for which financial consideration he will receive a calendar with his birthdate printed on the square where the birthday event falls. Looks like it might prove considerable fun and also at the same time add some needed cash to the treasury of the school's band.

M. P. Hayes, to the delight of many friends, was able to leave the hospital for home yesterday. He had a close call when his car crashed into the river bridge at Sterlington. . . . Bishop Pipes, of Calhoun, has been elected president of Les Precieuse Ridicule, society for students of French in Louisiana Tech. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cowden had an enjoyable time last Sunday when they drove to Natchitoches and made a trip over the famed Azalia Trail. Took two hours and was worth going several hundred miles to be observed, Mr. Cowden stated. He even declared that he measured (by foot measure) one azalia and he swears that it was 108 feet around. He asserts his eyesight and sobriety are unquestioned. . . . Mrs. W. H. Dennis, whose son Charles, wife and infant, are in Berlin, where he is with the occupational forces, was much relieved to get a cablegram Friday stating that unpleasant upheavals between rival forces in the German capital have in no way affected him or his family and that all are well and happy. . . .

Billy Inabnet and Roy Holland, Jr., when boating on Bayou DeSiard, Friday, suddenly came upon a long and skinny alligator. After the excitement over the sudden discovery abated the next thing to be done was to knock out any possible fight in the creature. A stick of firewood lying nearby was utilized and the 'gator in a semiconscious condition was taken ashore.

It is nearly four feet in length and is believed to be four or five years of age but it still has that "girlish figure," a rotund girth being still lacking, so that it is believed to be still in its early babyhook. But what to do with the "baby" is the next question. Our bet would be that it will be added to the collection at the zoo in Bernstein park.

MOTOR TRANSPORT ELECTS OFFICERS

Association Goes On Record As Sponsors Of Highway Safety Plan

BATON ROUGE, La., April 3.—(AP)—The Louisiana Motor Transport association today ended its eighth annual convention here by electing new officers and going on record as sponsoring a safety program.

Elected president unanimously was Ivan W. "Pat" Patterson, general sales manager of the General Gas Corporation, of Baton Rouge. He succeeds Kirke Couch, of Shreveport. Patterson, a former assistant collector of revenue, now heads the largest private carrier group in the association.

Others elected were Sherman R. England, of New Orleans, treasurer; Ben H. Grayson, of Baton Rouge, secretary-manager, and Joe B. Herrin, of Shreveport, Louisiana vice president of the American trucking associations.

England presented the highway safety plan to the convention and was named chairman of the program. Raymond Heard, of Ruston, a former LMTA president, was chosen to head the group's public relations program.

Vice presidents included: Jefferies, of Alexandria.

AMERICAN SCIENTIST TAKES BLOOD TESTS OF FORMER MEXICAN

WASHINGTON, April 3.—(AP)—American scientists have just finished taking blood tests on a native of Mexico—with some interesting results.

Why interesting? Well, this Mexican is 15,000 years old, which is pretty old to have your blood tested. (He had type A).

Dr. William S. Laughlin of Harvard University told the American Association of Physical Anthropologists all about it. He conducted the tests.

"If this finding is verified," he said, "it will be the oldest skeleton whose blood type has been determined."

The remains of this elderly Mexican were found last year. His name is Tepezpan Man, and his blood was checked by grinding up some of his bones and testing them—a method generally frowned upon by physicians, except for 15,000-year-olds.

This has nothing to do with the blood tests, but scientists figure Tepexpan was an elephant-hunter. They found the skeleton of an ancient pachyderm close by the Mexican's old bones.

The population of the Union of South Africa is now more than 11,000,000 but when the British came there 150 years ago it was only 50,000.

RUSSIANS HOLD TARGET SHOOT NEAR U. S. KOREAN OUTPOST

Villagers Afraid To Venture Close To Soviet Entrenchments On Line

By Roy Roberts

AT THE 38TH PARALLEL, Korea, April 3.—(AP)—Russian troops are holding frequent target practices, just north of this arbitrary boundary which divides Korea between Soviet and American occupation forces.

Villagers who lives just south of the line in the American zone are afraid to venture near the border, defined by newly-dug earthworks on the Soviet side.

North Koreans, in turn, appear so suspicious that one of them actually threw away an American cigarette which this correspondent laid on the line for him. A cigarette is an article of considerable black market value. In more than two years in Korea I never before had seen a Korean disdain one.

This point in the middle of the Ongjin peninsula on Korea's west coast was visited today by this correspondent and Richard J. H. Johnston of the New York Times.

Shortly after we arrived at an American outpost near the vlilage of Sinchon, we heard several bursts of fire, apparently from a Russian Tommygun. It could have been for our benefit.

American troops at the outpost said this was feeble compared with the frequent shooting practices held by the Russians.

They said 40 to 50 Soviet enlisted men usually marched to an area just north of the line but hidden from American view by a ridge. Rifle and sub-machine gun practice is held in mornings and mortars are fired in the afternoons, the Americans said.

Koreans generally swarm around an American visitor wherever he goes. They did the same here until we started up a rise for a closer look at a long trench the north Korean constabulary has dug under Soviet supervision only 75 yards north of the demarcation line.

As we neared U. S. marker No. 4, our entourage vanished as if magically, when we came back down, the crowd rejoined us. One old man reported in pantomime that the trench was chest-deep, but he was unable to show how he knew this.

Similar trenches are dug on the Soviet side at intervals clear across this 25-mile-wide peninsula that juts out into the yellow sea. There are others across almost the breadth of Korea.

American officers say they would be of little if any value in modern warfare. There is no such work on the American side and no evidence of offensive or defensive preparations.

At another outpost I peered through field glasses at six square holes, each about six feet deep and connected by trenches. American enlisted men said these had been dug entirely by Soviet troops, without north Korean help.

They were empty, but the Americans said they could be intended for gun emplacements to command a major road crossing the boundary.

Placing a cigarette on the rocks, we motioned to a north Korean constabularyman who was on duty nearby to come and get it.

He ignored us at first, then began shouting and motioning to us to go away.

As we walked off the bridge southward, the constable sent a north Korean villager and had him throw the cigarette back into the American zone.

FINNISH CABINET

The cabinet session was deferred until afternoon because he was too worn to receive the ministers in the morning.

Responsible sources said he had drafted a preliminary reply to Moscow in mid-week, but never sent it.

His original reply was said to have agreed that Finland would defend her borders in the event of an attack directed against the Soviet Union, but that Finland would be free to determine when such an attack threatened and when military cooperation with the Russians should begin.

Whether the final directive followed the same line could not be learned.

Earlier, most of the parliamentary groups were against any military agreement at all.

One of the main reasons for bringing the two delegates back from Moscow, it was reported, was to determine at first hand how far Finland could go in limiting the scope of the proposed military clauses.

A threatening Communist press campaign against the majority of parliament which opposes military clauses continued. The Communist organ, Tyokansan Sanomat, declared "this rubbish element must be wiped out of history, at elast in the next elections if not earlier."

The newspaper said there are "dirty intriguers who imagine by trying to postpone a solution they can still discover a way to join the imperialistic war camp."

HARPER FREED AS MURDER SUSPECT

Jones, Harper And Wife Undergo Intensive Questioning By Officials

Seven hours of cross examination yesterday directed upon Willie Jones, Robert Harper and Mrs. "Tommie" Harper by District Attorney George Lester, Sheriff R. E. Harp and Deputy W. H. Griffin, resulted yesterday afternoon in the release of the Harpers, with Jones being sent back to the Morehouse parish jail.

Held since the brutal slaying of Mrs. Dorothy Jones February 20, Harper was released by Morehouse parish sheriff officials and the district attorney, according to Sheriff Harp

Lester said that he had instructed both Harper and his 19-year-old wife that they must notify officers if they move from the Bastrop-Mer Rouge vicinity.

Jones, 27, will be held in the parish prison for "a while longer," Lester said.

Mrs. Jones was found battered about her head February 20 in her small farm home three miles east of Mer Rouge. Her two young children were lying on the bed with the nude corpse, Sheriff Harp said.

A truth serum, sodium amytal, was administered to Jones twice, once March 22 and again April 1. Given the injection with Jones the last time were both Mr. and Mrs. Harper, according to the district attorney.

"The case is far from closed," Lester said. "Somehow we will uncover a clue that will convict the person who committed the brutal murder."

BROWN'S DRIVER'S LICENSE REVOKED

J. H. Brown, 40, was fined $100 and his driver's license was revoked for 12 months by Judge W. M. Harper in city court Saturday.

Brown was arrested Friday night by Monroe police officers and charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

ON ARMY DAY, APRIL 6, there's something YOU CAN DO for World Peace

Typical crowd at a 1947 Army Day exhibit

Army Day is the day every American can set aside to salute the men in uniform. And this year, particularly, it is a day for every young man in the nation to consider the contribution he can make to World Peace.

Right now you have the finest 100% volunteer Army of any nation in the history of the world. But it is still below the strength authorized by Congress. Able men are needed for the Infantry, Artillery and Armored Cavalry.

You can make a contribution to World Peace by joining the National Guard or the Organized Reserve Corps. These splendid civilian components have been credited by top military leaders for much of the success in quick mobilization and actual winning of the last war. Today they are important factors in backing up the strength of the Regular Army.

Both Veterans and non-Veterans who meet requirements are eligible to enlist in the Organized Reserve Corps. Veterans retain the grade and rating earned in the Army.

In many high schools and most colleges, you can join the R.O.T.C. and get your military training and credit toward a Reserve commission along with your education.

Any one of these steps that you can take on Army Day will help toward making America strong. And it has never been truer than right now that A STRONG AMERICA IS A PEACEFUL AMERICA.

Make a point, on April 6, of stopping in at your U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station and getting the information about the part you can play toward World Peace.

ON ARMY DAY

- ★Display your American flag
- ★Wear your Veteran's lapel button
- ★Find out how you can make a contribution to World Peace in the Regular Army, the National Guard, the Organized Reserve Corps or R.O.T.C.

JONES, SPENCE SHARE FIRST BASE FOR SOX

M'CARTHY'S MAIN JOB TO GET KINKS OUT OF PITCHING

Marse Joe Set Elsewhere And Has Ted Williams To Boot

By Harry Grayson

SARASOTA, Fla., April 3.—(NEA)—When the Red Sox paid the Browns $360,000 for Stephens, Kramer, Kinder and Hitchcock and threw in several guys named Joe, Dan Topping of the Yankees squawked to Commissioner Chandler.

And when the Senators obligingly passed along Stan Spence, the Bosox were loaded like Notre Dame in football.

Joe McCarthy has always said: "Give me four to hit it, three to throw it, and two to make the double play, and I'll win in any league."

Well, Marse Joe certainly should have four to hit it, and then some, from among Dom DiMaggio, Pesky, Mele, Williams, Spence or Jones, Tebbetts.

Junior Stephens and Bobby Doerr will make the double play.

That leaves pitching the only prescription to be filled. McCarthy has Dobson, Kramer, Kinder, Galehouse, Johnson, Dorish, Parnell and the recruits, Earl Toolson, Cot Deal and the left-handed Windy McCall and Maurice McDermott. These are exclusive of the Big Three of 1946 that flopped the Boston Americans from the top to third place last season.

The 1948 Red Sox are a striking example of the fact that a club never has enough good pitching.

Straightening out the pitching is McCarthy's main job, and the assignment couldn't be in better hands. Marse Joe develops and supervises singers like Ben Jones handles horses. Thoroughbreds run kindly for Plain Ben. Pitchers pitch well for McCarthy.

The Buffalo Irishman still doesn't know, however, whether the Big Three of 1946 will be any more effective this trip than they were last.

Chatting with McCarthy, who will tell you the right time any time provided you see his watch, you gather that he hasn't much faith in Tex Hughson, who underwent two operations calculated to correct his ailing arm. Mickey Harris' arm appears sound again, and there have been encouraging signs. Boo Ferriss has been so wild that he has had to aim his pitches.

Outside of the pitching, McCarthy appears to have the winning combination which he has usually managed to bob up with down through the years.

Spence and Murrell "Jake" Jones will alternate at first base depending on the opposing pitching. Johnny Pesky shortly will be perfectly at home at third base.

With skillful guidance and the canny McCarthy playing to his ego, Ted Williams is sure pop to have a terrific year, easily could be the difference. The Little Professor DiMaggio in center field completes an accomplished down-through-the-middle combination. Same Mele is to come into his own in right field.

Birdie Tebbetts is a first class catcher, who hit .299 in 1947 after moving to Fenway Park. Behind him are Babe Martin, up from Toledo and smacking a long ball, and Matt Batts, who spent last term with Toronto.

The reserves are all right. Young Infielder Bill Goodman, for example, hit .389 for Atlanta in 1946 and .340 when switched from the outfield to shortstop in Louisville last summer.

This Hub outfit has sufficient speed, power and a friendly left field barrier at home.

Under McCarthy, the Bosox will hustle and win, or else. He knows no other way. For those who might have had their own way under Joe Cronin and elsewhere, the picnic is over.

And what ballplayer doesn't want to win.

Something generally overlooked in analyzing the 1948 Red Sox is the 61-year-old McCarthy's health. The winningest manager of them all really works at his trade, and the condition of his gall bladder is about as important to the Tom Yawkey fortunes as any other one thing.

Meanwhile, interviewing the manager of the Red Sox will consist of nothing more than a lot of dumb answers to as many dumb questions.

CINDERELLAS TANGLE WITH ADDS HERE TODAY

Lefty Judy Napoleon has been named to start on the mound for the Cinderella Sports against the Adds of Port Gibson, Miss., at Casino Park here this afternoon. The Cinderellas, promising Monroe semi-pro Negro baseball club which won its opener last Sunday from the Jackson, Miss., Cubs, will engage the Adds at 3 o'clock.

Port Gibson is reported loaded with left handed batters and Manager Hardy Goins, in selecting Napoleon, figured it would take a southpaw chunker to stop them.

A public address system has been installed at Casino Park to help the fans follow the game, and a special section has been reserved for white customers.

CORBETT RESIGNS SPORTS PUBLICITY POST WITH L. S. U.

Jack Fiser Takes Over Job Of Promoting Tiger Athletes

BATON ROUGE, La., April 3.—(AP)—Jim Corbett, sports publicity director at Louisiana State Unviersity for the past four years, has resigned effective April 30, it was announced today by President Harold W. Stoke and Athletic Director T. P. "Red" Heard.

The announcement said that Jack Fiser, of Baton Rouge, who has been Corbett's assistant, will assume his duties May 1.

Corbett said he has accepted a position with Marion T. Fannally, Inc., of Ponchatoula, as promotion director and assistant sales manager.

Corbett, who served during the war with the Marines, is vice president of the southern chapter of the American Football Writers Association. He is also a member of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity, and was for two years an Associated Press staff member. He was graduated in 1944 from Southeastern Louisiana College at Hammond.

Gaynell Tinsley, head coach at L. S. U. was one of a number of university officials who expressed regret at Corbett's resignation.

"We at L. S. U. think Jim has done an excellent job in building good will for the university and publicizing its sports program," Tinsley said. "We shall miss him and keenly regret his leaving."

Corbett's resignation leaves vacant also the office of director of the news bureau at L. S. U. He has been acting in this capacity since November.

Fiser is also a former Marine. He was discharged as a captain after seven years service. He is an ex-sports writer and has been affiliated since July with the university, from which he was graduated in 1946.

TULSA OBTAINS REDLEG LEFTHANDER ON OPTION

ALEXANDRIA, La., April 3.—(AP)—Grayle Howlett, general manager of the Tulsa Oilers, announced today acquisition of Pitcher Henry Perkowski on option from the Cincinnati Reds.

Howlett classed Perkowski, a left-hander, as a good prospect for a starting berth this season. He won seven and lost 12 for Columbia, cellar dwellers in the class A Sally League in 1947. In 1946 he won 23 and lost 6 for Ogden, Utah, in the Class C Pioneer League, striking out 209.

Other probable starting twirlers for Tulsa are Mac Stewart, Tommy Warren and Stone, veterans of the '47 Oilers.

Mel Ott's Giants Go Right On Slapping Their Way To Nowhere

By Chester L. Smith

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 3.—NEA)—The Giants virtually re-wrote the major league slugging records last year, and Buddy Kerr set a new defensive mark at shortstop.

Yet the club finished fourth, never was a factor after Aug. 1.

The New York Nationals teamed to produce 221 home runs, splattered no less than five other fresh marks into the book. It was a display of power that hadn't been seen since the old Yankees of the Babe Ruth-Lou Gehrig period.

Patently, something was wrong somewhere, and you don't have to go farther than the pitching mound to discover the seat of the trouble.

This spring the Polo Grounders are being given an outside chance to present Mel Ott with his first pennant since he took over under Coogan's Bluff in 1942.

But the story hasn't changed. Unless Master Melvin, who is no longer the Boy Wonder but instead sees himself approaching 40 through heavy horn-rimmed spectacles, can buttress his pitching, the Giants may go on slapping their way to nowhere.

Give Ott a capable staff, however, and he could see the World Series for free.

Ott has the beginnings of what he needs in Larry Jansen, who came up from San Francisco last year to become a 21-game winner. But it must not be overlooked that the lanky Oregonian will be flirting with that finicky gal, Miss Sophmore Jinx. She has played dirty tricks on second-year players before, and Ott will be squirming until he is certain the Pansen of '48 is a carbon copy of the '47 model.

Dave Koslo was the only other Giant pitcher whose victories were posted in double figures. The left-hander won 15, lost 10. He also fell heir to chips in his elbow, which necessitated an operation.

Koslo didn't throw for the first month of the training season. He's as full of question marks as a quiz show.

Ottie hopes to get a lot more out of his young phenom, Clint Hartung. Regarded by some as a displaced person who should be in the outfield, the Hondo Horror had a 9-7 mark last semester. The boy wants to pitch. His manager has confidence in his ability.

A fourth starter, if all works out for the best, would be Monty Kennedy. Felled by a line drive off Walker Cooper's bat while pitching batting practice in Pittsburgh last summer, this young southpaw finished with 9-12. But he keeps getting hurt.

Late in '47, the Giants brought in Ray Poat from Baltimore and Sheldon Jones from Jersey City. Junior Thompson is still around. Bill Ayers still can't get anybody out. Hub Andrews and left-handed Earl McGowan are minor league graduates. Jack Hallett, who couldn't win with the Pirates, is up for another trial. Left-handers Vern Olsen and 40-year-old Thornton Lee, formerly with the Cubs and White Sox, respectively, are attempting comebacks.

The veteran reliefer, Joe Beggs, is testing his arm after an operation similar to Koslo's, and of course, there's Ken Trinkle, who haunts the bullpen, and has been the most reliable rescue man.

If Ott seems to be paying attention exclusively to his pitchers and neglecting the other stations, it is because he could name his opening day lineup today.

The infield will be Johnny Mize, co-holder of the league home run record with Ralph Kiner of the Pirates, at first; Bill Rigney on second and Kerr in the short field, with Jack Lohrke at third.

There may be better down-the-middle combinations than Rigney and Kerr, but they'll do.

Whitey Lockman, who broke a leg last year and got into but two games, is back to patrol the outfield with Bobby Thomson and Willard Marshall.

There hasn't been a more able crew on the Polo Grounds lawn in years.

They're all young, and can hit, and they are supported by Sid Gordon and Les Layton, a 26-year-old chap built like Ted Williams who manufactured 20 home runs for the pennant-winning Jersey City last trip.

Behind the plate, the robust Cooper has more than adequate support in Mickey Livingston and Wesley Westrum, a recruit from Minneapolis who has made a good impression.

Mickey Witek, Buddy Blattner, Lou Stringer and Bob Rhawn are infield reserves. Stringer was with Los Angeles last season. Rhawn drove in 90 runs batting .302 for Minneapolis, hit .311 in 13 engagements finishing with the Giants.

"Those pitchers," he says. "They can make or break us.

"We'll score plenty of runs.

TIGERS DOMINATE FIRST SOUTHERN RELAYS PROGRAM

Auburn Wins Six Events; Navy Takes Three And Maroons Two

By Chick Hosch

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 3.—(AP)—Auburn completely dominated the first annual Southern Relays here today by taking first place in six of the 15 events.

A team representing the Naval Academy took three first places despite a limited number of entrants and Mississippi State grabbed two. Miami, Tennessee, and Alabama each won one event, and Henry Gardner, ex-University of Florida star competing unattached, won the high jump.

No team points were kept.

Jimmy Walker, Auburn sophomore, provided the biggest thrill with a clean cut victory in the 100-yard dash in the time of 9.8. He had won the opening heat in 9.7.

Of the six relay events, Auburn won three of them and was third in another.

In the high hurdles, the Tigers placed three men in the finals with two of them, Joe Pennington and Jack Demedicis, hitting the wire in a blanket finish in the finals. Pennington was declared the winner. Don Waitzman, Auburn's third hurdler, finished in a tie for third place with Mississippi State's Jack Haley.

Fred Bowman was the first of Navy's winners, taking the broad jump. In the quarter mile, two Navy entrants, Arthur Bigley and Willie Kash, finished one-two. The other Navy victory came in the javelin when William Patton took first with a heave of 185 feet, 5 inches.

Mississippi State's one mile relay jumped out front on the first lap and was never headed to win in the fast time of 3:23.9. The Maroons' other first place came in the discus on a heave of 132 feet, 1/2 inch, by Dub Garrett.

Gardner, Southeastern Conference title holder, took the high jump with a leap of six feet, four inches.

GRAYSON'S SCOREBOARD

By Harry Grayson

CORAL GABLES, Fla., April 3.—(NEA)—It was Warren Wright, and not the Jones boys, who took Doug Dodson off Armed in the Widener, and precipitated that young man's break with fabulous Calumet Farm.

The Golden Gelding lacked his previous early speed, was carried wide at the first turn of the McLennan. Owner Wright didn't like it, didn't care to take any chances with Assault in the $50,000 Widener.

The big horse was Al Snider's, making that great race rider's untimely loss at 28 all the more tragic.

Snider didn't really come into his own until a year ago, and was at his peak with Calumet when he had to be given up as drowned with two companions while fishing in the Everglades Wilderness at the tip of Florida.

Snider had everything to live for, a lovely wife and two sweet little daughters in the home at Miami Springs, and Citation, the Big Horse of the Year, Armed, Bewitch, a remarkable crop of two-year-olds, and all the other Calumet stars at his command.

Snider couldn't have missed earning more than $150,000 this year. Calumet collected $1,520,000 in 1947, is even better fortified this trip, and the jockey gets 10 per cent.

Citation is already practically conceded the Triple Crown.

A number of close observers would not be the least surprised if the training Jones boys—Ben A. and Jimmy—ran one-two-three in the Kentucky Derby, and Free America, as they did in the Washington Park Futurity last summer with Bewitch, Citation and Free America.

Horses have been called another Man o' War, but the ease with which Citation beat older steeds at Hialeah has such veteran handlers as Bert Williams of Circle M and Sarge Swenke, who brought out a pretty good runner in Alsab, saying that this rangy bay son of Bull Lea is the one to make them forget Big Red.

And Ben Jones calls Coaltown another bay Bull Lea, the fastest he has ever looked after.

Citation never lost with Snider up, dropped only the decision to Bewitch, and the supposition is that Steve Brooks didn't persevere with him in the Washington Futurity. Certainly he didn't use the whip.

It was more important to the stable to have unbeaten Bewitch prevail that day.

The jockeys—Doug Dodson on Bewitch, Brooks on Citation and Snider on Free America—cut up the pot. The riders were instructed not to knock out their mounts if one of them had the situation well in hand.

Getting back to Snider, the Calgary product broke rapidly in the right direction under George Odom in New York in 1944.

Snider was a jock's jock, and extremely popular. He was a hustler with fine judgment and an extraordinary pair of hands. He had the nerve of a bang burglar, didn't hestiate to take his mount through the narrowest of holes when he saw one.

Al Snider had thoroughly established himself and was rapidly on his way to unparalleled heights when the storm blew him and his companions out of sight.

PENN STATE ASKS ALUMNI TO HELP MAKE SCHEDULE

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., April 3.—(AP)—Penn State is polling its alumni to find out the 10 opponents they would most like to see on the Lion football schedule.

The Nittany Lions are currently riding the crest of their most successful football campaign in decades. After steamrollering undefeated through a nine-game 1947 schedule, the Lions tied Southern Methodist, 13-13, in the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day.

H. R. Gilbert, graduate manager of Lion athletics, sanctioned the poll, but said the probabilities of achieving a schedule most pleasing to everyone are rather slim.

ELLWOOD WINS FEATHER CROWN FOR L. S. U.

MOSS LOSES OUT IN SPLIT DECISION TO BADGER STAR

14,000 Turn Out For N. C. A. A. Boxing Finals At Madison, Wis.

MADISON, Wis., April 3.—(AP)—A crowd of some 14,000 was on hand tonight as the pick of the nation's collegiate boxers vied for titles in the finals of the 11th N. C. A. A. tournament, at the University of Wisconsin field house.

The 16 survivors, two in each weight class, earned their berths through two days of fighting which have attracted 34,000 fans.

The field includes three defending champions, all unbeaten through the dual season and all favored to repeat. The trio includes Light-weight Charley Davey, Michigan State, seeking his third crown; Middleweight Herb Carlson, Idaho, and Heavyweight Art Saeu, Miami (Fla.). Tonight's winners, in addition to N. C. A. A. titles, will earn spots in the U. S. Olympic team trials to be staged in Boston next June.

Flyweight Ernie Charboneau of Michigan State took home the first championship, winning a split decision from Jim Demos of Miami. The fight was stopped after 33 seconds of the third round when Charboneau opened a cut above Demos' left eye.

Wisconsin's Steve Gremban used a left hand sharply in his fight with Wilbert (Bill) Moss of Louisiana, who last night eliminated Bantamweight Defending Champion Gerry Auclair of Syracuse. Gremban was awarded a split decision and the title.

Moss's teammate, Featherweight Doug Ellwood reversed the verdict a slugfest with another Badger, Jim Sreenan. The pair slugged each other throughout the three rounds, but Ellwood landed three fast lefts in the final heat which slowed the Badger boxer and was awarded a split decision.

Davy, a quick footed southpaw, outboxed Bob Apperson of Wisconsin to repeat his 1943 and 1947 lightweight division championships. Apperson punched hard and had the Spartan titlist in some trouble in the final round, but Davey rallied to win the decision unanimously.

Welterweight Don Dickinson won Wisconsin's second title with a verdict over hard punching Don Brown of the California Aggies in a bout stopped in 27 seconds of the third round when Dickinson opened a cut under Brown's eye. The loss was Brown's first in 12 fights this year.

Carlson, a steady puncher with either hand, won his second straight title and ninth fight of the year in the middleweight division. The Idaho battler was awarded a split decision over Windmill Eddie Rieder of Maryland after a wild battle.

Cal Vernon, Wisconsin's Negro light heavyweight, stalked Idaho's Bill Diehl through the first round but caught a straight left under one eye at 1:08 of the second round and the fight was stopped. Vernon was ahead on points and was awarded the unanimous decision.

PELICANS' TRACK TEAM SHAPES UP

L. T. I. Spikemen To Compete In Class C At Ruston Rally

The track and field team at Louisiana Training Institute, which plans to compete in the Class C division of the north Louisiana meet at Ruston soon, is beginning to shape up and Coach Willis Tarver feels he'll have a good squad in his class although it hasn't the experience of the 1946 team that won the district Class B title.

The Class C division was set up last year, and an epidemic of flu at L. T. I. kept the Pels away from the rally, and they'll be returning this spring for the first time since their 1946 successes.

The team, working out since March 1, is already shaping up as follows:

220-yard run: Caldas and Crochet.

Discus: Louis Trahan and Jesse Blanchard.

Javelin: Ted Goudet and Harry Boyer.

High jump: Charles Carter and Boyer.

Broad jump: Johnny Tamborella and Crochet.

120-yard high hurdles and 220-yard low hurdles: Fontenot.

Mile relay and shuttle relay: Caldas, LaGrange, Crochet, and Fontenot.

So far there has been no decision on a miler and half miler, but boys are expected to be picked for these spots within the week. There is also chances of some turnover in the rest of the lineup during the next few days, depending on the response of some boys to their training.

DOWNSVILLE PREP TEAM LOOKS GOOD

DOWNSVILLE, La., April 3.—(Special)—Downsville High School's baseball team has got away to a good start this season as Coach Bill Hamilton's boys have won five of their six engagements so far.

After losing the first game of the season to Farmerville, Downsville has bounded back to win every game since, defeating Marion twice, Choudrant twice, and Calhoun once. The last three games, two with Choudrant's Aggies and one with Calhoun, were shutouts.

Taylor, Downsville hurler, has already distinguished himself with a no-hit performance, having goose-egged Marion on March 26 when he struckout nine batters. Watson, another pitcher, has won two and lost none.

Donald Hammons leads the Downsville stick work at the present with a batting average of .500. J. Bayles is slugging away at a better than .400 clip, and Carter, Hicks, and Barkley in the .300 and better class.

Coach Hamilton's boys will participate in the North Louisiana Rally at Ruston on April 30 and May 1, and probably the state rally at Baton Rouge on May 14 and 16.

MIKAN MOST VALUABLE NATIONAL LOOP CAGER

INDIANAPOLIS, April 3.—(AP)—George Mikan, six-foot, 10-inch center of the Minneapolis Lakers, has been voters the National Basketball League's most valuable player for the 1947-48 season.

The poll of 49 sports writers, broadcasters, coaches and managers was just a formality after Mikan broke every scoring record on the league's books. He received 45 votes.

Big George set six all-time league records—a 1,195-point grand total, an average of 21.3 points in 56 games, 406 field goals, a 17-goal total for one game, 383 free throws and a one-game total of 42 points.

COLUMBIA, La., April 3.—(Special)—The Columbia Ramblers and the Olla Tigers, members of the new North Central Louisiana League, will meet at the Columbia Memorial Park here Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in an exhibition contest. It will be the first game of the season for both clubs.

Rosters of the Olla and Columbia teams are about the same as those the two teams exploited in the North Louisiana League last year, but some new local talent has been added by both the Tigers and Ramblers.

Columbia expects to give Humes, Stroud, Smith, and Fluitt turns on the mound Sunday, while Olla will probably offer Burnett, Yessett, Tannehill, and Gough.

In addition to Olla and Columbia, the North Central circuit includes Clarks, Jena, and Jonesville. It is likely that a Ferriday entry will come in to round out a six-club loop. League play begins Sunday, May 2.

BOBBY SEGURA BATTLES LAYE FOR LIGHT-HEAVY TITLE HERE

Chief Chiwchki, Gypsy Matman, In Local Debut At Kallio's Tuesday

Bobby Segura, the light heavyweight wrestling champion of Mexico who passed up a world's title shot in favor of Mel Peters a couple of weeks ago, will make his bid for the world's belt here Tuseday night against Champion Charlie Laye.

The classy Mexican bulldog, who has become quite a favorite with Promoter Gus Kallio's customers lately, will have the mad addicts rooting strong for him this trip. Although the customers begrudgingly admit Laye "has something," they have never taken to the champion too well here and are just waiting for someone to come along and relieve him of the belt.

Segura had been billed to meet Laye two weeks ago, but Peters was given the chance instead after he had battled the champ to a draw the week before. But on the eve of the match Laye did an about face and refused to risk his title in a dispute about referees. Then Peters won the non-title duel.

Peters is still very much in the title picture, but Segura was promised the next match with the champion by permitting Peters to take his spot on March 23.

Chief Chiwochki, a gypsy scrapper, promises to provide added color to the night's performance. The Romany, making his first appearance in Monroe, will show in the semi-final event against Angelo Austiro, the rowdy Italian bruiser of Clifton, N. Y., who made his local debut the past week.

The Laye-Segura championship scramble, with Kallio doing the refereeing, will have a time limit of 90 minutes with two falls to win. The curtain-raiser, starting at 8 o'clock, will have an hour time limit also with two falls to win.

NEGRO JUNIORS DRILL

The American Legion Junior baseball club, Negro, of Monroe, will hold a practice session tomorrow afternoon, beginning at 4 o'clock, on the Monroe Colored High School diamond, it was announced last night.

MIDGET 'A' TEAM COPS EXHIBITIONS

With enough kids on hand for three teams, the Monroe Midgets yesterday played two intra squad games with the "A" team winning both contests on the Bernstein Park diamond. The "A" club first defeated the "B" team, 8 to 4, and came back again to blank the "C" outfit, 8 to 0.

Under the direction of James McKay, Dub Stewart, and Joe Perdue, the Midgets are coming along rapidly, and the sponsoring Monroe Recreation department promises the boys (13 years old and under) will be ready for intercity competition soon.

The squad will workout again next Saturday afternoon, beginning at 1:30 o'clock.

Washington Expected To Grope About American Cellar With Browns

(One of a series on prospects of major league teams).

By Jack Hand

ORLANDO, Fla., April 3.—(AP)—Joe Kuhel needs all his talent as an amateur magician in his new job of managing Washington. If he can make something out of 1948 Senators he'll be the man of the year in baseball.

Joe Kuhel

Pitching is the one strong argument for the club which figures to scramble with the St. Louis Browns in the American League cellar. Mickey Vernon is the only established pro in the infield and the outfield is a patchwork puzzle.

When Kuhel gets a good pitching job from Early Wynn, Walt Masterson, Sid Hudson or Mickey Haefner, the Nats will be tough. But the team as now constituted does not pack enough punch or fielding finesse to win consistently.

Vernon is the first baseman. He is a good hitter, even though he dropped from league leading batter in 1946 to .265 last summer.

Second base belongs to Al Kozar, a former Boston farmhand who came to Washington with Outfielder Leon Culberson in the Spence deal last December. Kozar hit .339 on the Red Sox' New Orleans club last year. The other day he collected three straight hits off Hal Newhouser.

John Sullivan has won the shortstop job. Eddie Yost is at third. Mark Christman, Ed Lyons and Difani are the reserves with at least one to go.

Culberson sprained his foot early in the training season and is just not returning to the lineup. He will be the varsity center fielder.

Gil Coan has the left field job if he can hit within 50 points of his .340 average at Chattanooga last year. Sherry Robertson, a converted infielder, goes to right. Tom McBride, Larry Drake and Earl Wooten are the other outfielders.

Jake Early, back from the Browns, will split the catching with Al Evans. Len Okrie will be the third man.

The Birmingham Country Club's Women's Invitation is scheduled May 17-21.

SPORTS ROUND UP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, April 3.—(AP)—When the Oklahoma U. baseball team played Texas the other day, big Bill Waters, 235-pound Oklahoma pitcher, "golfed" one onto the chalk cliffs in the Texas outfield for a home run . . . Bill, unused to base running, misunderstood the coachers' signals at nearly every base, hesitating and diving back at nearly every base . . . He finally made it and collapsed on the bench, although the Texans claimed he failed to touch home . . . And Coach Jack Baer wouldn't even offer Bill any sympathy for all that effort. Jack commented: "He looked like a bull suddenly turned into an arena, loping aimlessly here and there looking for the matador."

Bright College Years

For the benefit of folks who still think education is wasted on a ball player, it might not be amiss to point out that some of this spring's brightest rookie prospects not only went to college but stayed around long enough to wear a crew haircut without embarrassment . . . The Braves' publicized Alvin Dark, for instance, had only one year to go when he quit Louisiana State; Neil Berry, who may be the Tigers' shortstop, is a Western Michigan College product (with considerable seasoning); the Red Sox' Neil Sheridan came from the U. of San Francisco and big Ted Kluzewski of the Reds from Indiana U. . . . In addition rave notices have been going to Robin Roberts (Michigan State and Phillies), Dick Manville (Harvard, Yale and Braves), Walt Dropo (Connecticut and Red Sox) and Lloyd Merriman (Stanford and Reds) as boys who need only another year of experience before they'll hit the big time.

Enough Is Enough

After covering the Kentucky intercollegiate, Southeastern Conference, National Invitation, National Collegiate and Olympic basketball tournaments, Buck (Photo Finish) Weaver of the Louisville Times sent this word back to Kentucky: "I'm going out to Jamaica and put my ear right on the ground beside the rail so I can hear those hoofs pounding; then I'm going to Ebbets Field and have the groundkeeper (an ex-Louisvillan) hit a few fungoes so I can hear the crack of a bat against a ball . . . When last seen, Buck was trying to get his ear out of the Jamaica mud.

Cleaning The Cuff

A full brother to Armed—a colt by Bull Lea-Armful—was foaled at Calumet Farm recently . . . Bud Browning, who'll be Olympic basketball coach, is planning to use his five Bartlesville Oilers and his five Kentucky players as units in the Olympic games. Since he can only have ten players in uniform for any one game, it looks tough for the others . . . Rex Enright, South Carolina football coach, has been troubled with an eye infection lately . . . Maybe he'd been looking too hard for players that hadn't already been lined up by other coaches . . . Harold Pauley, one of the Los Angeles Rams' owners, went all the way to Hawaii to say that Clark Shaughnessy is coming up with a new version of the "T" next fall. That's how far Clark will be ahead of his rivals if he really finds a new verzion.

L. S. U. COPS WILD 10-INNING MAROON CONTEST, 17 TO 16

Tigers Almost Lose Game After Scoring 12 Runs In First Frame

BATON ROUGE, La., April 3.—(AP)—There were hits and errors all over the ball park today as Louisiana State University outlasted Mississippi State, 17-16, in a ten-inning baseball game.

A total of 16 errors—nine for L. S. U. and seven for State—were committed during the tilt. The Tigers got 14 hits and State's Maroons punched out 17. Of the total, seven hits were for extra bases.

From the start, the game was wacky. After State scored four times, L. S. U. brought home a dozen runs in the first inning. After that, miscues and wobbly pitching allowed State to peck away until the game was 12-all in the ninth.

Batting hero again was First Baseman George Mire. He duplicated the stunt he pulled last week by breaking the deadlock with a centerfield double to score a runner.

First Baseman Rex Benson starred at bat for the Maroons. Benson connected safely five times in six trips.

Score by innings:

L. S. U.	1200 020 110 1—	17	14	9

BLOCK BEARS SEEK BASEBALL BATTLES

JONESVILLE, La., April 3.—(Special)—Sixteen candidates for the Block High School baseball team reported to Coach Frank Bishop Wednesday afternoon and were issued equipment.

Hottest competition is expected to be at the catching position where Colin Crawford and Aubrey Sanson will battle for the starting job.

Three pitchers will be on tap, with Jim Wilson, Dudley Walker and Burley House reporting. Wilson was the mainstay of the American Legion junior team last season. Walker probably will handle third base when not on the mound. House was a star with the Baby Lions kid team last season.

John Stanley Farmer and Jim Rowbotham are listed as first basemen, the former having played with the 1947 Legion Juniors. Rowbotham also is a second baseman and Coach Bishop indicated that Rowbotham might be switched to the keystone position. However, he will have to nudge out Jimmie Parks, a Legion junior regular last year.

Densil Humble, ex-Legion junior, and Albert Clarence Wurster, Baby Lion star, will compete for the shortstop role. Walker is set for third base with shifts to be made when he is on the mound.

Until 50 years ago, the economy of the Union of South Africa was based almost entirely on agriculture but since then has become largely industrial.

Young Has No Fear His Mound Records Will Be Shattered

PEOLI, O., April 3—(NEA)—Denton C. Cy Young is proving equally as durable in the game of life as he was in pitching baseball.

He recently observed his 81st birthday here in the home of John Benadums with whom he lives, and the remarkable hurler of another generation isn't concerned about the possibility of any of his pitching records being surpassed.

Born in nearby Gilmore in 1867, Young was destined to become the only pitcher ever to win more than 500 games in the majors and the only moundsman ever to win more than 200 games in each of the two leagues.

Cy's achievements make the records of such hurling aces as Walter Johnson, Bob Grove, Carl Hubbell, Bob Feller and others seem insignificant. Young was the first pitcher elected to baseball's Hall of Fame.

Won more than 30 games in a season five times.

Pitched 23 successive hitless innings.

Averaged .737 or better five times, three seasons consecutively.

In 1905—his sixteenth season in the majors—he fanned 2077 and walked only 28.

Appearing in only one World Series (the first, in 1903), he won two games and lost one. In 33 World Series innings, he struck out 17 and issued only four walks.

Young was no headline hunter. Proof of this is that not until recently did he reveal that at the peak of his career he was approached by a would-be briber who offered him $20,000 if he wouldn't "bear down" in an impending and crucial Boston-Pittsburgh series.

At the time there were no investigating committees nor were there any laws against bribery.

Perhaps the only reason Cy didn't swear at the bribe-bearer was because his strongest expression was (and is) "durn." Anyway, he did declare scornfully:

"If you put any value at all on your money, you'd better bet it on me to win."

The next day, Cy went out and pitched a clean-cut victory, the difference between the $20,000 lure and his $2400 annual salary not even entering his head!

N. A. A. U. TRACK AND FIELD EVENTS SLATED JULY 2-3

MILWAUKEE, April 3.—(AP)—Dates for the 1948 National A. A. U. track and field championships were announced today.

Conrad J. Jennings, Marquette University athletic director, said the meet will be held July 2 and 3 in Marquette Stadium here.

PERMIT RACERS FROM ARGENTINA TO LEAVE BOAT

Eight Horses, Tied Up By Customs Officials, In U. S. For Races

NEW ORLEANS, April 3.—(AP)—Eight Argentine race horses left their cramped deck stalls and pranced about a farm today, after settlement of a customs dispute which had kept them on shipboard since their arrival yesterday.

Fortunato Campana of Buenos Aires, trainer of the horses and owner of five of them, said arrangements had been made to post a $14,000 bond Monday guaranteeing correctness of the animals' entry papers.

Campana and Juan Carlos Correas, owner of the other three horses, were unable to raise the bond yesterday because they had no acquaintances in New Orleans who could vouch for them with a bonding company. They didn't carry that much cash with them.

As the customs house is closed today and tomorrow, the bond cannot be accepted, and the horses cannot be cleared for entry until Monday.

But something had to be done today, as the Argentine freighter Marinero, which brought the animals here, was due to sail this afternoon for New York.

The horses are Mashie, Aquilon and Mastuerzo, stallions, and Adversaria, Acuarela, Perdura, Salmista and Cachaza, mares.

They look like pretty fair horses," said Dr. E. J. Meixel, a veterinarian of the federal bureau of animal industry who examined them before they were allowed off the ship.

The customs bond, calculated at 15 per cent above the value of the horses, is required to guarantee the value, identity and ownership of the animals are the same as listed in the entrance declarations.

SWAYZE TO PILOT JONESVILLE CLUB

Workouts Start Tomorrow For North Central League Entry

JONESVILLE, La., April 3.—(Special)—Initial steps have been taken toward organization of the Jonesville Baseball Association which will have an entry in the North Central Louisiana league.

Dewey Parish has been named secretary-treasurer of the club. Robert Swayze will be field manager. A board of directors and other officials will be selected at a meeting next Wednesday night at Block High School.

A. M. Johnson, Urania, president of the new north Louisiana loop, visited in Jonesville this week discussing plans for the season. Present entries include Jonesville, Clarks, Jena, Columbia and Olla. A sixth team is sought for the circuit.

Although the North Central loop will be semi-pro, no player who has participated in professional baseball within the past two years will be allowed to perform.

Parish and Swayze will attend a meeting of league officials Friday night at Urania and will report final plans to the meeting in Jonesville next Wednesday night.

Dee Brown, park commissioner and acting mayor, told those attending a baseball meeting Monday night that he was confident the diamond in the new town park now under construction would be ready by the May 2 opening date. Erection of a grandstand may not be completed until late in the season because of the difficulty in getting steel for the construction, he said. Lights for night baseball probably will be installed before the grandstand is erected.

Workouts for the Jonesville team probably will begin Monday afternoon on the Triangle diamond used last year by the independent Jonesville Vets, according to Swayze.

9-GAME FOOTBALL SLATE FOR ARCADIA

ARCADIA, La., April 1.—(Special)—Arcadia High School will play a ten-game football schedule this fall with five games at home and five away, according to local school officials who gave the following schedule of games for which contracts have been signed:

September 17—Junction City, Ark., at Junction City.

September 24—Dubach at Arcadia.

October 15—Jonesboro-Hodge at Arcadia.

October 22—Cotton Valley at Cotton Valley.

October 29—Plain Dealing at Arcadia.

November 19 — Farmerville at Arcadia.

Spring practice has been completed and the boys are now working on track and field, softball, and general physical development. Coaches Davis and Tinsley are dividing their work among the several spring sports.

The team this fall in football will be light and several players who are graduating will be missed.

BASKIN SEXTET WENT UNBEATEN

Class B Girls' Champions Placed Four on All-State Team

BASKIN, La., April 3.—(Special)—The Baskin High School girls' basketball team recently completed another banner season with 38 victories, no defeats or ties, and came out the victor in six tournaments, but graduation will take four members of the titled sextet before next season.

The state Class B Champions, in addition to playing a bang-up brand of ball in regularly scheduled play and never being held closer than a 13 point victory margin in regulation play, scored first place victories in the Sicily Island Invitational Tournament, the Lake Providence Invitational, and the Northeast Junior College Invitation at Monroe, the Franklin Parish Tournament, the Central Louisiana Tournament, and the state championship event at Baton Rouge in March.

The team totalled 1,657 points for the season with the opposition bagging only 658 points.

Of the six regular starters for Baskin, four were named on the all-state team with the guards winning special distinction as all three were placed on the all-state club. The stellar guards are Wanda Templeton, Earline Sikes, and Patsy Stephens. Forward Mildred Ragsdale was the other Baskin girl to make the all-star outfit.

SOME PROS THINK GOLF NEEDS CZAR, WANT BABE IN NATIONAL OPEN MEET

LOS ANGELES, April 3.—(AP)—Most of the professional golfers in this section think the program needs a czar, Gene Sarazen gets the most votes for the job, and Babe Didrikson Zaharias should be permitted to compete in the National Open here in June.

These and other matters were covered today in an informal poll handed members of the Southern California chapter, Professional Golfers of America, by Sports Columnist Braven Dyer.

Sixty-one ballots were cast on one question, and 27 answered it by picking Ben Hogan to win the National Open.

But as to who is the nation's finest golfer, 30 voted for ex-National Open king Lloyd Mangrum and 23 went for Hogan. Sam Snead got four votes, and Bobby Locke, Byron Nelson and Jimmy Demaret got two apiece.

In the vote on whether golf needs a high commissioner, such as baseball employs, the count was 46 to 13 in the affirmative.

Greatest golfer of all time? Hagan, 29 votes; Jones 15, and 10 for Harry Vardon. Some split their votes, picking Hagen for match play, Jones for medal.

The group voted, 45 to 19, to allow Mrs. Zaharias to play in the National. The inference was that the mighty Babe wouldn't cut the mustard, anyhow, and no harm would come if a woman was permitted to enter.

BASTROP OPENING WITH OAK GROVE

BASTROP, La., April 3.—(Special)—The Bastrop Blue Jays will officially open the 1948 Delta League season Sunday at 3 p. m. when they meet Oak Grove on the Mer Rouge High School diamond.

It will be a home game for the Jays whose diamond at the old prisoner of war camp will not be completed for two or three weeks.

Player-Manager Sid White said his team was rounding into shape very well after two exhibition games with Bonita, and named Mac MacWilliams as starting pitcher.

Leon and Walter Langston will be held in reserve, and White said they would be used if needed.

McWilliams was out of the Sunday game with Bonita, but he is expected to be in shape for the opener as will Catcher Chuck Davis who is nursing a sore hand.

The Jays have played two practice games with Bonita in the last two weeks, dropping the second and taking the nod in the first.

Plenty of seats are available to accommodate the crowd which is expected to turn out for the game Sunday.

Under the league rules governing the north division of which the Jays are a part, teams must play two games each week. The second will get under way Wednesday, when the locals meet Bonita in Bonita. Both games will begin at 3 p. m.

CHICKS, TRAVELERS PLAY GREENVILLE EXHIBITION

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 3.—(AP)—The Memphis Chicks finished up a hard practice session today in preparation for their clash with the Little Rock Travelers in Greenville, Miss., Sunday.

Manager Jack Onslow said Righthander Ray Poole will start against the Travelers. It will be the Chicks first game against another Southern Association team.

ORGANIZE BUDDY BASEBALL LOOP

Ruston, Minden, Jonesboro, Homer In League For Kid Talent

RUSTON, April 3.—(Special)—Organization of a Northwest Louisiana Buddy League of baseball players, including youths of Ruston, Minden, Jonesboro and Homer, has been announced by L. P. (Eddie) McLane of the Louisiana Tech department of physical education for men.

The league hopes to get two additional teams to join the group, McLane said.

Larry Hunter of Minden has been elected president of the league, succeeding C. E. (Cap) Barham of Ruston.

The league will include boys under 15 years of age prior to January 1, 1948, and weighing not more than 135 pounds as of June 1, 1948; or boys under 110 pounds and less than 16 years of age prior to January 1, 1948.

Games will be scheduled for Mondays and Fridays each week, starting at 4 p. m. All games will be seven innings.

The ages of the boys must be certified by their school principal or by birth certificate. Each coach will have in his possession his certified list and shall present this list when requested by an opposing coach. All home teams will furnish umpires, except when the visiting team brings an umpire that umpire will be the umpire-in-chief.

Regulations of the league require that no spikes are to be worn.

58—Farm Equipment, Supplies

FOR THE FIRST TIME

Since I got back, I sat down at a DESK today to do some work. Thanks to Mr. Lolly and Mr. Walsworth, at Mills Furniture Co., who so generously offered me the use of one of their desks until I get that cute FORD TRACTOR moved off mine. While I was in their store getting the desk, they sold me a THOR AUTOMAGIC WASHING MACHINE and a MAHOGANY BEDROOM SUITE, which pleased my wife very much. (I get in deeper and deeper!) I had no more than got my feet comfortably adjusted to the new desk top when one of my boys asked me to look at a new paint job he had just finished. He had turned an old tractor into a thing of beauty to behold. Then I got busy in the shop and never did get back to my desk. Maybe business is so rushing that I don't need a desk!

RED CROSS GETS EMERGENCY LEAVE

Ability To Locate And Arrange Fast Furloughs For Soldiers Phase Of Work

A young serviceman who was on his way to his father's bedside within six hours from the time he received word of his father's illness is indicative of the help which the Red Cross can render servicemen in times of trouble.

In this case, what the boy needed was a furlough. Although the Red Cross cannot, of course, either grant or recommend a furlough, a procedure which would cause conflict with military necessity, the Red Cross does what the military hasn't the time to do—find out the facts which any Commanding Officer must have before he can reach a deciison as to whether he can grant furlough for a particular boy.

In the recent case of this particular Monroe boy, the father became critically ill, but the soldier could not be reached by his family. So they came to Red Cross. Red Cross saved time by getting the statements from the doctor attending the man which experience had taught the military would require, and at the same time telephoned the Red Cross Field Director at the soldier's camp, asking him to somehow find the soldier.

As a result, by the time the Field Director has tracked down the young man, the serviceman's C. O. had the information which would enable him to make a decision in regard to the furlough. In this case, all the facts warranted an immediate furlough, and within six hours of the time the family had originally contacted the Red Cross, their son was on a train headed toward Monroe.

This is just one of the hundreds of cases which the Ouachita Parish Chapter handles monthly. The War Department has especially commissioned Red Cross as the agency for communication between the soldier and his family, and as such Red Cross is familiar with the shortest means to the quickest results, and with the information and procedures required by the military, two things which the average civilian has no knowledge of, and hence when he tries to achieve the same results on his own he only runs into delays and failure.

BAND TOGETHER TO FIGHT FOE

So Declares Rev. Harbuck In Address On The Threat Of Communism

All who are Christians should unite, be they Catholic or Protestant, or whether they adhere to eastern orthodoxy, they should join forces against Communism, declared Rev. George W. Harbuck, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church in Alexandria, in an address at the Men's Club of the First Methodist Church in Monroe Friday night.

He said in part:

"Rumblings we hear today are not new. We heard the same noise over a decade ago by a diabolical man with hatred in his heart. He hated everybody in general; the Jews in particular. At Munich he was appeased and said Czechoslovakia was all he wanted. But it wasn't all he wanted, and he moved on to give the world its worst blood bath in history. Today the thunder has been changed a bit. The setting is the same—the characters different. Instead of Nazis we have Communists who do not oppose people but systems. Their avowed arch enemy is free enterprise.

"We viewed Russia's suspicious actions as an ally with tolerance. We appeased and made concessions at the close of the war in order to preserve the peace. Most of us thought we could win, quite unwilling to surrender Christian faith to have it. On the other hand I cannot see an early exodus to Christianity by the Kremlin.

"Recently, Lunacharski, who was responsible for building the Soviet educational system, said: 'Away with Christianity and the gospel of love. We must teach Soviet children to hate. We must have hatred and still more hatred. Only by hating can we destroy our enemies and conquer the world.'"

"Shades of Hans Hauptmann, the Nazi philosopher who said, 'The Sermon on the Mount is for fools and morons. To assume that we could love others as ourselves is a doctrine built on weakness and fear.'

"Hate—a terrible word. Christianity is builded on an entirely different idea. Christ on Calvary forgave all enemies who were taking his life. Small wonder that there is such difference between Christianity and Communism.

"Let us all as Christians hold to the faith. There are in Christianity, Roman Catholics, Eastern Orthodoxy, and Protestantism greater numbers than in Communism. Together we claim many times the adherents of Communism. But we lack unified strength. Perhaps of the three mentioned, only Romanism can speak for its people. What unified voice is there in America or the world that can speak for Protestantism? This is the time that all God's people, redeemed by the blood of Christ, must stand together on their feet against this evil This is the time to pit all our strength against Communism. This is the time to shine like stars and conquer the powers of darkness."

Weddings Of Paramount Social Interest Now Claim The Attention Of Society

Miss Slagle Is March Bride

Society Attends En Masse One Of The Season's Most Prominent Weddings

A wedding characterized by dignity and impressive ceremony took place Monday evening, March 29, at half-after five o'clock when Miss Lee Wooten Slagle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cuthbert Slagle, and Mr. Robert Hunter Pierson, son of Mrs. Clarence Pierson and the late Dr. Pierson of Alexandria, La., were united in marriage.

The Right Monsignor John C. Marsh officiated in the presence of a large concourse of relatives and friends.

Easter lilies were massed in the sanctuary against a background of Woodwardia ferns and palms and the tall cathedral tapers.

Mr. Leon Hammond, at the organ, played Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" for the processional and Wagner's "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin" for the recessional. He accompanied Mrs. Clyde Sanders who sang Gounod's "Ave Maria" as a pre-nuptial solo, and "Panis Angelicus" during the signing of the register.

Mrs. Roy Johns, Jr., of New Orleans, served her as matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Eugene Nash, Miss Ann Brown, Miss Cleta Godfrey, Miss Mary Helen Walker of Monroe, and Mrs. Edward Sanford of Port Arthur, Texas. They wore floor length gowns of pink taffeta, fashioned with cap sleeves. In their hair they wore bandeaux of blended pink carnations, and they carried pink taffeta and tulle baskets filled with spring flowers. The little flower girl, Diane Pierson, niece of the groom, was a miniature replica of the bridesmaids.

Clarence Pierson, Jr., of Alexandria served his brother as best man. The groomsmen were David Pierson, another brother, Elmer Slagle, Jr., of Monroe, brother of the bride, Roy Johns, Jr., of New Orleans, Dr. Jasper Hogan of Macon, Georgia, and Coleman Hudson, Jr., of Alexandria. The ushers were Edwin Gordon Wright of Monroe, Camille Gravel, Jr., Louis Bennett Porterie, James Harris Prosser, Donald Garrett, Albin Provosty Scott of Alexandria, Frank Voelker, Jr., of Lake Providence, William Perry Brown, III and Thomas Norton Bernard of New Orleans, and John McCown of Mobile, Ala.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her exquisite gown was of ivory satin. The bodice was fashioned of Alencon lace and long sleeves shirred from the shoulders. The heirloom rose point veil, used in the family by several brides, was worn over illusion and tulle and was caught to the hair with orange blossoms. The bride carried a bouquet of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Slagle wore a floor length green crepe model and a chapeau of violets. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Pierson, wore a lovely ice blue crepe model with a short train. Her corsage was of white orchids.

Brilliant Reception

Speed, Mrs. Thomas Ochiltree Bancroft, Mrs. Ebb Tyler Lamkin, Mrs. John Edward Godfrey, Mrs. Carl H. McHenry, Mrs. Marie Frazier, Mrs. James C. The bride's table in the dining room was developed in silver and overlaid with handsome lace. The central decor was the beautifully developed, three-tiered wedding cake surmounted with a spun sugar basket filled with fresh valley lilies. White satin bow knots were employed ingeniously in the decorations. Colonial silver candelabra placed at either end of the table, supported tall white tapers.

White clad attendants passed trays laden with frosted punch and individual wedding cakes.

Miss Carroll Weds MacDonald Giffen

First Methodist Church Is The Scene Of Fashionable Nuptial Event

A large concourse of relatives and friends filled to capacity the generous confines of the First Methodist Church on March 27 when Miss Gloria Jean Carroll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Newton Carroll, and Mr. MacDonald Giffen, son of Mrs. MacDonald Giffen of Sarasota, Fla., were united in marriage with the pastor, Rev. A. M. Serex, officiating at seven-thirty o'clock in the evening.

It was a springtime wedding with white lilies predominating among the beautiful flowers banking the chancel rail, the choir loft and on the altar where cathedral tapers flamed high. Southern smilax was used with artistry in the background.

The brilliant concert rendered by Mr. LeRoy Anspach, celebrated musician of Chattanooga, Tenn., was a distinct feature. He played Melodie, Caprice by Matthews, Nocturne by Mendelssohn and Cantilene Nuptial by Dubois. He also played a brilliant accompaniment for Mrs. Anspach whose beautiful lyric soprano was heard in Calm As The Night by Bonn and Ich Liebe Dich by Grieg. She wore a white chiffon evening model.

The bride's attendants, Miss Jeanne Stamper of Shreveport, maid-of-honor and Misses Mary Alice Mickel, Mary Alyce Jackson, Evelyn Middleton, Gloria Adams of Winnsboro, La., Grace Giffen of Sarasota, Fla., and Mrs. C. C. Locke Jr., all wore azure blue taffeta models fashioned with long tight fitting bodices with off-the shoulder neckline. The deep yokes of blue marquisette were edged with a fold of taffeta. The bouffant skirts were of marquisette, bustle back of taffeta. They all wore wide-brimmed hats of horse hair braid trimmed in blue velvet ribbons and carried arm bouquets of pink Calla lilies tied with pink tulle and pink satin ribbons.

Mr. Arthur Draper of Sarasota, Fla., served as best man and the groomsmen were Ben Marshall, Paul Ransom, Miles Sager, Dr. C. C. Locke, Jr., James Sherman and Albert Clary.

Traditional Bride

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore the traditional Duchess satin wedding gown fashioned with tight fitting bodice with high neckline outlined in pearls. The sleeves were long and tight fitting, and the skirt, very bouffant, ended in a long cathedral train. Her veil of illusion, finger-tip, was caught to the hair with a cap of Chantilly lace.

The bride's bouquet was fashioned of white stephanotis, valley lilies and white orchids tied with long lengths of bridal illusion.

Mrs. Carroll, the bride's mother, wore a floor length model of dusty rose crepe. The bodice was beautifully embroidered in rose colored bugle beads. The skirt was adroitly draped at one side. She wore shoulder length white kid gloves and a head dress of rose colored tulle.

Before the bride and groom departed on their honeymoon they cut their wedding cake, a luscious double ring confection embossed with valley lilies and bow-knots of spun sugar. It rested on a base of twisted white satin ribbon, white camellias and valley lilies. White candles gleamed in colonial silver candelabra at either end of the table.

Trays of confections were passed by Mrs. John Duchkar in black taffeta evening model, Miss Betty Hale in pastel colored evening model. Miss Sally Foster, Mrs. Albert Clary and Mrs. Charles Nunnelly, wearing lovely models, assisted in the courtesies.

The bride changed her wedding gown for a beautiful tailleur of dusty rose gabardine with bronze accessories. Her corsage was of orchids.

Mrs. Giffen is a graduate of Neville High School and Brenau College, Gainesville, Ga. She received her degree from the Louisiana State University. She is a member of Delta Delta Delta, national sorority and Delta Beta Sigma high school sorority.

Mr. Giffen is a graduate of the Sarasota high school. He served with the armed forces during the war and is now a senior at the state university, Baton Rouge.

MRS. LAWSON IS HOSTESS TO MEMBERS OF MUSIC GUILD

The Music Guild met for its program for the month of March in the home of Mrs. E. Everette Lawson. The reception suite was resplendent with beautiful spring flowers in attractive arrangement. The program for the afternoon featured the life and works of Rudolph Friml, one of the best known of our foreign-born American composers.

Mrs. E. W. Cruse gave an interesting talk on the life of Friml. She said in part: Rodulph Friml is a Bohemian composer, born in Prague in 1879. He is among the foremost modern romantic composers and one of the most prolific creators of music of his generation. He composed a boat song at the age of ten which was highly commended by his musical elders. He entered the Prague Conservatory and studied with Jiramek and Foster. He visited the United States in 1901 and in 1906 played his own piano concerto with the New York Symphony. He settled in New York as a composer during 1906 and became a citizen in 1924. During these years he made such rapid progress in the lines of concertizing and serious compositions that he accepted a commission from William Hammerstein and Rudolph Schirmer to compose the music for "The Firefly," a historic success. Promptly he received contracts for more shows, more music.

Year after year Friml repeated the success of "Firefly" with other productions namely: "High Jinks," "Katrinka," "You are in Love," "Sometime," "Tumble Inn," "The Blue Kitten," several of the Ziegfield vehicles, "June Love," "White Eagle," "Peasant Girl," "Rose Marie," "Cinders," "Dew Drop Inn," "The Vagabond King," "Wild Rose," "No Fooling," "Three Musketeers" and others. His Christmas Carols and Japanese ballads were produced in London. His other compositions number about 100 and include effective piano pieces, work for violin, cello and numerous songs.

Vocal solo: Giannia Mia, Mrs. Norman Coon.

Piano solo: Hugette Waltz, Mrs. W. Carroll Summer.

Piano solo: Noontide, Mrs. Willys Hopkins.

At the conclusion of the program, Mrs. Lawson assisted by her mother, Mrs. Long, served refreshing lime sherbert and a variety of confections to the following members: Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. R. W. Cretney, Mrs. E. W. Cruse, Mrs. A. R. Doughty, Mrs. Cecil Hill, Mrs. Henry Holmes, Mrs. Willys Hopkins, Mrs. R. W. Irby, Mrs. H. M. James, Mrs. J. E. Jarman, Mrs. B. B. Martin, Mrs. P. A. Miss Rodgers Discusses The Marshall Plan

The European Recovery Plan, better known as the Marshall Plan, was the subject discussed by Miss Myrtle Rogers at a meeting of the Reader's Clique held in the home of Mrs. Fred Parrish. Miss Rogers is a well informed member of the League of Women Voters who support the E. R. P. as a necessary step in rebuilding a stable world order. The speaker explained that the task of European reconstruction has been underestimated and previous aid projects have only aimed at certain phases of reconstruction whereas E. R. P. views the total problem. In her brilliant display of information Miss Rogers said in part: "It is most important that people should realize this program is one for recovery, not mere relief. Western Europe forms one of the political and economic cornerstones of the international community. Now is the time to help. Now is the time when our assistance can do the most good. The United States wants to see a healthy world economy in which free political institutions can survive. European recovery must come before China. Europeans have the ability to recover more quickly; they have been developing for many centuries the concepts of freedom and democracy in which we as a nation believe. These free institutions are now endangered in certain nations in western Europe where lack of food and goods have opened the door to totalitarianism. Because of its major economic position western Europe must recover before the world economy can move toward a solid footing. After Europe assumes a normal pattern of operation she can then assist in aiding China.

"There are sixteen nations that have agreed to co-operate. The initiative must come from the nations themselves. They have outlined a joint plan which includes, an intense production effort, stability of finances, economic cooperation and a plan for overcoming a trade deficit. In addition to these four points the United States has imposed an additional criterion to conform to the national interest of this country. The United States must provide enough funds to make the program one of recovery; funds and goods must go where they are intended and can do the most good; the program must be carried out at the lowest possible cost to the United States but should avoid unreasonable demands for repayment, the program should cause the least possible dislocation in U. S. economy, and should be consistant with the foreign policy of the U. S. throughout the world.

"The United States is not the only nation assisting in the recovery—Australia, Canada, Argentina are large contributors. This country has the primary responsibility because we have the greatest productivity and economic power. By building up European industries she may soon be able to pay her own way. By sending equipment for industries abroad we are at the same time preventing bread lines in this country. It is to be remembered that most aid is through goods and not money. The impact will center in certain key commodities such as coal, steel and wheat. The total cost for the proposed E. R. P. would equal only 5 per cent of our expenditure during the war. Seen in these terms there can be little doubt that the U. S. can afford the cost of this plan."

Mrs. Burl Hollis presented the calendar of business. The treasurer announced that donations had been made to several agencies during the past few months. Plans were discussed at this time for the annual spring barbecue to be held at the Morgan camp.

WOMEN'S ADVANCEMENT TRACED BY YOUNG COLLEGE STUDENT

An article written by Miss Cherry Louise Bernstein on the advancement of women will be read with interest. Miss Bernstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milling Bernstein of this city, is a student at Randolph Macon College. The article follows:

Women have come a long way in the past ninety-nine years; but they still have a long way, a very long way to go. The epic of America can only be written if women play their part in the writing of what will be one of the greatest success stories the world has ever known.

For hundreds of years only a few persons were allowed to participate wherever votes were taken on public affairs. Many groups of adults were excluded from the suffrage, including those who did not own property, and those who had not paid a special tax. Except in a few instances, women were not permitted to vote. This was due to reasons which sound so unconvincing today that it is hard to believe they were ever taken seriously.

Persons generally believed that a woman did not have enough judgment to choose a political candidate. They argued that a woman's reason was not equal to a man's. But the defenders of woman suffrage would often reply in the words of Voltaire: "All the reasonings of men are not worth one sentiment of women." It is true that there are ignorant women, but there are also ignorant men. Many persons have pointed out that the arguments against woman suffrage are arguments against democracy itself.

But woman suffrage is no longer the pertinent subject. The new emphasis is on the importance of politics in a democracy. It is no less than a three alarm call to come to the defense, through political action, of the system to which this country is dedicated. There is a new urgency in the times. The need to take action is almost frightening. It is frightening to note the way in which the world is divided into two opposing political groups; on one hand, the group that believes that the state is the master of the people, and, on the other, the group that holds with our American doctrine that the people are the master of the state—the doctrine, framed by our founding fathers, that governments derive their just powers only from consent of the governed.

How serious is this threat to our free institutions, the ultimate event will prove. We hope and believe that if we act promptly there is yet time. But time is running out here as it has run out elsewhere.

History will probably record that France was conquered in 1940 as much by the political weakness of her people as by the armed might of her conqueror. History probably will also record that England withstood conquest despite the might of her would-be conqueror because of the political strength of her people.

Economic and social status seeks and finds the level of political status, whatever that may be. It is not enough for women to concern themselves with economic and social causes, however important the particular cause is. It is necessary for women to see the picture whole and to function as citizens, rather than as lobbyists. To function as citizens women must become proficient in politics.

If hope is to triumph in this tomorrow we are facing, and we are facing it whether we like it or not, the women of America must help make public opinion. But before they can make a public opinion that is effective toward this desired end, they must make their public opinion. Before they make their public opinion, they should make very sure that they know what they are talking about.

In the totalitarian state, public policy is made at the top and pressed down on the local communities. In a country where the individual freedom of citizens is recognized, policy is effective only when supported at the local level. To function as effective citizens through participation in politics, women should become politically active in their local communities.

In tens of thousands of communities from one end of our land to the other, women are making history either through constructive action or apathetic inaction. If women do not resist the onrushing tide of reaction, if they do too little too late, this last citadel of individual freedom may fall because of our political weakness, as France fell in 1940. As you hesitate in going to the polls, remember—it is later than you think!

Local Musicians Appear On Program

The Island Serenaders, a quartet of musicians composed of Jack Hollingsworth, Gus Hollingsworth, Walter McNeely of West Monroe and their vocalist, Meredith Johnson, were presented in a program of Hawaiian melodies at the March meeting of the Secretaries International in the home of Mrs. Lois Hollingsworth.

The haunting sweetness of "The King's Serenade," "Blue Hawaii," and "To You Sweetheart, Aloho," enchanted the appreciative audience.

Following the musical journey to the island of romance, such favorites as "Sentimental Reasons," "Elmer's Tune," "Memories," "The Waltz You Saved For Me," "St. Louis Blues," and one hillbilly tune, "I Walk Alone," were rendered. The majority of songs were sung by Mr. Johnson. A fast number, requiring considerable skill on the instruments, was "Twelfth Street Rag."

Mr. McNeely's expert handling of the Hawaiian guitar was fascinating to watch as well as hear. Mr. Jack Hollingsworth accompanied Mr. McNeely on the Spanish guitar. Mr. Gus Hollingsworth, supplied the rhythm with the brass violin, putting it aside occasionally to play a few melodies on the mandolin.

Making their performance even more remarkable was the Serenaders' announcement at the end of the program that this was the first time in eight years that they had played together. Their perforance was remarkable however, and those present expressed a desire for a repeat performance.

Plans were made at this time for approximately five representatives of the local chapter to attend the Southwest Regional Convention in Little Rock during the month of April. Dues were collected and a favorable report from the treasurer was heard.

Refreshments were served by the hostess to the following: Walter McNeely, Gus Hollingsworth, Jack Hollingsworth, Meredith Johnson, Mae Modes, Helen McDaniel, Helen Youngblood, Jeanne Harden, Juanita George, Vicci Bennett, Ethel Newport, Marguerite Lindle, Grace King, Alice Chilton, and Johnetta Willhite.

REV. AND MRS. G. H. SUTTLE CELEBRATE GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY AT THEIR DAUGHTER'S HOME

A golden wedding anniversary is always of interest and especially when the celebrants are such delightful people as Rev. and Mrs. Garrett Howard Suttle. Their anniversary was celebrated in the home of their daughter, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, who invited fifty or more intimate friends to call during the afternoon.

At this time of the year gardens are at the height of their glory and Mrs. Coon placed a variety of spring flowers throughout the reception suite where Mr. and Mrs. Coon and Rev. and Mrs. Suttle stood to receive the guests.

Refreshments were served in the candlelit dining room from a tea table overlaid with handsome lace. A wedding cake, beautifully embossed in gold, centered the table and at either end plaques of yellow jonquils encircled with yellow tapers, were placed. Mrs. Clinton Ardis Caldwell presided over the silver tea and coffee urns and Mrs. Hensen Coon served the orange punch from a massive crystal bowl. Silver trays laden with a variety of delicious confections were passed by Mrs. Charles Edwin Buckley and Miss Martha Ann Coon.

Letters of a congratulatory nature, beautiful flowers and gifts were received by the celebrants throughout the day. Outstanding gifts were a set of Wedgwood china in the Patrician pattern and gold banded crystal and a beautiful gold framed mirror.

Have you a picture of Christ in your home? For one thing, it declares to all who enter that you are friends of Christ. It is particularly helpful to young people, starting life together, for they make the silent, yet eloquent confession that they are definately on his side. That is not all. Sometimes the sight of that face comforts and strengthens the soul. All that is not ideal. It is far better to carry the likeness of our divine Saviour in our hearts, so that the radiance of his face may be reflected in our lives. Then men may see Jesus.—(The Christian Herald.)

Services at our church are as follows: Church School at 9:45 a.m. Morning worship service at 10:50 a.m. Youth fellowship at 6:45 p.m. Evening worship service at 7:30 p.m. W. S. C. S. meets Monday at 3:00 p.m. Mid-week service Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

News Of Club Women And Suggestions For Gardners On Spring Planting

BOOK REVIEW HIGHLIGHTS WELCOME BRANCH BOOK CLUB MEETING WITH MRS. HICKS

The Welcome Branch of the Twentieth Century met in the home of Mrs. J. G. Hicks, with Mrs. M. R. Hausherr as co-hostess.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. George Phebus, first Vice-President. After the club collect and Club Song, a short business followed with the various committees giving reports. Mrs. A. J. Speer, Mrs. Joe T. Ray, Mrs. W. D. McGee, Jr., Mrs. F. E. Black, Mrs. W. B. Wheelis, Mrs. Morris Miller were elected delegates to go to the Fifth District meeting in Tallulah April 10.

Mrs. H. V. Collins introduced the speaker for the day, Mrs. Thomas Jett, who reviewed the book "Human Destiny" by Lecomte du Nouy. Mrs. Jett said: "At long intervals, sometimes hundreds of years apart, a scientific work appears which marks a new epoch in human thought. This book may change the whole direction of scientific thought since the Renaissance. It can make history.

Re-interpreting the theory of evolution in the light of modern physics, Human Destiny argues that the strictly materialistic theory of the Universe, and of man, is no longer tenable. Man, it says, is not on this earth by chance alone—and the author presents a series of convincing arguments to indicate that by the laws of pure chance man, and even life, could not be here at all. Dr. du Nouy contends that science finds a purpose evident in the history of life which rises above the laws of matter.

The scope of the author's theory is tremendous. He brings enormous erudition and the most advanced scientific learning to the support of his thesis. According to this thesis man has now, to all intents and purposes, completed his biological evolution. He is just beginning his moral evolution.

At a certain period of his metamorphosis, man became conscious of the fundaments dualism which is in reality the eternal theme of religions, philosophies, and arts. The awakening of this idea constitutes the most important event in all evolution.

Humanity under the influence of such events as wars, or as a result of the necessity to adapt itself to the changes brought about by mechanical progress and the ensuing social problems, reacts violently by twists of the helm which seem to carry it far from its course. But the trans-scendent laws it unknowingly obeys have brought it in less than a thousand centuries to its present state and scorn these ephemeral digressions which become imperceptible on the scale of evolution.

Let every man remember that the destiny of mankind is incomparable and that it depends greatly on his will to collaborate in the transcendent task. Let him remember that the Law is, and always has been, to struggle and that the fight has lost nothing of its violence by being transposed from the material onto the spiritual plane; let him remember that his own dignity, his nobility as a human being, must emerge from his efforts to liberate himself from his bondage and to obey his deepest aspirations. And let him above all never forget that the divine spark is in him, in him alone, and that he is free to disregard it, to kill it, or to come closer to God by showing his eagerness to work with Him, and for Him.

Human Destiny will impress every reader with its sincerity and profundity of grasp. Embracing many fields of science in its argument, it remains a brilliantly readable book. It deals with greatest drama of all time—the drama of creation—and it concludes on a note of hope."

Mrs. Richard Whitehurst gave a piano number "The Lord's Prayer," and Mrs. T. H. Scott, chairman of the Benefit Bridge-Rummy party, gave a report at this time.

The hostesses served delicious refreshments to: Mmes. James Schonlau, F. E. Black, H. V. Collins, Henson Coon, J. Norman Coon, A. R. Doughty, E. C. Gibson, Thomas Jett, E. E. Lawson, J. E. McConnell, W. D. McGee, Jr., Leola Nixon, J. D. Petty, George Phebus, E. A. Porter, T. H. Scott, Zell Smith, A. J. Speer, W. B. Wheelis, Richard Whitehurst, E. J. Whitman, Cyril Yancy, and Thomas Fascon.

Don't Fertilize Azaleas At The Time Of Planting

Do not fertilize azaleas at planting time is the advice given by Mrs. Mildred G. Swift. However, established plants do need the especially prepared fertilizer applied now so as to be available for the new growth. Use 1/4 pound per square yard of surface, and broadcast it under and around the plant. Water the plants immediately.

After the fertilizer is applied, the mulch should be renewed. Never dig around Azaleas as the shallow roots are near the surface of the ground and cultivation destroys the small feeder roots. The mulch will keep down weeds and grass, but any that come through the mulch should be pulled out by hand. Some good mulches, old leaves (particularly oak leaves) half rotted sawdust, rotten sapwood from logs, specially prepared bagasse, pine straw and peat moss.

The following letter from a local gardner concerning the cutting of camellias will be of interest to all camellia lovers.

"Do you know how to cut camellias? A friend of mine called one day and asked if I would give her some camellia blossoms. I was glad to give her some and let her pick the ones she preferred. I was picking some in another part of the garden and was horrified when I discovered she had picked the flowers with long stems, equal to several year's growth.

"Don't call your neighbor 'stingy' when she cuts short stems. I have heard people say, 'I wouldn't have a flower I couldn't pick.' Well, then, don't raise camellias unless you know something about them. Some of them are very slow growth and some of mine I don't pull at all, especially if the bush is very small. There is always something to be learned in growing camellias. It is generally those who know little about them that will ask for some to decorate a church. I have to divide with a neighbor, but there have been times when I felt like saying, 'why don't you try growing some yourself.' They are very expensive now and take years of work, so before you criticize a friend for 'being stingy' try buying them and growing and caring for them yourself."

MRS. SEYMOUR GLAZER

Mrs. Glazer, bride of recent date, whose marriage took place March 27 in Washington, D. C. She is the former Rosamond Cole Mowrer, daughter of Mrs. Frederick David Cole. Mr. Glazer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Glazer of this city.

Seeds Planted Now Will Bring Summer Enjoyment

The month of April is the time for gardeners to plant seed from which they will reap much enjoyment during the long, hot summer months. For instance there's Chinese for-get-me-not, with a bit of heaven's own blue in its color. Sweet alyssum makes a lovely edge for flower beds. This little plant always takes us back to our childhood as many of our mother's flower beds were bordered with sweet alyssum.

Early Cosmos, with its tints and shades of red and violet with some white mixed in, is an easy plant to grow and yields rich returns.

Gallardia, sometimes called blanket flower with its yellow, orange and red, is nice for people who like bold colors.

Moonflower—if you have never grown this vine do plant a few seeds. The large white flowers open in the evening, and it's a lovely experience to watch them unfold.

Nasturtiums, Ageratum, Zinnia, Calliopsis and Balsam can be planted. Balsam is the flower sometimes called "Touch me not."

If you have a dry spot where nothing else will grow, by all means plant periwinkle, the common name for Vinca Major. The evergreen, vine like trailing periwinkle or Vinca Minor, is also a nice plant when you want an evergreen ground cover.

Torenia, with its deep blue, sort of pansy like face is a small plant that is very delightful.

Of course petunias are old standbys to give us clumps of color in a border and the seedsmen are giving us so many new and lovely varieties.

Fifth District Will Meet In Tallulah Saturday

Club women in Monroe are looking forward to the convention of the Fifth District of the Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs which will be held in Tallulah, April 10.

Miss Blanche Wilson, president, has planned an informative and interesting program. The convention will start promptly at ten o'clock. Mrs. Samuel Levy, state president, will be present and will address the convention on the topic "Women's Place in a Changing World. Mrs. Levy has visited often in Monroe since taking her office as state president and it is always a treat to hear her talk.

Another outstanding event on the day's agenda will be the forum on Club Extension. Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, general federation extension chairman, and Mrs. J. R. Roark, district extension chairman, will have charge of this panel discussion.

Mr. James I. Ritchie, district forester, will present the state forestry program and Judge Voelker will discuss youth conservation.

The ladies of the Methodist Church will serve lunch to those attending the convention.

It is hoped that a large number of women will avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing these interesting speakers as they discuss subjects that are timely and of concern to all club women.

Clubs are urged to have their scrap books at the convention promptly at ten o'clock to afford plenty of time for the grading and judging.

Louisiana State Mother To Be Announced In May

The committee to select the "State Mother" met in the Washington-Youree Hotel, and worked a half day selecting the one woman from the 18 nominations. The winner will be announced the week before "Mother's Day." The committee is most grateful for the cooperation received in this contest. Some nominations came in too late to be judged and some were just written on note paper. Women are urged to interpret the written page and follow rules.

NEW YORK—(AP)—New York City school students do an annual nine million dollar business in savings banks, the city board of education reports. More than half the city's school children participate in the program which is serviced by 50 local savings banks.

Valuable Hints On The Growing Of Native Iris

"Just how can I get some native Iris for my home garden?" many gardeners are asking. Mrs. Swift, parish home demonstration agent, asks that Iris enthusiasts not dig up the beautiful Irises growing in the ditches along our highways. Leave them for those who pass by to enjoy. Either buy your plants, ask a friend for a start, or go away from the beaten path to collect them.

Be sure you observe all the conditions necessary to make your iris "feel at home." Irises are moisture, shade and humus loving plants, so they should be planted in a well prepared bed containing plenty of humus, and then watered thoroughly to get them established.

Although water is essential to the establishment of young plants, it is not best that this plant be in water at all times. In their natural state, Iris plants are often found growing in shallow standing water where they grow. Usually the poorly drained area of the garden is the best place to grow Louisiana native Iris. Plants should be spaced about one foot apart and the direction of the rhizomes should be alternated. Do not cover more than one inch deep.

Farm Wives Want Homes Made Better

The home-making improvement bug has hit America's farm women with a bang. Extension workers for the department of agriculture report an overwhelming desire for modern, attractive homes and pretty gardens down on the farm.

Along with this fever for remodeling is the movement to install utilities often taken for granted in city homes. Farm families are demanding advice from county agents on new sewerage and water systems and heating plants.

But home improvement is only one phase of a picture of American rural life literally lifting itself up by its bootstraps, revealed in the annual report of Co-operative Extension Work. Farm families are also demanding better educational and recreational facilities and they show growing interest in important public affairs.

Interest in public policy was so great in rural Maryland that the extension service hired an authoritative scientist to explain atomic energy. Nine thousand farm people went to hear him.

In North Dakota Extension Service has launched a Little-Country theatre movement. In Illinois a rural chorus has been organized with 900 voices from 20 counties.

Farm women are also taking great interest in legal matters concerning their welfare. They want to know about wills, inheritance laws, insurance, real estate titles. In Wisconsin for instance, where meetings with judges and lawyers were arranged to meet this demand, more than half the thousand families who attended changed their legal papers.

Farm women want to put an end to the saying "Woman's work is never done." In Minnesota alone, 13,000 families reported home improvements. In 21 counties of Kansas more than 700 women developed labor-saving devices on the farm.

Improving the kitchen is the farm woman's first interest in home repair. After that, she wants a new bathroom, then better lighting and more storage space.

At the same time the women appealed for meetings and courses on public affairs.

ELEVEN O'CLOCK BREAKFAST FOR VISITOR IN MONROE IS REMINISCENT OF OLD SOUTH

One of the few remaining antebellum homes in this city was the setting for an eleven o'clock breakfast, typically southern, when Mrs. Charles Mitchell entertained complimentary to Mrs. James Wade Bolton, of Alexandria, who came to Monroe to attend the wedding of Miss Lee Slagle and Mr. Hunter Pierson.

Mrs. Mitchell, the former Miss Jennie O'Kelly, was born and reared and spent her entire life in the home she and her husband now occupy. It was built before the Civil War and is still in a wonderful state of preservation. It is one of the few remaining homes in this section bearing the imprint of the old south as the original style of architecture has never been changed. In this home is found some priceless antique furniture, silver and china handed down from one generation to another.

The eleven o'clock breakfast honoring Mrs. Bolton was reminiscent of those days when life was lived in leisurely manner and on a much spacious scale than it is today. The table was beautifully serviced with crystal and china and adorned with a wide-spreading plaque of flowers from the old-fashioned garden hedged in with century old trees.

Mrs. Mitchell's guests, in addition to Mrs. Bolton and Mrs. Frances David of Alexandria, were: Mrs. Robert Layton, Mrs. J. Q. Graves, Mrs. Armand McHenry, Mrs. O. E. McKenzie, Mrs. David Garrett and Mrs. H. F. Madison, Jr.

TEA IN WASHBURN HOME IS CHARMING PRENUPTIAL COURTESY

Much of the charm and gracious hospitality associated with the Monroe of yesterday was reflected in the beautifully appointed tea in the W. M. Washburn home honoring Miss Mary Frances Meek, bride-elect.

Hostesses, in addition to Mrs. Washburn were her two daughters, Mrs. William Gladney of Baton Rouge, and Miss Genevra Washburn and Mrs. Ernest Holloway.

The lower floor en suite was beautifully adorned with spring flowers carrying out a color scheme of pink and white. Large urns of white dogwood and white iris were used effectively in the reception room. In the living room pink camellias and pink azaleas formed a beautiful background for the receiving line.

Miss Meek wore the exquisite corsage of talisman roses presented by her hostesses.

The dining table was overlaid with a handsome lace and linen cloth with the central decor an artistic arrangement of pink tapers surrounded by mounds of pink camellias. Other decorations on side board and service table were of white wisteria and pink camellias. A large white rabbit holding a basket of vari-colored eggs suggestive of the Easter season was used on the side board.

Handsome silver coffee and tea services at either end of the table were presided over by Mrs. Ernest Gibson in pink and black crepe and Mrs. Joe Washburn in a black sheer model.

Chicken salad sandwiches, cheese straws, individual wedding cakes, decorated mints and nuts were served by Miss Shelby Meek, wearing pink lace and marquisette, Miss Betty Sue Jones in pink taffeta, Miss Ann Reese wearing peach taffeta, Miss Miriam Oliver in pink and green tulle, Miss Lydia Jarmon in aqua faille and Miss Sue Dickard in green moire.

More than one hundred guests called during receiving hours.

"The Blood of Christ" is the theme. Much is said about the Blood of Christ in the New Testament. What is the meaning thereof? It is of value to us to know the significance of the words.

HONOR IS GIVEN MONROE GIRLS

Two Local Young Women Are Elected To Delta Gamma Offices

A week-end of activity that was of much interest to the Louisiana State University campus last week was the recently organized Delta Gamma fraternity.

Two Monroe young ladies were honored with offices in this new fraternity, Miss Frances Baldwin being elected president and Miss Martha Gray Prentice, treasurer.

Although the organization was founded 75 years ago on the Ole Miss campus, this chapter of the group, the 75th chapter is the first in this state.

Among the affairs were the alumnate dinner at the Faculty Club on Friday and Saturday night, an initiation banquet at the new Baton Rouge Country Club.

The theme of the banquet, centered around French Creole, was carried out in the table decorations, food and the skit presented by newly-initiated members.

The tables were lined with green magnolia leaves with glammellias. Fifty white tapers were placed along the tables for the only light used for the occasion.

The programes were written in French, with the night's menu consisting of delicate French and Creole cooking. Favors for the occasion were praline mamas, attired in red bandana and carrying the traditional straw basket.

Miss Frances Baldwin and Miss Martha Gray Prentice represented the "Belle" and "Beau" of the state and sang "Louisiana" and "Lindy Lou."

Highlighting the skit was the presentation of the Negro folk songs and spirituals by soloists and the entire fraternity. Miss Prentice sang, "Corn Bread," as part of the folk songs. The initiation ceremonies ended with a formal reception at the French House Sunday afternoon.

Statement on Plans for City Management Form of Government

The group of Monroe citizens which met a few weeks ago to discuss the possibility of a City Manager form of government feels that the public, and especially those citizens who signed the petitions are due an explanation as to why the petition was not presented to the Mayor and the matter held in abeyance.

The group which met was an informal organization. It did not know, at the time it met, that the League of Women Voters, and other groups of citizens, had had similar meetings on the same subject. In an effort to feel out the sentiment of the public, the petitions were circulated, and the response the public made is a matter of record. More than three times the required number of petitioners were obtained within forty-eight hours.

The group which circulated the petitions were exploring the situation based on public law No. 160 of 1918, but when the opposition to this movement started rumors to the effect that this was a scheme to sell the Monroe City Utilities to private interests, a further study of the law was made which indicated a remote possibility that the City Manager statute might be construed to empower the Commissioners elected under it to sell the utilities. This being furtherest from the thought of anyone of the group, it was the consensus that the citizens of Monroe should not be asked to vote on the City Manager form of government until that point was definitely cleared up, even if it required another act of the Legislature, so as to have a statute that would fit the exact conditions peculiar to Monroe, including not only the question of city utilities, but that would also insure the operation of the City School System in the manner in which the majority of the citizens of Monroe wanted it operated.

It was also realized that pursuing this question of the City Manager form of government at a time immediately prior to the regularly scheduled election of City Commissioners under our present form of government, might keep some good citizens from running for office; and that in the interest of the community as a whole, it would be much better to postpone the submission of the City Manager form of government to the voters until a later date.

The majority of the group which met in these discussions, of which only two were held, are still of the opinion that the City Manager form of government offers many advantages and that the people of Monroe should be allowed to vote on the subject. It is their hope that a sufficient number of citizens will feel as they do, so that an organization working towards that end can be perfected and the matter after due study and consideration, be properly presented to the citizens of Monroe.

MONTANA BABIES TO GET LIFE NUMBERS

HELENA, Mont., April 3.—(AP)—Starting next January, Montana will assign a serial number to each baby born, and he'll have it the rest of his life.

The state registrar of vital statistics, L. I. Benepe, says all the states will put the plan into operation eventually.

That one number, he said, will be the person's number for social security, military registration, police identification, and all other identification purpose. It will be discarded when he dies.

Benepe said the plan is to be directed by the vital statistics office of the U. S. public health service in Washington.

(Colorado's registrar of vital statistics, Dr. F. W. Beesley, said in Denver, that the plan was discussed in Washington recently, but no date set for putting it into effect.)

Benepe said Montana would assign the numbers this way:

All U. S. citizens' serial numbers will start with 1. Montana has been assigned No. 25. Thus a Montanan's number will start with 125, followed by a dash and two numbers indicating the year of birth.

After a second dash will come two numbers indicating the county of birth to be followed by the numerical order in which the baby was born in that county.

Benepe says Canada already has the system.

SPAIN WILL BE LECTURE THEME

Bruce Thomas, Free Lance, Will Address Students In Tech April 7

RUSTON, April 3.—(Special)—Bruce Thomas, free lance foreign correspondent, will deliver a lecture entitled, "Spain, Cradle of Conflict," to a senior-freshman assembly in Howard auditorium Wednesday, April 7, at 10 a.m., L. V. E. Irvine, chairman of the programs committee, announced.

The speaker has traveled extensively throughout the world, and is considered an authority on many regions. During the recent world war, he wrote the first story published in this country on the legendary "Soldiers of Darkness," the commandos. He covered his biggest story at the time of the invasion of France when he visited the invasion fronts and the ports from which it began in England.

In his lecture on April 7, Mr. Thomas will attempt to tell why one element in America contends that the Franco policy assisted toward our winning the war while another cries for his head.

"What is it about this land that so arouses the passions of men, wherever found, that the mere name Spain cannot be referred to without causing controversy," is another topic of discussion.

His lecture will also include his observation of Europe as he saw it during a tour last summer.

SCOUT LEADERS ARE TO STUDY

Training Course Will Be Held At Camp Ki-Ro-Li April 10-11

Scout leaders and committeemen from every section of the 15-parish Ouachita Valley Council will participate in a council wide Scoutmasters' training course to be held April 10-11 at Camp Ki-Ro-Li, a council camp, it has been announced by E. J. Foster, chairman of the leadership training committee. According to present indications, this course should prove to be the most outstanding training event in the council in recent years.

The course faculty will be made up of experts from every district and will include Scoutmasters, leadership training committeemen, and other key Scouters with many years of experience in various capacities. Foster will serve as course Scoutmaster, and is to be assisted by Sam Hartman, Farmerville, senior patrol leader, and J. W. Webster, Monroe, scribe. Patrol leaders are J. D. Bice, Ruston, R. N Graves, Tallulah, Floyd Stone, Jr., Monroe, J. W. Richardson, Jonesboro, and F. A. Lawrence, Delhi. These patrol leaders will lead their patrols throughout all of the activities of the training course. Other faculty members include A. B. Clarkson, council president, Jack Spaulding, Jonesboro, A. J. Ensminger, Wisner, Hal Bynum, Rayville, W. H. Griffin, Bastrop, C. F. Woodcock, West Monroe, and W. W. Stevens, Monroe.

Registration for the course, under the supervision of J. W. Webster, will begin at 2:00 p. m., Saturday, April 10. The course will officially open at 3:00 p. m. when President Clarkson welcomes the group. During the afternoon each patrol, under its patrol leader, will complete the organization necessary for the course.

After observing a cooking demonstration, the Scouters will cook their own supper without utensils. The demonstration by a group of senior Scouts in the council will show different ways of preparing food without utensils.

The evening program will be highlighted by a program planning project lead by A. J. Ensminger, of Wisner. An interesting film on the subject will be shown, followed by a project by the patrols on program planning and program aids. Other films to be shown are "The Patrol Method" and "The Scout Advancement Program."

J. D. Bice, Ruston, will lead a discussion on the patrol method and Chet Steadman, Jonesboro, will discuss troop leadership. Other very important topics to be taken up will be troop records and the troop budget system, to be presented by L. L. Price, Monroe. Throughout the program, patrols will carry out ceremonies and other projects which will be assigned to them. The Saturday program will be closed with a course on star study and night orientation, headed by Hal Bynum, Rayville.

The Sunday morning program will begin with a devotional service immediately after breakfast. This is to be lead by Jack Spaulding, council commissioner. This religious service is to be for all denominations and faiths.

Following the church service, the morning is to be spent in actual practice of Scouting skills. These include nature, compass, mapping, tracking and observation, axemanship, and rope work. An interesting first aid project for patrols will be held after dinner, lead by Gerald Harrigill, field Scout executive.

Certificates will be issued by the leadership training chairman at the close of the course Sunday afternoon. The course is scheduled to close by 2:00 p. m. This Scoutmasters' training course is the basic course for Scout leaders, and is a part of the Ouachita Valley Council's plan to improve the Scouting program throughout the council area by giving special training to Scout leaders. More courses on several different Scouting subjects will be held in the council during the year.

MUST REGISTER DOGS IN PARISH

Clinics Will Be Held By Licensed Veterinarians Here

The rabies clinics for the vaccination and registration of all dogs in Ouachita parish is scheduled to begin Monday, April 5. These clinics are conducted by licensed veterinarians who are residents of this parish. The fee for vaccination and registration is $1.50 for each dog.

Beginning May 1, 1948, all dogs not wearing a tag showing recent vaccination will be impounded and if not claimed in five days will be destroyed.

This program was inaugurated by the health department in March, 1944, and the following table is an indication of its effectiveness:

Animal Year	Heads Total	Examined Positive	For Rabies Negative
1944	30	15	15
1945	22	7	15
1946	6	0	6
1947	15	1	14

People Given	Pasteur Treatment
1943	27
1944	33
1945	9
1946	1
1947	3

Although the prevalence of rabies has been materially reduced through the control program as indicated in the tables, there are indications now that we must vaccinate all dogs or we may face a repetition of the years 1943, 1944 and 1945.

JUVENILE COURT GROUP TO MEET

Will Assemble In Courthouse Friday To Tell Of Local Needs

The Juvenile Court Commission appointed by the governor to make a survey of the needs of children of Louisiana will report its findings in a meeting in the main courtroom of the Ouachita parish courthouse, at 7 p. m., Friday, April 9.

In July, 1947, in one of a series of meetings at strategic points over the state, the commission asked participation of people from the community. Needs of children, resources of the communities, suggestions and plans were presented. The meeting in Monroe was attended, not only by interested citizens of the Twin Cities and Ouachita parish, but also by people from 15 other parishes.

The commission in its first swing around the state, collected on wire recording the proceedings of each meeting. These records and other material submitted have been reviewed and compiled into several tentative recommendations which will be presented in this second series of meetings.

Recommendations which have legal implications are on a constitutional section on juvenile courts, the juvenile court act, the juvenile probation act, the juvenile correction act, a Louisiana youth commission, and a revision of the surrender and abandonment act.

More general recommendations are on such subjects as long-time care of children away from their own homes, law enforcement officers, judges, publicity of juvenile cases, child guidance clinics, religion, education, recreation, economic security, enforcement of child labor and other laws for the protection of children, and marriage laws.

The juvenile court commission is composed of five members, Judge Chris Barnette, Judge Frank Voelker, W. S. Terry, Jr., Mrs. Roger P. Sharp, and Miss Elizabeth Wisner, and the executive secretary, Miss Ethel Muse.

DEMOCRACY WILL BE P.-T. A. THEME

Parents, Teachers Participation In Activating Government To Be Stressed

"Democracy Activated by Parents and Teachers" will be the theme of the silver jubilee convention of the Louisiana Parent-Teacher Association in Lafayette April 15-17.

Much serious and pertinent material is on the agenda, according to Mrs. W. S. Vincent, president of the state organization.

Headquarters will be at the Evangeline hotel where post convention board meetings also are scheduled. Regular sessions of the conference are to be held on the Southwestern Louisiana Institute campus. Exhibits, including publicity books and safety posters, will be displayed at Burke Hall. President Joel Fletcher has extended the hospitality of the college and various school, and governmental officials of the parish and city have expressed deep interest in having the meeting in the historic little city of Lafayette.

The National Congress is sending Dr. Ralph Ojemann, professor of child development, State University of Iowa, who will speak on "Developing Democracy in Family Life." He will participate in a conference on Home and Family Life, and also will be the speaker at the banquet Friday night, April 16, when he will talk on "Education as an Essential Process in Democracy."

Going along with all the serious phases of the program, Mrs. Pat Juneau and the Lafayette convention committee have arranged a series of social events. On Thursday there is to be a tour of the historic Teche country to St. Martinville. There visitors may enjoy a trip through the Longfellow Evangeline Memorial Park which includes the Gabriel House that dates back to early Acadian days and contains furnishings typical of old Acadian homes. In the Catholic churchyard will be seen the statue of Evangeline and her tomb.

Friday will include the president's luncheon at the Oak Grove and a coffee hour given by Southwestern in Harris Hall for all delegates. Friday's banquet is to be given at Riverside Inn.

Transportation has been adequately provided, Mrs. Juneau said. Every possible care has been taken to make this a most enjoyable as well as instructive meeting, she added.

Since this is the silver anniversary of the P.-T. A., the state president is requesting that as many members of the organization as possible make plans to attend and that teachers be made special guests of the units wherever it is feasible. Delegates are also requested to make reservations as early as possible.

LECTURER

DR. SCHUSCHNIGG

DR. SCHUSCHNIGG TO SPEAK HERE

Former Austrian Chancellor To Address Town Hall

The 1948 drive of Town Hall for membership which has been in progress all last week from temporary headquarters in Hotel Virginia lobby, will terminate April 6 when the new season will open with the presentation of Dr. Kurt von Schuschnigg, former chancellor of Austria. This speaker has been greatly in demand by Town Hall groups and his appearance here will, it is anticipated, fill the auditorium of the Ouachita Parish High School to capacity Tuesday at 8 p.m. Ticket sales will close with this performance.

When Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss was assassinated by the Nazis in 1934, he requested on his death bed that Dr. Schuschnigg become his successor. Schuschnigg remained chief of the Austrian government until 1938 when Hitler ordered him to "resign in sixty minutes." After futile telephone calls to London, Paris and Rome to obtain help, Dr. Schuschnigg abandoned his post and was immediately taken prisoner. His motive in resigning was to guarantee the independence of his country, but despite his acceptance of the Nazi ultimatum, the German army marched into Austria the next day.

After his liberation by the American fifth army in May, 1945, Dr. Schuschnigg lectured extensively in Europe and testified in English at the Nuremburg trials. Then accompanied by his wife who had joined him in prison, he came to the United States. He returned to Europe the summer of 1947 to lecture in Holland and Belgium and to visit France and Italy.

Dr. Schuschnigg states that he has no intention of returning to politics even after the occupying powers withdraw from Austria. He thinks, however, that the people of Austria should be permitted to vote in a plebiscite on their form of government and independence. He believes that it is possible for Germany to become a democratic country because there were many outstanding advocates of democracy there before the advent of Hitler.

The ex-chancelllor speaks in accented but easily understood English. His lectures are punctuated with wit and humor as he describes events and meetings leading up to the invasion of Austria. He has snow-white hair, the only outward sign of his tragic years as a Nazi prisoner.

TARZAN
by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS
IN AN INSTANT, THE ENGLISH LORD WAS TRANSFORMED INTO A SAVAGE, AVENGING JUNGLE BEAST FIGHTING TO PROTECT HIS MATE WITH NO THOUGHT OF THE GREAT ODDS AGAINST HIM.
IN VAIN, JANE TRIED TO RALLY THE DEMORALIZED SLAVES TO TURN AGAINST THEIR MASTERS AND FIGHT FOR THEIR FREEDOM.
TARZAN HEARD N'ANI SCREAMING ENCOURAGEMENT TO THE MATABELE, AND, AS THEY RUSHED FORWARD, HE DROVE THEM BACK WITH SAVAGE FURY.

Sis Says She Just Went Out!
SKIP IT, JUNIOR! WE'LL CRACK JOKES TOGETHER SOME OTHER TIME. RIGHT NOW YOUR SISTER AND I HAVE A DATE!
BET YOU DON'T, DICK! YOU DIDN'T HEAR SIS SOUNDING OFF ABOUT PEOPLE WITH BAD BREATH LIKE I JUST DID!
BUT I DIDN'T FINISH YET! SIS SAID IF YOU WENT TO YOUR DENTIST—HE'D FIX EVERYTHING UP FINE! SO WHY DON'T YOU GO, DICK?
DICK SEES HIS DENTIST!
"HERE'S WHY: COLGATE DENTAL CREAM HAS AN ACTIVE PENETRATING FOAM THAT GETS INTO THE HIDDEN CREVICES BETWEEN TEETH— HELPS CLEAN OUT DECAYING FOOD PARTICLES— STOP STAGNANT SALIVA ODORS— REMOVE THE CAUSE OF MUCH BAD BREATH. AND COLGATE'S SOFT POLISHING AGENT CLEANS ENAMEL THOROUGHLY, GENTLY, SAFELY!"
COLGATE DENTAL CREAM DOES A SUPER JOB OF POLISHING TEETH, TOO! AND HOW I GO FOR COLGATE'S GRAND WAKE-UP FLAVOR!
LATER— THANKS TO COLGATE DENTAL CREAM
I TOLD DICK WHAT IT'S ALL ABOUT, AND NOW SIS SAYS I SHOULD GO OUT!
